Lady Bird Visit First Installment?

LBJ May Be Active in Nebraska's Senate Campaign

Curtis . . . on purge list?

By PAT MUNROE
Special to the Sunday Journal and Star

Washington — The recent visit of the First Lady to Nebraska may be but the first installment to rather intensive participation by the President and his wife in this year's senatorial election there.

There's no way to prove it (no letters, very little conversation) but the President has put Sen. Carl Curtis fairly high on his list of those he'd like to see out of Congress.

The President and Curtis are of different political parties and philosophies of government. For example, you find Curtis voting with the Senate conservative coalition, according to Congressional Quarterly, 82% of the time in the 1963-64 sessions.

Morrison . . . helped or hurt?

However, Curtis' support of the group dropped to only 62% well below that of Sen. Everett Dirksen, R-Ill., Senate majority leader, who scored 77%, also below such Senate Democratic stalwarts from the South as Holland (Fla.) 87%, and Talmadge (Ga.), 85%.

'Old Friend'?

There's also little evidence to support the argument that Gov. Frank Morrison is "an old and dear friend" of the First Family, despite the fact that he was an overnight guest at the White House.

To find a situation paralleling the present efforts of the Democratic members of the Senate, in fact, you'd have to go back to President Franklin Roosevelt's attempts to

Apologetic Vicar

Who the H's Driving?

York, England (UPI) — The Vicar of nearby Bishopthorpe had an awkward moment Saturday when he tried to trace the owner of car keys lost at a church missions fete.

Two archbishops were standing beside the Vicar, Canon Mark Green, as he stepped up to the microphone. They were the Archbishop of Jerusalem, the Most Rev. A. C. Macinnes, and the Archbishop of York, Dr Donald Coggan

"We have some lost property to be claimed," the Vicar announced. "Someone had dropped his car key. It has a label, but I don't know whether I dare read it to you."

The Vicar turned apologetically to the two archbishops and then added:

"The label says: 'Shut up, who the hell's driving this car?' "

Meredith Leading Marchers

Resumes Walk In Mississippi

Jackson, Miss. (UPI) — James H. Meredith, assuring authorities that he carried no gun, led 250 followers onto a Negro college campus Saturday at the end of the last long leg of the "freedom" march that nearly cost him his life.

Meredith, returned for the last day of long marching, had to drop out and ride in a car for a couple of miles when his right leg, hit by birdshot from a sniper's shotgun June 6, began to cramp.

About a mile from Tougaloo College on the outskirts of Jackson, about 1,000 Negroes —including Dr. Martin Luther King — met Meredith's column and accompanied it to the campus.

The day's march covered 15 miles between Canton and Tougaloo.

The marchers had to speed up their tempo toward the end of the walk, and began jogging along at 120 steps a minute. This was too much for Meredith. He said a march doctor "told me" to drop out because "my legs were swelling up."

Camp at School

The main body of marchers that took up the march after Meredith was wounded is encamped at the school. A big rally featuring entertainment by Sammy Davis Jr., Marlon Brando, Burt Lancaster and other Hollywood stars was held there later Saturday night.

Hundreds of persons streamed onto the campus during the day for the rally and the mass march on the Mississippi Capitol that will step off from the school Sunday.

An estimated 1,000 persons were milling around the tree-lined grounds by later afternoon, and Negro leaders predicted there would be at least twice that number when the march starts Sunday.

Tables loaded with fried chicken, butter beans and other southern food favorites were set up on the campus during the afternoon and the gathering took on all the earmarks of a massive picnic.

Troopers Alert

The heavy contingent of troopers guarding the Meredith hike took no chances. Anyone who appeared in anyway suspicious was told to stay away from the highway.

As the column neared the town of Madison, seven carloads of white youths were ordered from a school grounds.

Marching with Meredith, who was wearing a pith helmet and carrying a swagger stick, was comedian Dick Gregory and his wife, Lillian.

Also in the line of march was Claude Sterrett, a New York Negro record company executive who was one of the few marchers with Meredith when he was hit by the sniper fire three weeks ago near Hernando, Miss.

Sterrett wore a helmet, Army fatigues and carried a gas mask Saturday.

"My outfit may prevent some trouble," he said.

Meredith, who integrated the University of Mississippi four years ago, accused Mississippi authorities at one point Saturday of failing to provide him with adequate protection.

Boys Will Be Boys, Won't They, Now?

Dayton, Ohio (AP)—Some visiting firemen's merry-making drew over 400 complaining phone calls to police.

Irate citizens complained most about fire-trucks and cars being driven around a suburb, site of a convention, between 2 a.m. and dawn with sirens on and lights flashing.

But police told callers township trustees had told them to let the firemen enjoy themselves.

Johnson Easy on Rights

By FRANK CORMIER

Washington (AP) — President Johnson threaded his way this week through the latest civil rights crisis in Mississippi like a man treading on eggs.

Opinion Analysis Of Author

Characteristically, Johnson sought a middle-ground in dealing with the violence-punctuated civil rights march in that Deep - South state.

Most obviously, he carefully avoided indentification with the Negro leaders organizing the trek and turned aside their request for federal protection, saying the state could do the job.

At the same time, Johnson also skirted identification with Mississippi's Democratic governor, Paul B. Johnson, a segregationist but an advocate of moderation.

In this case, the President apparently felt that if, as a champion of civil rights, he seemed to be working closely with the governor, this might prove to be a political kiss of death for the state official.

When Dr. Martin Luther King sought federal protection for the marchers, Johnson wired back that he had assurances from the governor that law and order would be maintained. The White House emphasized at the time there had been no direct contact between the two Johnsons.

A few hours after this White House announcement, the Mississippi highway patrol—the force designated by the governor to protect the marchers—fired tear gas at them after they tried to pitch their tents on the grounds of a Negro school.

The administration's reaction to this development seemed approving of the steps taken by the state patrol. A spokesman said publicly the marchers had been offered three sites for tenting but chose a fourth where they were barred. Thus he suggested the marchers had invited the tear gas attack.

Johnson's rather neutral stance apparently has been influenced, at least to some degree, by the militant black nationalism evidenced by the "black power" cry of some marchers.

Reds Denounce 'Black Power'

New York (UPI) —The American Communist Party—usually in the forefront of radicalism — Saturday deplored the radicalism of Negro leaders who advocate "Black Power."

After debating the issue in its sweltering convention hall, the party said it could not agree with Negroes who denounce integration as a fraud designed to keep whites in control.

Dr James Jackson, a Negro and the publisher of The Worker, the Communists' twice-weekly paper, said "Black Power" was all right only when used to achieve integration and "maximum togetherness."

Premier Ky's Grip Praised by Lodge

Saigon (AP)—Optimism about the Vietnam scene is evident among Saigon and American officials this weekend to a degree unparalleled in recent years.

There was a reflection of this in remarks by U.S. Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge to newsmen here Saturday.

"On the military side, the government is going particularly well," Lodge said, and it has scored "a solid political victory in the recent situation here."

The optimism is based on a series of factors. Among them:

Premier Nguyen Cao Ky has strengthened his hand, reducing the Buddhist opposition largely to meaningless gestures of protest At the same time, Ky has been working with moderate Buddhists in an effort to rally them to his program.

The machinery for holding a national election is gradually being put in motion. The election, scheduled for Sept. 11, will name a constituent assembly which, in turn, is to draft a national constitution as a step toward the return of civilian rule.

The Viet Cong failed to exploit the spring political turmoil to any great extent and drew no visible profit from the Buddhist dissidence in the northern provinces.

Massive Presence

The massive presence of American servicemen—now about 271,000 strong—is clearly showing results. Viet Cong movement of both troops and supplies has been seriously hampered by U.S. air and ground pressure.

In this atmosphere Vietnamese and American officials speak confidently of victory, although the Americans, taught by the lesson of premature optimism in the past, are careful not to speculate on a timetable.

Premier Ky himself has promised victory in 1967.

Meanwhile, questioning of Communist prisoners and defectors has turned up signs of a growing sense of hopelessness among some elements of the Viet Cong in South Vietnam, Washington sources said Saturday.

Analysis of interrogations suggests that the Viet Cong are beset with rising problems stemming from the increasing intensity of U.S. and South Vietnamese military operations and mounting VC losses.

Morale Fragile

The sources said VC morale appears to have become fragile, at least among some of the lower-ranking military and civilian cadres, and the fighting capability of some of the VC units seems to have deteriorated.

In the war, blows by U.S. B 52 bombers Saturday expanded American spoiling operations designed to keep infiltrated North Vietnamese regulars from mounting a rainy season drive across the waist of South Vietnam.

While U.S. troops fought Communist battalions on both flanks of the highlands, the eight-engine jets from Guam rained 750-pound bombs on targets — officially identified as a troop concentration, supply depot and rice storage area—30 miles northwest of Pleiku.

The announced toll of enemy dead this week from the two related ground operations mounted to 474. American losses in both cases were called light.

Monsoon But No Attack

By KEEYES BEECH
Chicago Daily News Foreign Service

Saigon — There is no Communist monsoon offensive in South Vietnam, nor is there likely to be.

It isn't that the Communists wouldn't like to have a monsoon offensive. They most definitely would. But they have a problem, and that is the American monsoon offensive. This in large measure explains why there is no Communist monsoon offensive.

The expected Communist offensive is nearly eight weeks overdue, and its failure to materialize has almost become a source of embarrassment to U.S. military commanders here. It creates a bad impression, especially at a time when Gen. William C. Westmoreland, like every other field commander in history, is asking for more of everything including men to finish off the war.

Certainly there was good reason to expect that the Communists were planning an offensive to coincide with the start of the monsoon or rainy season. During the first four months of this year Hanoi sent nearly 20,000 North Vietnamese troops into the South, bringing the total number of northerners in the South to 30,000 men.

But the offensive hasn't come off. The reasons are not hard to find.

First and foremost is the fact that every time the Communists raise their heads they get clobbered. More and more often, they are getting clobbered without raising their heads.

Second, the enemy is being so relentlessly hounded, in the air and on the ground, that he has little or no time to get set for a major attack.

Third, whenever the Communists mass enough men for a major attack they are running the risk of annihilation by American airpower and artillery. They are, in effect, fighting on our terms rather than theirs, and this is something good. Asian Communists are never supposed to do.

Fourth, it is questionable whether the Communists can accumulate enough supplies to sustain a major offensive.

Heat Soars in Riot Area of Cleveland

Police 'Saturate' Racially Troubled East Side Area

Cleveland (UPI)—Darkness fell over the city's racially troubled east side slums Saturday night with mobile police task forces poised to move in at the first sign of trouble.

Two mobile command posts were established, foot patrols were increased and a helicopter, equipped with a search light stood by to maintain order in the quiet but tension-packed area.

The temperature hovered in the 90s and the streets were filled with residents but there were no signs of disturbance similar to those which erupted Thursday night after a 10-year-old boy was shot by a white motorist.

A car operated by UPI reporter Ted Virostko was stoned Saturday night as he drove by the JFK house, a youth development center in front of which about 30 Negroes had gathered. The rock throwers quickly faded back into the crowd. Police later dispersed the group.

About 30 policemen on horses joined the foot patrols and motorcycle units in an effort to disperse crowds as soon as they gathered on street corners.

Temperature Soars

With no serious outbreaks Friday night law enforcement authorities said they "feel that racial unrest that has created intermittent street violence dating back to June 4 requires the same saturation methods" as the temperature in the area soared into the 90s for the fourth straight day.

Fire officials said Saturday there would be special attention paid to the trouble area which is bounded by two large universities on the east, downtown Cleveland on the west, the affluent white suburbs on the south and Lake Erie to the north.

British Hope Deadlock Broken

London (UPI)—Hopes rose Saturday that the deadlock in the 41-day-old maritime strike had finally been broken when the striking National Union of Seamen voted to accept a new shipowners' proposal "as a basis of negotiations."

The NUS 48-member executive committee approved a shipowners' offer to extend their annual leave by nine days to 48 days a year.

Klan Trial Begins Monday

Athens, Ga. (UPI)—Six Ku Klux Klansmen go on trial Monday in the 1964 nightrider slaying of Negro educator Lemuel Penn of Washington, D.C.

Penn, an officer in the Army Reserve, was killed by shotgun blasts as he and two companions drove along a lonely stretch of Georgia highway enroute home to Washington from Ft. Benning, where they had undergone summer training.

Federal Charge

The Klansmen, charged under an 1870 federal statute with conspiring to violate Penn's civil rights, have entered pleas of innocent. They had asked for separate trials, but Federal Judge William A. Bootle ruled last week they would be tried three at a time.

The defendants are Cecil Myers, George Turner, Denver Willis, Herbert Guest, James S. Lackey nad Joseph Howard Sims.

A crowded courtroom is expected when Bootle convenes the session at 9:30 a.m. The first order of business probably will be the selection of a jury.

U.S. Attorney Floyd Buford and Justice Department Lawyer St. John Barrett said earlier they expected about 50 government witnesses to testify. They estimated it would require three to five days to present the government's case.

Attorney Robert Thompson of Gainesville will represent Lackey. James Hudson of Athens is the attorney for the others.

Two of the defendants, Myers and Sims, were tried and acquitted by a state jury in September, 1964, of murder charges in connection with Penn's death. Lackey also was charged with murder by the state but was never brought to trial.

During the trial of Myers and Sims, the state produced an alleged confession by Lackey implicating other Klansmen. Use of this confession has been a bone of contention between the federal government and the defendants in pre-trial maneuvering.

Sims recently underwent psychiatric treatment after he allegedly walked into the Athens general hospital, where his wife worked, and opened fire at her with a pistol. She was wounded in the face but recovered.

Guyana Unrest

Georgetown, Guyana (AP) — Parliament has extended Guyana's state of emergency until Dec. 31 at the bidding of Prime Minister Forbes Burnham.

The extension approved will allow the government to introduce a national security bill to deal with control of explosives and firearms and the detention of persons.

Negro Teachers Vote Integration

Miami Beach (UPI) — The nation's largest all-Negro teacher group, the American Teachers Association, have voted to merge with the National Education Association (NEA).

The only opposition in the 172-3 vote at the group's annual convention came from three Georgia delegates.

The Negro groups represent around 32,000 teachers, largely in the South, while the already integrated NEA, the nation's major teacher organization, has 985,000 members.

Vietnam Will Have to Wait

Manpower, Chopper Shortage Delays Unit

Washington (UPI)—The Army, faced with a tight situation in manpower and helicopter production, may have to wait another year to form a new Air Cavalry division like the pioneering outfit now fighting in Vietnam.

Authorities said Saturday that the whole output of helicopters, along with trained flight and maintenance crews, now was going to Vietnam as fast as company-size units could be organized for general support of ground forces there.

Nothing was left over, it was said, to start forming a new air mobile cavalry division which requires 440 aircraft, nearly all helicopters.

It was expected therefore that it would be another year, maybe longer, before equipment and manpower would begin to be available for another of the unique combat divisions which rely on air rather than land movement.

Can Strike Fast

The division now in Vietnam, the 1st Cavalry (airmobile), has won uniform acceptance in the Army and Defense Department on the basis of demonstrated ability to strike swiftly over long distances. It uses its own built-in aerial fire support instead of traditional artillery.

Close to 25% of the 1,800 choppers in Vietnam belong to this one division.

Defense Secretary Robert S McNamara was so much impressed on an inspection trip last year that he immediately forecast additional divisions. President Johnson endorsed the idea and included the necessary funds in his new budget.

Asia Rail Link

Rawalpindi, Pakistan (AP) — Afghanistan and Pakistan have signed an agreement providing for the operation of a rail link between the two countries. The agreement provides for a rail link between the Pakistani station of Chaman with the Afghanistan town of Spinbaldak, 500 miles southwest of Rawalpindi. Construction will cost over $7 million. The two countries, along with the U.S. Agency for International Development, will finance the construction.

Medics Nix 20c Raise

New York (UPI) — New York City was accused Saturday of stalling efforts to end the "emergency meeting" of some 1,500 Health Department physicians, dentists and optometrists, the first known doctors' strike in U.S. history.

The charge was made by Dr. Donald C. Meyers, a dentist and president-elect of the Doctors Association, the group leading the walkout of professional medical men and women who serve the city's 119 public health clinics and child health stations.

The doctors are seeking higher pay, job security provisions and a guaranteed work year. Money, however, remains the principal issue in stalled negotiations, broken off until Tuesday.

"All we have been offered is 20 cents an hour," said Dr. Meyers. "This is insulting and degrading to the profession and shows the complete irresponsibility of the city."

AEC Holds 2nd Plowshare Test

Washington (AP)—The Atomic Energy Commission conducted another test Saturday in its continuing effort to develop nuclear explosives for peaceful purposes.

The low yield blast was set off underground at the AEC's Nevada test site. It was the second test this year in the Plowshare program, designed for peaceful uses. A low yield blast has a force less than that of 20,000 tons of TNT.

The AEC said the test was part of an experimental effort to develop a special nuclear device which can use a nuclear explosion to produce neutron-rich isotopes of the heavier known chemical elements and perhaps of some new elements.

Auto Bill May Be Stalled

Staggers Asks For Approval

Washington (UPI) — The Federal Auto Safety bill which sped through the Senate without a hitch is expected to run into a momentary go slow signal in a key House committee.

Rep. Harley Staggers, D-W. Va., chairman of the House Commerce Committee, voiced hope Saturday that his group could clear the measure before Congress recesses for the Fourth of July holiday. But other legislators predicted there will be fireworks within the committee before the bill is approved.

Commerce Control

The legislation, passed by a unanimous 76-0 Senate vote Friday, would require U.S. and foreign car makers to comply with auto safety regulations to be issued by the Secretary of Commerce.

By a voice vote, the Senate also quickly passed a companion bill authorizing a $465 million program to promote safety and accident prevention at the state and city level.

The first mandatory devices would not be required until the 1968 models appear in the fall of 1967, and no major changes in design and equipment are expected until the following year.

However, the "big four" of automaking—General Motors, Ford, Chrysler and American Motors—are already preparing to install new safety devices in the models to appear in the show rooms this fall.

GSA Standards

The first safety features would be those now required by the General Services Administration which purchases all government cars. They probably would consist of rear seat safety belts, padded dashboards and a collapsible steering wheel which would give under impact.

The industry sees no problem in meeting these mandatory requirements even before being ordered to do so by the Secretary of Commerce. But additional standards anticipated for the 1969 models are expected to create bigger problems of redesign and retooling.

Baker Investigators Top 'Ouster' List

"dump" certain conservative Democrats in 1938.

The list included Sen. Walter George, D-Ga., who bravely insisted on sitting on the same platform at a rally when the President asked his audience of Georgians to vote for George's more liberal opponent.

After the President's speech, George went up to him and said:

"I want you to know that I accept this challenge."

The President, ever gay, warmly shook George's hand, and said: "God bless you, Walter. May we always be friends."

Lesson Not Lost

Now, this incident greatly aided George (and other Democrats marked for purging) to be re-elected. And the lesson is not lost on President Johnson, who has a great facility for not repeating observable political errors

But he has taken special pains to defeat Republican members of the Senate involved in the expose of his former aides, Walter Jenkins and Bobby Baker. Jenkins was arrested on a morals charge involving another male only a short time before the 1964 Presidential elections, and Baker, a former Senate secretary, is to be tried for alleged malfeasance of office later this year.

The senator who did most to expose the Baker case, John Williams, R-Del., was subjected in '64 to intensive Presidential attention and barely escaped defeat for reelection.

Next to Williams, perhaps no member of Congress has been more intensive than Curtis in his efforts to expose Baker and to obtain details as to the Jenkins affair. However, the Democratic majority on the Senate Rules and Administration has repeatedly silenced efforts to probe more deeply and publicly into a subject with such direct ties back to the White House.

Seasoned Pros

Bringing all this up to date, Curtis hasn't been frozen out of any White House affairs involving his work in the Senate. In fact, the President greets him jovially and first names him when the two meet at the White House or elsewhere. But both are seasoned pros and know what the other is thinking

The big question now remaining regarding the President's activities in behalf of the Democratic candidates is: will his appearances with particular candidates help or hurt them? For example, recent public opinion polls show a sharp drop in the President's ratings, thanks largely to the U.S. involvement in Vietnam.

The President, so far as is known, plans to tour the country rather intensively in coming months. How could a candidate for office (Morrison, for example) tell him candidly not to come to a particular state if the President were determined to come anyway?

That's one of the interesting developments ahead in this election year.

Ethics Committee Will Study Dodd Case Issues

Washington (AP)—Sen. John Sherman Cooper, R-Ky., said Saturday the Senate Ethics Committee is going into all the charges against Sen. Thomas J. Dodd, D-Conn., including disposition of political-dinner funds.

Cooper said that when the group concludes current hearings into Dodd's relationship with Julius Klein, Chicago public relations man and agent for West German business interests, it will set its staff to work on "all of the issues that have been brought up"

Specifically, Cooper said, this could include tracing the distribution of financial proceeds from four testimonial dinners given in Connecticut for Dodd

Sen. Eugene J McCarthy, D-Minn, who previously had expressed some doubt on the committee's authority to go into such matters, said he believes the issue of the dinner proceeds is "an in-between one" where the committee must proceed cautiously

'Should Proceed'

But Cooper said he has no doubt that group should proceed.

"I think our committee has authority to go into every matter that has been brought up about Sen Dodd, with the exception of any possible tax liability," Cooper said "We are not going to sweep anything under the rug"

Agreeing with this viewpoint, Sen. James B. Pearson, R-Kan., another committee member, said he thinks the committee is proceeding cautiously because it is following an uncharted highway in its first investigation

"I know there have been some charges that the committee is dragging its feet," he said. "But we have to proceed cautiously because we bear the burden of setting precedents for the future

The committee resumes public hearings Monday on charges of columnists Drew Pearson and Jack Anderson that Dodd acted as an "errand boy" for Klein. It will be a family day with Dodd and Mrs. Dodd testifying.

IRS Investigates

A committee member said the staff has been gathering material on the Pearson-Anderson charges that Dodd converted to his personal—rather than campaign—use money raised at the dinners The Internal Revenue Service, has said it is looking into the matter.

Some who attended the dinners apparently thought they were to raise campaign funds

President Johnson, then the vice president, was the principal speaker at one in November, 1961, and appeared at another in October, 1963. Vice President Hubert Humphrey, then a senator, addressed the latter affair.

Neither Johnson nor Humphrey attended an October, 1964, dinner, but Humphrey, as vice president, was principal speaker at a March, 1965, dinner. There have been estimates that the proceeds from these affairs totalled around $200,000.

The six-member Ethics Committee was set up in the aftermath of the Bobby Baker case, involving a former secretary of the Senate Democratic majority who amassed a fortune while serving in his $19,600-a-year Senate post.

Parties Meet to Pick Candidates

By the Associated Press

Minnesota Republicans broke a state convention stalemate late Saturday by relaxing endorsement requirements and chose Harold E. LeVander, 55-year-old lawyer as the party's choice for governor after 15 deadlocked ballots.

Elsewhere New York, Connecticut, and Virginia parties readied themselves over the weekend for conventions next week. In Mississippi and South Carolina Tuesday, party runoff primaries will be held but neither state runoff involves a major office.

LeVander defeated John S. Pillsbury Jr., 53, after a statemate that lasted most of two days.

Barring upsets in the Sept. 13 primary, LeVander will oppose Lt. Gov. A. M. (Sandy) Keith, 37, the upset winner for the Democratic-Farmer-Labor Party endorsement for governor in an equally stubborn convention a week ago.

New York

New York nominates Democratic and Republican candidates for 41 house seats in a primary Tuesday. In the present Congress, the party division is 27 Democrats and 14 Republicans.

Gov. Nelson Rockefeller's present term expires this year and there will be a gubernatorial election in the fall, but in New York, nominations for statewide offices are made in party conventions rather than in the primary.

Both major parties will hold their conventions Sept. 7-8.

On Friday, Connecticut Democrats open a two-day convention expected to renominate Gov. John N. Dempsey. Republicans chose E. Clayton Gengras, a West Hartford businessman, last week to run against Dempsey.

Virginia Republicans hold their convention next Saturday to pick two nominees for the senate.

Detroit (AP) — Seventeen city policemen have been suspended and are under indictment on charges of lying about alleged gifts of money and liquor from bar owners.

No One Visits Mental Patient

Jacksonville Ill (AP)—A 93-year-old man has been confined to a state mental hospital since 1899 and records show he has never had a visitor in the 67 years.

The Chicago Daily News said that Robert Johnson—not his real name — was brought to the then-named Illinois Central Hospital for the Insane Feb. 19, 1899.

Illinois law prohibits the publication of mental patients' names

A six-man jury heard his case at the time and officially concluded Johnson suffered from a clear-cut case of idiocy.

The result: He has never lived in the outside world in the 20th century.

A transcript of the sanity hearing in 1899 contains only vague notations written in longhand such as wants to wander and stray about"

A doctor testified that the man—then 26—had a "nervous temperament and suffered attacks of idiocy"

There was a unanimous verdict for commitment, closing out Court File 155. But a new file was opened when the Pike County sheriff delivered the patient to the hospital

At 93, Johnson is alert and cheerful but still disturbed and confused. The latest annual notation in his file is the same as in all previous ones: "health satisfactory—no marked change in mental condition."

He apparently has never had a visitor, although he received a Christmas package in 1919 from a relative in Kansas. A notation entered in the file 15 years ago said "no relatives interested"

From the first, Johnson apparently was calm and cooperative, as he is today. He is able to walk, talk, write his name and read large type.

Johnson told the Daily News he didn't know where he was or why he was there.

Numerous discoveries have been made in the past 67 years to treat mental illness. But they have come too late to help Johnson.

Inadequate Air Service

It goes without saying that, in an era of high speed transportation, the city that has good commercial air service has quite a jump on the city that doesn't.

Lincoln leaders repeatedly have called the attention of airlines and official agencies to its inadequacies in air service. Direct non-stop service to Chicago is a particularly pressing need.

• • •

Now Omaha, too, has received factual evidence of its air service deficiencies. A study prepared by the Omaha Airport Authority shows that city is being short-changed in virtually every category of air service.

• • •

By contrast, Kansas City is in the process of expanding considerably its air service which already is substantially superior to that of Omaha-Lincoln. This is all the more remarkable since Kansas City's air traffic in some instances is not as heavy as that from Omaha and Lincoln.

The Omaha study shows that in the past five years the number of passengers using United Air Lines out of Omaha has increased 75% while the number of United flights has increased by about a third of that rate. United is the only east-west trunk line serving Omaha.

Kansas City, already served by several trunk lines, is bidding for another in Eastern Air Lines, fourth largest in the country. The Kansas City Star reports that "the eventual outlook for improved trunk-airline connections in and out of Kansas City now appears highly encouraging."

• • •

The Omaha study reveals that 37 of 40 cities with air connections to Washington-Baltimore have a higher level of service than does Omaha—this despite the fact that Omaha exchanges more passengers with the nation's capital than many of the other cities including Kansas City.

• • •

Omaha has but two direct flights to Washington, neither non-stop. Kansas City, with less traffic, has five direct flights to the capital each day, two of them non-stop.

Because United has refused to provide Lincoln with direct service to eastern cities, the Omaha traffic includes those travelers boarding and departing at Lincoln.

Clearly, this is a joint problem for both Omaha and Lincoln. Since air service bears so heavily on overall economic progress, it really is a problem for the whole state.

The facts plainly warrant a renewed and coordinated effort by both cities, along with state government, to provide Omaha and Lincoln with air service commensurate with their potential.

This can start with fresh overtures to United for improved service. As the Omaha World-Herald points out, however, unless results are forthcoming quickly, there will be ample justification to seek other east-west trunk line carriers. Lincoln has as much stake as Omaha in this effort.

At the same time, it would not hurt if Omaha and Lincoln interests once again were to explore the possibilities of jointly developing a super-airport, capable of handling the giant jets soon to be placed in service, somewhere in the vicinity of Ashland.

• • •

The two cities should make sure that a lack of facilities can never be used as an excuse for a lack of service.

Some Didn't Come Home

There is almost a resigned acceptance that in times of war sacrifice does not fall equally upon the populace. One almost gets into the numbers game.

One writer has figured out a young man's chances of serving in the Armed Forces—only 4 out 10 will be called. The odds against assignment to Vietnam are longer. The ratio is 8 to 1 if he goes into the Army and longer if goes into the Navy, Marine Corps, Air Force of Coast Guard.

• • •

This is all very consoling until one reads of the U.S.S. Enterprise coming home after eight months in the waters around Vietnam. Most of its men came home with it to a jubilant reception, but some did not return.

• • •

Just how many men the Enterprise lost is classified but the skipper said of those lost, "It hurts down deep inside when you lose someone you have lived and fought with. These were brave, good men."

Among the wives, families and friends who were on the dock to greet the returning sailors were the parents of Lt. Cmdr. William Shankel, one of the men who did not return. They just wanted to go down and see the ship their son had loved and served so well.

• • •

All of a sudden the statistics are meaningless. Out of the printed word comes an enveloping sense of sadness and an awareness of the sacrifice of the men who didn't come back on the Enterprise and the many others who will never come home.

• • •

The numbers game is forgotten and in the mind is the image of the lonely parents standing on the dock. This is what war means to those who make the sacrifices of war.

A WORLD OF HUMOR

What About the Moon?

Washington—The first photos taken of the moon by U.S. Surveyor 1 have been very disappointing. They show the moon to be completely lacking in first-class restaurants, tourist attractions, and bathroom facilities. For all the money it's going to cost us to get there, very little thought has been given to what we do with the place once we have it. The Russians and Americans are in agreement that the moon should not be used as a military base, so someone is going to have to come up with other ideas as to how we can make the moon pay off.

Buchwald

Several ideas have been submitted and each one is getting careful consideration. We know from the photographs that the moon is made up of craters and rocks. Nothing can grow on it, but this could be turned into an advantage. The U.S. government pays farmers not to grow wheat, cotton, tobacco, and corn. Since you can't grow anything on the moon, we could leave it just the way it was and collect millions of dollars a year from the Department of Agriculture. In no time our investment in the moon would pay for itself.

• • •

Another idea which has been suggested is to use the moon as a dumping place for junked cars. Special missiles could be developed to carry the junked cars to the moon and they could be left in large piles in the craters.

• • •

A third idea which makes sense is to lease the moon to an outdoor advertising company which would build the largest neon sign known to man.

Since mostly lovers look at the moon, it would be a perfect place to advertise a soap, a 24-hour deodorant, or a mouth wash that makes it possible for people to have close friends.

In any case, the "Committee To Decide What To Do About the Moon" is still working on it, and no decision will be made until someone lands there.

Wheat (Really) Turns to Gold

Agriculture is known as fickle and often lives up to its billing. It is fickle in that the market and the harvest are so unpredictable.

For years, the farmer has lived a life of relative plenty one year and near-disaster the next. Put his fulfillment curve on a graph and you would have a series of peaks and valleys.

And so it is today with wheat. Editorial Research Reports (ERR) points out that "surplus wheat once amounted to an embarrassment of riches that Washington found more embarrassing than enriching. The excess grain could hardly be given away, let alone sold for hard currency . . .

• • •

"Today American wheat is being eaten, here and abroad, faster than farmers can grow it. Wheat reserves on hand at the end of the 1965-66 crop marketing year, June 30, will aggregate about 550 million bushels, as compared with 1.4 billion bushels five years ago. By mid-1967, the reserve will have shrunk to a projected 250 million-350 million bushels."

• • •

Federal farm officials find concern in the situation since they view 650 million to 750 million as the minimum safe strategic stockpile of wheat. And things are likely to get worse before they get better since the 1966 crops is predicted to be cut from drought and late frost.

ERR reports that the dream of America feeding the world is only a dream. Thus, Congress is in the process of passing a new Food for Freedom bill that would place emphasis on increasing agricultural production abroad.

According to ERR, an amendment to the bill provides that if reserves of wheat drop below 25 percent of a year's consumption — that is, below 375 million bushels — the Commodity Credit Corporation would have to increase its resale price to 115 percent of the support price.

• • •

"This would, in effect, raise the lid on wheat prices when no surplus exists," states ERR, "because C.C.C. now sells from its stocks whenever the market price exceeds 105% of the support price. At long last, the wheat farmer can see the pot at the end of the rainbow."

• • •

The final statement, we remind you, is that of ERR. The wheat farmer may see the pot at the end of the rainbow but whether he ever manages to grab onto it is another question.

Already, it is granted that the pot will not be in hand for the 1966 crop year. That leaves the pot in the bush rather than the hand for 1967 and the 1967 crop, of course, is not even yet in th ground.

Nature could produce too much or too little in 1967, the price could drop too low, the foreign market could sag or any number of other things could happen to that 1967 crop.

• • •

The wheat farmer may have a gleam in his eye and we hope 1967 transforms it into a twinkle but there are no guarantees of that.

AMA's Benedict Arnold Steps Down

President Appel of AMA shocked doctors last year by urging medicare cooperation; now he retires to colleagues' praises.

Provocative EDITORIAL — Topic in News FEATURE

By ARTHUR J. SNIDER
Chicago Daily News Science Editor

The applause greeting the new president of the American Medical Assn. at induction ceremonies last June in New York was conventionally courteous but without ardor.

In that troubled hour, with medicare having passed one house of Congress, the delegates had hoped for a standard bearer of poise and polish, good lucks and gleaming wit, plus an undefinable magic to pull political rabbits out of the hat.

Instead, stepping before them was a publicly unknown general practitioner whose plain, benign features, inherited from his clergy-man-grandfather, betrayed a self-consciousness over the sudden thrust into center stage. He was the party workhorse being given his just reward for many years of faithful service.

Dr. James Z. Appel shyly acknowledged the plaudits, adjusted his metal-framed glasses, regulated his hearing aid and flattened a manuscript on the rostrum. Television lights reflected from the bald top of his shiny, fringed head.

Delegates resigned themselves to the typical inaugural address extolling the virtues of the AMA, pledging a continued fight against medicare and championing the freedom of medicine. There was nothing in the early portions of the speech to suggest that Jim Appel wasn't the safe, dependable, predictable exponent of the orthodox AMA line.

Then, with no warning, came the switch. Dr. Appel gripped the edges of the rostrum tightly. His fingers were white under the pressure and his face flushed. His flat voice took on timbre:

"HR 6675 (medicare) could become law. Society depends for its orderly existence upon law. We must respect the institution of the law and obey it . . . regardless of our personal opinion, we do not have the right, either as physicians or citizens, to deliberately violate the spirit of the law or its intent . . ."

With a fervor that sent a surge of electricity through the ballroom, Appel went on to call for cooperation between the medical profession and government.

Delegates were stunned. After 30 years of fighting government entry into the medical field, they were being asked to make an 180-degree turnabout.

Even as the delegates were trying to digest the reversal of strategy, Appel was whisked away by AMA public relations representatives to meet the press. The session was stormy.

By nightfall, Appel was deluged with telephone calls and telegrams from physicians from over the country. He was labeled a 'traitor," "betrayer" and "the Benedict Arnold of medicine."

Appel remembers one letter in particular. "It started out, 'You are a —' and then continued for three pages of blasphemy, never repeating a word," he chuckled. "I learned a new vocabulary."

Three letters contained only the fragments of a torn up AMA membership card.

"For four days, the response was 3-to-1 in condemnation of me," Appel continued. "By the second week, the reaction was even, and by the third week, it was 3-to-1 in my favor."

As he reached the end of his term as president, Jim Appel is in undisputed command of the American Medical Assn. Even those who rapped him for moving too far too fast now acknowledge the wisdom of his bold decision to slacken the medicare battle in order to regroup the forces of organized medicine to fight another day.

Dr. Raymond W. McKeon, secretary of the AMA board of trustees, believes the swiftness and adroitness with which Appel acted averted chaos in medical ranks following passage of medicare.

In McKeon's analysis, Appel feared the shattering impact upon doctors on awakening one morning to find the measure they opposed was now a law. He deemed it his duty to warn of defeats, to make adjustments, to salvage what they could by adapting with the law and its administration.

If that meant being called a traitor or renegade, he was willing to risk it.

"Jim Appel led organized medicine in its most trying hour," McKeon asserted. "Few others could have done it. Few would have had the courage, the dedication, the understanding of the issue involved. Jim Appel was the right man, in the right place, at the right time. I believe him to be one of the greatest leaders American medicine has ever had."

Dr. Appel . . . plain talk, not polish.

Appel's turnabout speech was pecked out with two forefingers in his study, a converted sun room in his stucco, Spanish-style home in Lancaster, Pa.

"I showed it to Florence, my wife," he related, "and sent a copy to a few doctor friends and to the AMA headquarters. I got all kinds of answers. Some wanted me to tone it down and others said it was a damned good speech and for gosh sakes don't change it. Others thought the speech was all right but they didn't want it presented. Others made no comments, which I took to be negative. At the AMA headquarters, well, I guess it was entirely different from the one they expected."

After carefully noting all suggestions, Appel turned to his wife for her reaction. "I like your original draft best," she said. The other comments were duly discarded.

As the summer wore on, the Appel position was wining adherents but there remained a hard core of opposition to the cooperative pledge. The dissidents forced a special meeting of the AMA in Chicago in October.

As one explained: "After years of battling the government over socialized medicine, we find the AMA working hand-in-hand with 'em on medicare. We want to find out what the devil has been going on. It is the delegates not the AMA board of trustees or Appel that makes policy in this organization."

As Appel stepped to the Rostrum for his second confrontation with the delegates, they looked about nervously. No one knew the position of his neighbor or the strength of the opposing views. No one was willing to initiate an applause. Appel was greeted in silence.

Once again he rose to the occasion with an address that has been described as "memorable."

"Having made the attempt (to defeat medicare) and lost, we are now expected by the public, press and Congress to act as reasonable and mature men and women," he said, "for the good of ourselves as well as our patients.

"Our next great legislative battle could well concern itself with government participation in the financing of health care of 180 million people under the age of 65. Our voice will be listened to with greater respect if we act with utmost restraint and prudence during this interim period while the government is trying to digest this program for 18 million Americans over 65."

The delegates cheered. Medicine's hero out of nowhere had routed the opposition.

That Jim Appel was capable of engineering an AMA turnaround in less than six months came as no surprise to fellow Pennsylvanians who had watched his growth in medical organizational work.

He rose through all state offices and by age 40 was an elder statesman in Pennsylvania medicine. It was inevitable he would move on to the national scene.

He brought with him the same intensely questioning mind that poked inquiringly into every aspect of the AMA structure. "Never has a man come to the presidency with greater nuts and bolts knowledge of AMA operations," said a headquarters staff man. "He was whittled and honed for the job."

Dr. Percy Hopkins, AMA board chairman, calls him the most knowledgeable man in organized medicine today.

After next week, Dr. Appel returns to the Dutch land of Lancaster to pick up the threads of his general practice in the office-home where he was born 59 years ago.

No man of wealth, Appel has been supported by the per diem stipend allowed an AMA president who is required to be on the road six days a week for speeches and public appearances.

"The next couple of years will be hardest in building that practice back up," he confesses.

But he may find some of his old friends have a surprise for him. A hint of it comes from Dr. Joseph Appleyard of Lancaster.

"Twenty years ago," he recalls, "I was out of office for 16 weeks with pericarditis. Jim Appel put whatever money he collected from my patients into a box and gave me that box when I returned to work."

To Change or Not to Change

The Double Standard in Art

By PHIL THOMAS, AP

There's more to the double-standard than sex.

If a man walks into an art museum with a knife and slashes a priceless oil painting into canvas confetti he nets a jail term or at least a stretch on the psychiatric couch. But, if the same man cuts the heart out of a literary classic by abridging, expurgating, revising or rewriting he nets a fair sum of money.

• • •

How come? Why is it a crime to ruin one work of art and not another?

• • •

Why is it wrong to "improve" a Rembrandt painting by adding a little touch of color but no sin to revise and rewrite A. A. Milne's classic "Winnie the Pooh" because you think Milne took too long to say what he had to say?

There's no quick answer, but that doesn't make it right. And the literary lady who announced recently that she planned to remake Pooh and Piglet and Owl and the rest of Milne's characters in her own image is asked to forget it.

Pooh is Pooh or, to coin a paraphrase, a Pooh without stuffing is no Pooh at all.

It was bad when they made Fagin into a nice guy in a musical comedy. And it was worse when they slashed the glorious thunder from Melville's "Moby Dick" on the ground it interferred with the story's action.

But to kill Christopher Robin? Intolerable!

Why this desire to change things of value? "Brevity, say the changers," clarity, modernizing."

Pooh and Friends.

But not beauty. They always forget beauty.

• • •

Who would remember the Gettysburg Address if Lincoln had begun with "eighty-seven years ago?".

• • •

How about changing it from "in the beginning God, etc." to "first God, etc.?" or, how about "these things are obvious" rather than "we hold these truths to be self-evident?"

Those who prefer the changes ought to be made to write on a blackboard 500 times: "Oh, Lord, my God, I am heartily sorry for having offended thee."

But they'll probably write: "Sorry about that."

Nebraska's Fourth Estate

The wielders of quill and scroll had their eyes on Lincoln last week in many of their editorials.

The Falls City Journal, for one, commented on Lincoln state Sen. Marvin Stromer's move to Hiram Scott College in Scottsbluff. Stromer, the Journal said, could maintain legal residence in Lincoln. But it would be difficult for him to wear both scholar's and senator's hats while still doing justice to both groups he would represent.

Also looking askance at the capital city—or, more accurately, the state—was the Hastings Tribune. Reviewing the NEBRASKAland parade, the Tribune said: "The time, money and energy devoted to staging a parade for a few thousand Lincoln people could better have been devoted to advertising Nebraska to people who aren't familiar with the state."

A Norfolk editorialist wrote not of Lincoln but of an event with a Lincoln parallel, municipal acquisition of Consumer Public Power District facilities. "One thing," the Norfolk Daily News said, "which should be avoided in the future of any city-owned electric system is the temptation to let power users, by paying more than actual costs of service, foot the bill for other city services."

On state politics, the Lexington Clipper foresaw a "spirited campaign this fall." The newspaper expressed optimism the Republican Party could win the governorship with candidate Norbert Tiemann while returning Carl Curtis to the U.S. Senate. But, the Clipper warned, "Certainly recent elections should have taught them (Republicans) early summer prospects are a little like Nebraska crops—they often sparkle in the spring, but dry up before they are harvested."

Drawing perhaps sharpest criticism of the week was State Tax Commissioner George Dworak, whom the Brewster News held responsible for adjusted, and higher, property valuations in six Sandhills counties, including Blaine County. "It is time Nebraskans examined his crude, dictatorial orders and grasped whatever legal crow-bar may be available and started to pry him loose from an office whose powers he is exercising to the detriment of the area cattlemen," the News said.

Local Bus Service

Lincoln—As a daily bus rider for the past 14 years, I would like to compliment the Lincoln City Lines on their excellent service and the drivers who are invariably courteous and helpful.

Few businesses could operate so well as this company does. Not too many people ride the bus, preferring their cars except in bad weather, when I notice they leave their cars at home and ride the bus.

'Housecleaning?'

Lincoln—I think it is time the people of Lincoln woke up and cleaned out the city hall; the mayor and also the City Council.

All they do is figure out a way to spend the people's money. The public doesn't have a vote on anything anymore; and if the people do vote on something, it doesn't do them any good. The mayor and the Council do just as they want to.

Walton — Your newspaper sure gets around. We've heard from four states new on your story carried in Focus, May 29. (Story of Macdonald's 41st Year In Radio.)

Folks have been mighty complimentary about our activities as related in the feature. However, the credit goes to Glenn Kreuscher for the writing and to Bob Gorham for the pictures.

Many thanks to the Sunday Journal and Star for the story.

Whose War Is It?

Washington — When Republicans start calling the American defense of South Vietnam "President Johnson's war," it should be seen for exactly what it is: untrue, reckless, irresponsible, and hurtful to the nation.

And it is also very shoddy partisan politics.

Drummond

This attempt to make the war in Vietnam appear to be the President's exclusive responsibility is untrue because, unlike Korea, he sought and received the approval of Congress to use "all necessary" U.S. armed force to repel the aggression.

Roscoe Drummond on Issues — Editorial Feature

It is reckless because it feeds the most pernicious propaganda of the Communists who, from Hanoi, Peking, Moscow, and elsewhere, are constantly claiming that it is the U.S. that started this war, not the Communists.

• • •

Irresponsible Act

It is irresponsible because it sets in motion a train of consequences—none of them good—which no one can foresee. It feeds divisiveness at home at the very time when substantial national unity is needed and it further encourages the Communists to believe if they can only hold out long enough the divided American people will force the nation to give up.

It is hurtful to the nation because its effect is to say to the American and allied troops in Vietnam that the cause for which they are risking their lives is without the support and approval of the Congress of the United States.

• • •

This is heedless partisan politics at its worst—and it ought to stop.

• • •

Rep. Gerald Ford of Michigan, the Republican leader of the House of Representatives, sought to make this issue—that Vietnam is "President Johnson's war"—with very careful phraseology.

He did not succeed and he could not succeed because it is not accurate.

Rep. Ford said: "It is an undeclared war and in that sense it is President Johnson's war."

• • •

By Act of Congress

Opinion Analysis Of Author

Yes, it is an undeclared war, but it is an undeclared war which has been specifically approved and endorsed by Congress.

It is an undeclared war the necessity for which President Johnson, unlike President Truman in the Korean war, referred to Congress so that there would be no doubt in the mind of the enemy that the government was united in its actions.

On Aug. 7, 1964, the Senate by a vote of 88 to 2 and the House by a vote of 414 to 0 "resolved that the Congress approves and supports the President, as Commander in Chief, to take all necessary measures to repel any armed attacks on the armed forces of the U.S. and to prevent further aggression."

• • •

This resolution also stated that "the U.S. is prepared, as the President determines, to take all necessary steps, including the use of armed force" to assist South Vietnam "in defense of its freedom."

• • •

It affirmed that the maintenance of peace and security in Southeast Asia is "vital" to the U.S.

This resolution was not only voted almost unanimously, but when an attempt was made recently by Sen. Wayne Morse, D., Ore., to revoke it, he could muster only five votes—all from Democrats.

There was not a single Republican in Congress who voted against the resolution putting Congress unequivocally behind the defense of South Vietnam and the Republicans have been supporting the President more unitedly than the Democrats.

The sooner the Republicans cease this ill-conceived, ill-advised attempt to mislabel Vietnam as "President Johnson's war," the better it will be for the nation—and the Republican party.

New York Levies City Income Tax

Chicago Daily News Special

New York — The nation's biggest, brokest city is reaching into its taxpayers' pockets with a new city income tax, which Mayor John V. Lindsay says also is being studied for possible adoption by many other U.S. cities.

"The concept of the income tax for the city is growing in our big cities as they seek their (financial) salvation," Lindsay says.

He said he found fellow mayors at the recent U.S. Conference of Mayors meeting "had on their minds" the idea of a regional tax that would oblige suburban communities to help pay for the central city.

New York City residents will be hit with additional taxes, ranging from $7 for a $5,000-a-year man with wife and two children to $38 for the same family earning $10,000 and $190 for the family of four earning $25,000.

Commuters will pay $5 for the family of four earning $5,000, rising to $20 for the $10,000 family and $60 for the $25,000 family, Lindsay says.

The tax is one-third higher for the commuter who is his own boss, compared to the out-of-town resident employed by somebody else in the city.

Everybody from Washington to City Hall will get a slice of the New Yorker's income under the new setup. He'll pay federal, state and city income tax, plus a 5% sales tax divided between city and state.

Real estate taxes also are going up approximately 9% in the city — 41 cents per $100 assessed valuation.

$64,508 Grant For Student Aid

Washington—The U.S. Office of Education has awarded the Nebraska State Normal Board a grant under the Higher Education Act in the amount of $64,508 for the purpose of establishing a directorate for Nebraska student financial aids.

According to Rep. Clair Callan, D-Neb, the grant will enable the Normal Board to establish an office to work with high schools, post secondary schools and welfare agencies to identify low income students with academic promise and assist them to take advantage of higher education opportunities.

The Congressman also announced that the Office of Education has awarded York College of York, Neb., $1,507 for the purpose of acquiring laboratory and other special equipment to enrich their undergraduate education.

Springer New Home Adjutant

Bernard Q. Springer is the new adjutant in charge of the Norfolk Annex, Nebraska Soldiers and Sailors Home, at the Norfolk State Hospital.

He was assistant adjutant until Robert Broadstone's transfer this week to an administrative post at the Soldiers and Sailors Home at Grand Island.

Law on Law

Miami (AP)—County grand jury investigators raided two bolita (numbers racket) houses recently, arrested three persons—and got a ticket for illegal parking.

"Infuriating," said one of the crime-fighters. "Here we were in this place arresting these people and this policeman is outside writing us a ticket. We argued, but he just kept on writing."

Generation of Doers Seeking to Shape World

By JOHN BARBOUR, AP

They come from the years of good life, and from the moments of their own self-doubt. They are as unalike as nature and growing up can make them. They have just one call in common. They are young, and they know their youth is a precious and fleeting thing.

Some are Peace Corps volunteers. Some are volunteers of Vista, the domestic peace corps. Some serve through smaller groups that spring from college campuses and college consciences. They number in the thousands. They seek a hundred things, and among the things they find are themselves.

These are of the generation of "doers"—those who have spurned the apathy and the grey flannel suit ideals of a previous generation—seeking to shape the world in which they will have to live. Sometimes their words are drowned out in the uproar of rebellions on college campuses; and overshadowed by the protest banners that have blossomed on the campus.

They see that there is not only much to be done, but they believe this is the time to do it.

So, Karen

So it is with Karen Behling. She is 21, a senior at the University of Wisconsin. She is warm-natured and pretty. She lived, until college, in a town of 2,300 people—Oconto Falls, Wis.

Now Karen is a Peace Corps invitee, going probably to Peru to work in urban development. Karen is aware that her's has been a good life.

She feels a built-in obligation to offer to others some of her own good fortune, to give of herself, and to leave some mark of her own on the world.

But her reasons are more than altruistic. She's thinking of graduate school. Her future is still open, still undecided.

"I'm sure that at first it was a romantic image of being off in the jungles, and far away places But then you sense that this is a sort of a new frontier, a way of making progress.

'Tremendous'

"And personally, it will be a tremendous experience. You're in a different situation than you've ever been in before. And even if it should be an unfortunate experience, it has to be valuable. In the end, you know at least you've tried."

You don't have to go to Peru to find another world. On the North Side of Chicago, behind the Lake Shore Drive facade of fancy apartments, is a dingy section where the wind whips sharp, flinging street dirt into your face, and poverty stares back at poverty.

A sign in the store front says, "Hull House Outpost for Teen-age Girls." This is the other world for Susan King. She's 19, from Glendale, Calif., a Vista volunteer who stepped out of college after three months partly because she was tired of hearing the teen-age dramatics of "Joey didn't call, 'I'll never go out with Joey again.'" She asked herself, "Is this what it's going to be like from now on?"

At "the Outpost" she brings her warmth to young girls who live in the cold uncertainty of not enough money, not enough jobs, not enough self respect. To them, she is a big sister, and a window to what the world might be.

Susan has volunteered for a year away from her family—a family that has found comfort in rising above its own problems. her mother isn't well. Her father has been in a wheel chair since he was 16 when polio struck him down. But, between Susan, her older brother, and two younger sisters, there seems to be a great sense of family.

To Get Away

Nevertheless: "You have to get away from home, and do something solid, and get to know people," she explains.

Now she is in a daily battle with forces she can do little about. The spindly girls who come into the "Outpost" look younger, but more tired, than their years. Gradually, they begin to share their lives with her. She is there to console, to listen to the girl whose father took part of the family and moved away, leaving her behind with her mother. She is there to be patient with a girl she thought she had reached, who suddenly let her down.

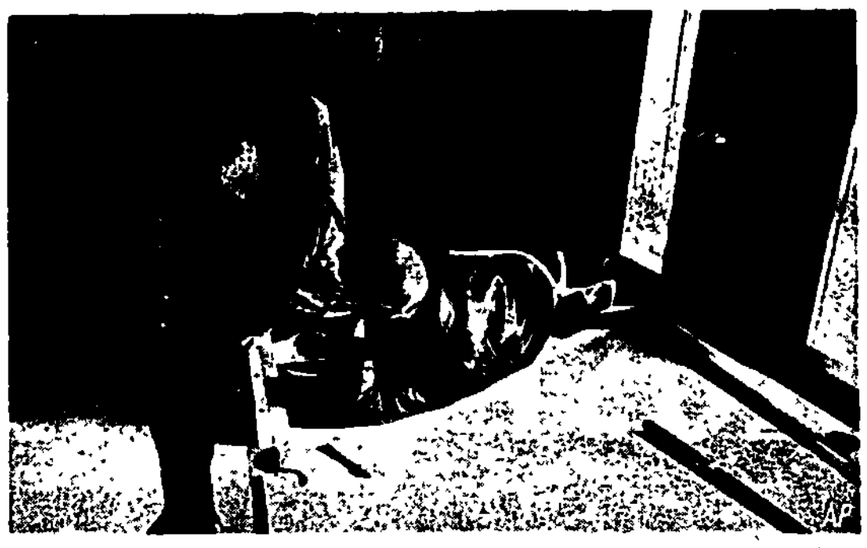
At 19, Susan has a notion of what her months in Chicago have given her. "It's very different from when I was a kid," she says, and adds softly, "That wasn't so long ago. You grow up an awful lot doing something like this. I can see it in myself."

The psychiatrists who have to pick and choose between those who volunteer to serve can catalogue the stated reasons. The kids want to help people, want to do something worthwhile, want to travel and see exotic places, want a new challenge, or perhaps they are only staving off that last requirement—perhaps they fear it—fear slipping into a mold, fear becoming part of the organization, or seek one last fling before becoming part of the 9-to-5, married, walk-the-baby-at-2 a.m. generation.

One expert sees beyond these reasons. "I think they are people who have not completed the work of adolescense," he says. "That's not to say anything bad of them."

Lids Off

Perhaps, he says, they are taking the lids off their consciences. They have grown up with parental order, told how the world will be, told how they should be within that world. But now they are a little older, faced with some frightening drives within themselves. And now they have a time apart to discover within themselves channels for these drives.



Working with people is turning the abstractions of the classroom into the realities of life for a number of college student volunteers. Here Robert Carney of Iselin, N.J., helps a boy with a math problem, with a pool table as "desk," at a small project near Colorado Springs, Colo.

Fallout Coming to Paradise

Papeete, Tahiti (UPI) — Atomic fallout is coming to paradise.

Almost 200 years ago, Capt. James Cook's ship endeavour sailed into Papeete harbor to introduce the white man's civilization.

Now the French atomic fleet has arrived with some bombs to test, and the introduction is about complete.

Howling jet fighters, launched from the aircraft carrier Foch, whip over tranquil South Pacific islands. One of them recently ripped through the sound barrier over carefree Papeete, loosing a blast like the crack of doom.

The French, trying to fill their hand in the atomic poker game, have been ordered out of their Sahara test sites.

The languid loveliness of French Polynesia is about the only blasting room left in their dwindling possessions.

According to authorities, there will be four atomic tests this summer on the French Polynesia Atoll of Moruroa, 800 miles southwest of here.

Although French officials have not announced the date of the first blast, a May 15 warning from Paris notified Pacific ship and air traffic that it could be expected after 45 days.

That would make the tests start around July 1 and would underline the French flair for the dramatic by coinciding with Bastille Day. (July 14).

Natives on Morura atoll, one of hundreds of tiny, palm-fringed dots in the blue silence of the South Pacific, have been relocated. The bustling test preparations have spread ripples of fear.

French Polynesia can expect more testing in the years to come. Reliable sources said that an H-bomb is expected to be exploded on another island in 1968, with additional tests every two years.

The Polynesians, whom Robert Louis Stevenson called "God's sweetest works," may discover that paradise is lost.

Health Board Commits Four

Hearings on five complaints before the Lancaster County Mental Health Board this week resulted in four committals to the Lincoln State Hospital and dismissal of the fifth case.

The board dismissed the case against a 39-year-old woman after determining a family quarrel was the cause of the complaint. There was no psychiatric diagnosis of the woman.

None of the five appearing before the board were represented by legal counsel.

The cases:

Boy, 10, found to be suffering from schizaphrenia and extreme anxiety with condition probably catatonic.

Male, 36, found to be suffering from chronic brain dyndrome superimposed on sociopathic personality and complicated by alcoholism.

Female, 39, case dismissed.

Male, 53, found to be suffering from schizpahrenia reaction.

Female, 58, found to be a schizaphrenic-paranoid type.

'U.S. Should Welcome Neutral Southeast Asia'

. . . Mansfield

Washington (AP) — Sen. Mike Mansfield, D-Mont., said Saturday the United States should welcome a move toward neutralization of Southeast Asia if it develops from French President Charles de Gaulle's Moscow talks.

The Senate Democratic leader said in an interview it seems obvious to him that De Gaulle has discussed with Soviet leaders "ways and means of how the conflict in Vietnam can be terminated."

Mansfield did not go so far as to predict De Gaulle will offer some concrete proposal but made clear he hopes the French leader will do so.

Plans Divorce

Rome (UPI) — Gina Lollobrigida plans to become a Swiss citizen so she can divorce her Yugoslav husband, Dr. Milko Skofic.

Italian law does not permit divorce. If Miss Lollobrigida becomes a Swiss citizen, she presumably could divorce Skofic in a Swiss court.

Debt-Ridden Indonesia Is On the Verge of Civil War

By T. JEFF WILLIAMS

Jakarta, Indonesia (AP) — Dazed and confused, its treasury empty and its potentially rich land an economic rubble, sprawling Indonesia gropes today for a chance to pull itself out of the ruin brought by years of "guided democracy."

The crust of civil peace is thin. The political volcano which exploded last fall, has quieted down. But appearances in the paradoxical nation of 105 million people on 3,000 islands are deceptive. There can be new eruptions at any moment.

A military takeover of the government is developing, to supplant the autocratic rule of 65-year-old President Sukarno with a new regime obliged to come to grips with an economic madhouse.

Wasted Resources

For years the resources of the nation were extravagantly wasted. Sukarno and those who obeyed his whims announced their intention of "building national character." Evidently that meant monuments to Sukarno's rule, which took precedence over food and public welfare.

Last Oct. 1 the Communist party suddenly struck for power. High military officers were murdered. The Communists missed. Tens of thousands of Communists were slaughtered or imprisoned. The party was destroyed.

Today, national monuments stand in Jakarta as a mocking reminder of Sukarno's notions of national prestige.

Across from the luxurious Hotel Indonesia stands a 24-story steel structure, its steel-beams rusting. Nearby is an empty 14-story department store building. There is nothing to put inside it. If there were, the people would have no money to buy.

Skeletons of empty buildings now are temporary shelters for beggars from Java's teeming rains. So are stranded railway cars

Most of the 3 million people in Jakarta, the capital, are desperately poor. They live, sleep, cook and raise their families along the canals which they use for bathing, laundry and drinking water. Mounds of garbage often are piled on the treets

The country has been gripped by raging inflation. Prices of food in general rose in 1965 by 500% and that of rice, the staple by 900% At food stalls scattered about the streets, the menus have been meager. Few serve rice—just vegetables.

Wants U.S. Aid

The future is uncertain, depending upon what measure of stability the new regime is able to impose. It has indicated it wants to rely heavily on U.S. financial and technical aid. It has approached the Japanese for aid.

In April, Washington agreed to the sale of 50,000 tons of rice, worth about $6.5 million, to Indonesia to meet food shortages through May, with repayment in dollars. This was not part of an aid program. U.S aid to Indonesia ran out in 1965 and was not renewed. The only exception has been the shipment of certain surplus U.S. foods.

Indonesia has a debt of $2.4 billion to foreign nations. She owes the United States, third largest creditor after the Soviet Union and Japan, about $175 million. The Russians have supplied military and other aid in the past.

Adam Malik, foreign minister under the new strongman, Lt. Gen. Suharto, wants U.S. aid back as quickly as possible in a bid to establish some sort of internal stability.

The new regime is between two forces. In Jakarta, where students proved a potent political force after the October coup attempt, there is strong feeling against Sukarno But in Central and East Java, most populous of the islands, Sukarno still is regarded by most as the father-figure of the Indonesian revolution, and his name still works magic.

Students Demand Sukarno Ouster

Jakarta, Indonesia (AP)—Indonesian President Sukarno angrily brushed off newsmen's questions Saturday about rising attacks on his rule and declared that the Malaysian confrontation was continuing.

As he met with the six-man cabinet, more than 9,000 students massed outside the Congress Hall in Jakarta and demanded Sukarno's complete removal from power.

Stalwart Burns

San Juan (AP)—The USS Stalwart, a wooden-hull minesweeper, burned and sank Saturday while tied up at the U.S. navy base in San Juan. She was one of the few nonmagnetic wooden Army minesweepers still in service.

Property Tax Valuation Equalization Is Lessening

Board Actions Opposite

Abstracts To Be Reviewed

By DICK HERMAN

There is less property tax valuation equalization between Nebraska's 93 counties today than was the case a year ago, State Tax Commissioner George Dworak said Saturday.

He attributed the situation to directly opposing independent actions taken in recent weeks by some county boards.

Dworak's comment was seen against a 1965 mosaic when to correct what it deemed a bad situation, the State Board of Equalization modified locally-determined valuations in 82 counties.

Tax values of rural real estate and improvements were upped an average of 11.16%; urban property increased 5.3%.

Eroding Equalization

The tax commissioner contrasted what has happened since then in Thomas and Jefferson counties to underline his point about eroding equalization.

In August of 1965, the State Board ordered a 79% boost in valuation of Thomas County rural property, making no change in urban values. Jefferson County's rural valuation was left unchanged, but its urban real estate dropped 10%.

Both counties had scientific reappraisals.

In Thomas County, the local board of equalization not only refused to accept the results of the state-approved valuation in reporting 1966 values, but it rolled back the 1965 State Board increase.

So instead of reporting a total actual valuation of approximately $17 million to the state this year, Thomas County submitted a valuation of $10,760,319.

Last Thursday, the Jefferson County Board accepted in full its reappraisal, which lacks state endorsement because there was no approved mapping program.

Still, that reappraisal has boosted Jefferson County's 1966 values to $96,340,874. In 1965, the county's value was $79,472,949

How to bring Thomas and Jefferson counties now into a balance is the frustrating responsibility of the State Board of Equalization, which has scheduled a closed-door session Friday afternoon.

In that meeting, the Board will tentatively review abstracts of values submitted by the counties.

As of Saturday, 61 counties had filed their abstracts. Those showed a composite valuation of $4,097,410,075.

This sum is $26 9 million above what the same counties reported a year ago—after the State Board had taken its adjustment action.

Dworak said it would be "premature" to say officials of all 93 counties will be summoned to Lincoln next month to defend their valuations.

No Change

All of the counties were called in 1964 and the State Board did not make a single change in valuation.

Then came 1965 and a State Board decision which gave birth to nine legal challenges, still to be passed upon by Supreme Court rulings.

Following are the comparative valuations from the latest counties submitting figures:

	1966	1965
Red Willow	$103,612,470	$103,486,893

Medicare Benefits Ready Friday as Program Begins

By BESS JENKINS

Card-carrying members of the nation's first federal health care plan can start claiming their benefits Friday in Nebraska and the nation as Medicare starts.

Some of the 179,000 Nebraskans 65 and older holding the red, white and blue cards issued by Social Security for the health insurance plan apparently won't wait long to use them.

Lincoln hospitals, for example, report doctors have been scheduling patients for elective surgery after July 1.

Whether or not the long holiday weekend ahead delays the real start of Medicare patients remains to be seen.

One Lincoln hospital administrator believes it may be late July before any impact of this Social Security-financed health program to help the aged is likely to be felt here.

Daily Loads Down

There is no doubt in Nebraska, as nationally, where the Medicare eligible list reaches 19 million, that hospital patient censuses have been down from last summer's daily loads.

Areas lagging most have been opthalmology and urology services here. Both are extensively used by the aged.

The start of Medicare Friday as directed by Congress last March finds Lincoln hospitals in the thick of their worst shortage of general duty nurses in years.

One hospital spokesman said they would hire 15 to 20 registered nurses today if they could find them.

It could get worse as nursing homes recruit more skilled nurses to assure their eligibility status for the extended care facility service under Medicare starting next Jan. 1.

Backlog Likely

Anyone of any age may find it is taking more time to get a hospital bed here during the next six months until the backlog of suspected Medicare cases is leveled off.

That is the opinion of administrators, who admit they can't guess the extent of impact. They look for the increase to go up 5% at least, perhaps much higher.

St. Elizabeth Hospital associate administrator, Don Duncan, recalls it took about six months to level off elective care service when the military medicare program was established in 1957.

A general feeling exists among hospitals and medical groups that Nebraska and other midwest states will not experience the crisis of patient populations feared in metropolitan centers as this almost-free program commences.

They attribute this to a belief that most Nebraska aged have received adequate health care in the past.

Problems Expected

"We're ready to move but like any new program set up in a short time, there is bound to be problems and misunderstandings," Leo Bolin of Omaha said this weekend.

Bolin is president of the Nebraska Hospital Assn. and director of professional relations for Nebraska Blue Cross, which is the fiscal intermediary for the hospital insur-

Legal Headache Is Injected Into Public Power Muddle

WITH HIGH COURT RULE

By DEL SNODGRASS

As if the legislative and political problems plaguing Nebraska's troubled public power industry weren't enough, the State Supreme Court has now injected a king-sized legal headache into the muddle.

Some of the best legal minds in the state, it appeared Saturday, will be needed if legislation can be drawn which will receive the blessing of the high court.

That job, several lawyers believe, cannot be rushed into or accomplished overnight.

The court Friday knocked out LB764, the 1965 law which intended to merge the publicly-owned Consumers, Loup River and Platte Valley electric utilities into a single agency.

The 1965 law, the court ruled, violated a constitutional ban against the creation of a corporation—public or private—by special rather than general legislature) may not do."

Special Act

"It is evident from the act itself," the court said, "that the Legislature was attempting to create a single public corporation by a special act rather than a general law.

"The act applies only to the public corporation which it designates as the grid system. It (the law) can apply to no other. This it (the Legislature) may not do."

"It is fundamental," the court continued, "that the Legislature has the right to classify public power districts for the purposes of legislation if a reasonable basis for the classification exists. (But) it may not classify public power districts on an arbitrary and unreasonable basis."

Several lawyers immediately questioned if the Legislature can create any "reasonable" classification of power districts other than by a complete statewide merger to include Omaha Public Power Dist. which was excluded from LB764.

Some attorneys also said they were unable at the moment to understand why classifying power districts is improper when Nebraska communities are categorized as metropolitan, primary, first class, second class or villages on the basis of their populations.

Another Route

But if a complete, statewide merger of the utilities should prove to be an impossible legislative feat because of the combined opposition of the power districts a second route appeared as a possibility.

This effort would involve a constitutional amendment which would exclude public corporations (as distinguished from privately-owned operations) legislation.

But this, the court said Friday, the people did not do in enacting the constitutional provision, "and it is not the provision of this court to add language to its plain terms to restrict or extend its meaning."

Excluding power districts from that constitutional restriction, some attorneys said, might permit the legal merger of the Consumers, Platte and Loup districts as intended by LB764.

Historic Landmark Promoted

Facility Near Chimney Rock

Nebraska's Centennial (1967) Legislature is going to be asked to invest some money in a modest facility near Chimney Rock, promoting and interpreting the state's most historic Oregon Trail landmark.

Nebraska State Historical Society Director Marvin Kivett disclosed he will propose a budget for construction and maintenance of a small tourist center, plus salaries for several guides.

What might be considered the forerunner of this development opened for business Friday.

In cooperation with the city of Bayard, the Historical Society has established an information center dealing with Chimney Rock in Bayard's park. The center is located on State Highway 92.

An examination of pioneer diaries shows Chimney Rock was the physical feature on the trail which stood out in pioneer minds more than any thing else, including Scott's Bluff and Independence Rock.

Designated a national historic site in 1956, the rock and surrounding 80 acres were given to the State Historical Society in 1939.

"It behooves somebody to make its great significance understood today," Kivett said. On several occasions, federal agencies have advised Kivett they consider the task a state responsibility.

"Our goal eventually would be to lay out some guided tours so visitors going up to the rock would not be bitten by rattlesnakes," Kivett commented.

Thousands of Oregon Trail travelers carved their names into the soft Brule clay along the base of the rock — a solitary landmark visible two full days by wagon before the pioneers reached it.

Unemployment

London, (AP)—Unemployment dropped in Britain last month by 19,208, the Labor Ministry reported. The month's total out of work was 261,083 compared with 288,291 in May 1965.

Safety Checks Set for Today

Lincoln's third annual vehicle safety check is scheduled today from noon to 5 p.m. at seven different checkout stations by the Lincoln Jaycees, the Havelock Businessmen's Assn. and the Lincoln Elks.

The free check to increase car safety on streets and highways will be available at So. 16th, east of the Capitol; 42nd and Randolph, 17th and E, 40th and Vine, Cotner and Holdrege, 48th and Bancroft, 60th and Havelock.

Tokyo Is Tops

Tokyo (AP)—The most populous city in the world has topped 11 million, the Tokyo metropolitan government announced. Its latest figures show there are 5,642,948 males and 5,378,631 females in Tokyo for a total of 11,021,579.

Building Proposal 'Has Merit'

Doesn't Meet Finance, Terms

Gov. Frank Morrison told Lincoln Mayor Dean H. Petersen the mayor's proposal for a high rise city-state building a block north of the State house on 15th St. "has merit."

But it doesn't comply with the terms laid down for financing, he said.

Morrison said he reads the 1965 law authorizing a four-year property tax levy to finance the new building to mean the structure must be on state-owned land adjacent to the Capitol.

And Morrison said "adjacent" means across the street, not one block away.

Petersen suggested the city buy the O'Shea block on 15th St. and construct a new building.

The first floor would be leased to private business and the next four or five floors would be for off-street parking. Other floors would be used by the state.

The idea met unanimous disfavor from the five-member Legislative Council executive board.

SE Nebraska, Sandhills Hit by Thunderstorms

Severe thunderstorms bypassed the Lincoln area Saturday night. Parts of extreme southeast Nebraska were not so lucky.

The thunderstorms struck an area 100 miles east of a line from near Lincoln to west of Russell, Kan.

Funnel clouds, strong winds, hail and heavy rains hit the upper Sandhills area Friday night. A twister touched down west of Springview, but caused no damage.

Golf-ball size hail fell at Wood Lake, where high winds damaged trailers, gardens and buildings.

Hail stripped trees at Sparks, 22 miles northeast of Valentine.

Near Albion, heavy rains Thursday night caused the Chicago and North Western railroad tracks to spread. Six carloads of corn were detrailed.

Several acres of land were still under receding flood waters from Sappa Creek in Harlan County Saturday afternoon.

A two-mile stretch of Hwy. 89 two miles east of Orleans was still closed to traffic Saturday. The pavement had buckled under the water.

Rain reported in Nebraska Friday night was .63 of an inch at York, .32 at Grand Island, .16 at Valentine and .02 at Chadron.

Man Hurt; In Chase

A 27-year-old Lincoln man was admitted to St Elizabeth Hospital Saturday night suffering from head cuts after an apparent beating and a high-speed chase.

Police Traffic Lt. Dean Leitner said the man received serious head cuts after being struck with an axe-handle.

No reason was given for the beating, reportedly at the hands of the man's brother. A hospital spokesman said the man's condition had not been immediately determined.

Following the incident, police said, the man was involved in a high speed chase at speeds of more than 100 miles an hour.

The chase ended when the man rolled his car on a county road two miles north of West O and a mile west of Baker Ave.

The man suffered only min or cuts in the accident, police said.

Nation's Interstate Tourist-Campers Attracted to Area's Recreation Site

"This-A-Way to Camp-A-Way" is the theme attracting tourist-campers from all parts of the nation to Lincoln.

Lincoln has gone "big league" in catering to one of the nation's fastest growing recreation and travel programs—camping.

Nationwide attention has been focused on the City of Lincoln's near 20-acre park located on the southwest corner of Interstate 80 and access route I-180. The entire area, reached by the Superior Street exit, will be devoted to the development of transient camping facilities.

Bordering the Interstate, one of the nation's busiest routes, the site offers campers a towering umbrella of 60 to 70-ft. ash, sycamore, coffee bean, elm, walnut and other trees.

'Taj Mahal'

It has been described by a representative of a national camping publication as the "Taj Mahal of camping." Guests have tabbed it tops between Chicago and Denver.

The area was secured by the city in 1959 and reserved for a campground.

Lincoln Interstate CampA-Way Inc., headed by M. J. Svoboda, secured the contract for operation of the site.

Since March a camp headquarters building has been constructed with ceramic tile washrooms, electric hand dryers, hot showers, dressing areas and push-button plumbing.

Other popular features include a self-service laundry, telephone, sanitary station and an arrangement with Lincoln firms for 24-hour repair service on camping equipment.

Guests from 33 states, Canada and Germany registered in the first week of operation.

Official Campground

The area is now designated Lincoln's official campground and the area formerly utilized in Van Dorn Park has been closed to campers.

Out-of-state visitors have praised the foresight of Lincoln officials and the Park Dept. for making it the only major city on the Interstate route with such an attractive and convenient area for campers.

High School coach Victor Groves of Lansing, Mich., who was among the first to visit Lincoln's new facility, said, "Not only did we enjoy camping at Lincoln, but Woods Pool is a highlight of a vacation. With full-time caretakers and police protection at the campsite, a camper can go downtown and enjoy himself."

Interstate Camp-A-Way Inc. has plans for special programs, baby-sitting, maintaining a list of services available in Lincoln and fencing some campsites for families with little tots, said Svoboda.

Managers of the campsite are Mr. and Mrs. Roe Clark.

New camping area includes restroom facility.

Education Units Want Tax Levy

Seven Asking County Boards

At least seven of the 19 educational service units created among Nebraska's 93 counties by the 1965 Legislature plan to ask county boards to impose a property tax mill levy in August.

This is information compiled by the State Department of Education from a survey sent all 19 service unit boards several weeks ago.

In each of the seven units, some or all of the counties involved will vote in November whether they should stay in or get out of their assigned units.

Regardless of which way the vote goes, once the tax is levied in August, it must be paid over the following year.

The act establishing the 19 service units authorizes the governing boards to levy a property tax of up to one mill.

Current information to the Education Dept. is that only one unit, No. 17 in the northern Panhandle, is contemplating asking a full mill.

This unit includes Sioux, Dawes, Box Butte, Morrill and Sheridan Counties. Already the recipient of a federal planning grant, Unit 17 is one of two which have a full-time administrator. He is Hugh Pursel, former Gordon superintendent.

Dr. Bruce Cowgill, Monroe superintendent, has been named administrator of Unit 7, embracing Greeley, Boone, Nance, Platte, Polk, Butler and Colfax Counties.

Unit 7 will request a quarter-mill levy, according to data available to the Education Dept.

All of the counties in Units 7 and 17 will have exclusion elections in November.

Other levy situations, with counties certified for exclusion elections marked with an asterisk:

Unit 6 (York, Seward, Lancaster*, Saline* and Fillmore* Counties) will have a levy, but the amount is not yet fixed.

Unit 11 (Gosper*, Phelps*, Harlan*, Furnas, Franklin and Kearney Counties) is contemplating a quarter-mill levy.

Unit 12 (Sherman,, Buffalo and Dawson* Counties) will have a levy of .2 of a mill.

Unit 16 (Grant*, Hooker*, Thomas*, Arthur*, McPherson*, Logan*, Lincoln*, Keith* and Perkins* Counties) has agreed upon a levy of one-fifteenth of a mill, raising an estimated $8,000.

Unit 18 (Scotts Bluff and Banner* Counties) may levy a half-mill or more.

Other service units where tentative agreement to impose a levy has been made, the Education Dept. said, are Units 1 (Knox*, Cedar*, Wayne*, Dixon, Dakota*, and Thurston* Counties) and 14 (Cherry*, Keya Paha*, Brown* and Rock* Counties).

These shirtsleeved spectators Saturday listened to the Lincoln Symphony Orchestra and Chorale on a cool, sprinkle-interrupted "Evening With Rodgers and Hammerstein" at Pinewood Bowl. The performance —hopefully, without the sprinkle—will be repeated tonight.

Pluimer Dr. Furbay

Aerospace Lectures Scheduled

Two speakers in the field of aerospace education will present the first in a series of world news and views summer lectures at the University of Nebraska Thursday at 1:30 p.m.

The Love Library auditorium lecture will feature talks by Harold P. Pluimer of Minneapolis, Minn., director of aerospace education for the U.S. Air Force, and Dr. John H. Furbay of New York City, educational and cultural consultant for Trans-World Airlines.

Pluimer will speak on "Aerospace Age Frontiers" and Furbay will discuss "The Sky's the Limit."

Furbay, former president of the College of West Africa in Liberia, has served with the U.S. Embassies in Costa Rica and Colombia. As cultural and educational consultant for Trans-World Airlines, he covers 25 countries on four continents.

Pluimer holds degrees from the St. Cloud (Minn.) State College and the University of Minnesota. After serving eight years as a public school instructor and administrator, he joined the Oak Ridge Institute of Nuclear Studies and later went to the 1958 Brussels World's Fair for the State Department.

He also has served as science consultant for the Minnesota Department of Education and as senior lecturer for the National Aeronautics and Space Administration.

Health Case Rise Expected

ance or Part A of Medicare. Mutual of Omaha is carrier for the medical insurance or Part B of the Social Security health program.

It is believed all Nebraska hospitals eligible for Medicare participation will be certified by federal officials before Friday.

But no list of hospitals not certified after inspection or those not asking to participate will be provided to the public.

On the other hand, some hospitals with government contracts in hand are already wondering if they can afford to participate indefinitely, perhaps at greater cost to the non-Medicare patient. A hospital can cancel a contract with 30 days' notice.

Pay Only Part

This concern originates in government's decision to pay only the cost of Medicare services provided, not overall hospital expense which is the basis of an average patient bill.

A year-end review will adjust under or over payments, according to Nebraska Blue Cross. Hospital rates have increased about 5% annually for some years even under ordinary circumstances.

This is why Nebraska hospital leaders generally take a dim view of President Johnson's request to a White House conference of doctors and hospital administrators this month that they take the lead to hold down increases.

Also facing hospitals is the likelihood that they will be placed under the federal minimum wage law shortly.

Spokesmen for the state medical profession like Dr. Harold Morgan of Lincoln, consultant to the state Medicare division, are confident that doctors will support the new health law.

Patients Billed

None are hesitant to say that most will take the alternate offered physicians by Medicare planners and bill patients directly rather than the carrier—Mutual of Omaha in Nebraska's case.

In this method, the patient must have a paid-in-full statement from the doctor to collect reimbursement from Medicare.

Most medical spokesmen here believe a patient's financial inability to do this will not create a problem.

They predict doctors will accept a promissory note from the patient or even reach this point by verbal agreement.

Customary Fees

The doctor, according to Medicare formula, will receive customary fees charged for service given to the red, white and blue cardholders.

One physician said it is possible that a few older members of the profession will retire rather than try to reconcile themselves to working with Medicare.

According to all reports, Nebraska is in good shape for its baptism in Medicare.

It was the first in this seven-state region to complete hospital eligibility inspections and recommendations. And one of the few if not the only state where the state medical association has guaranteed physician members where needed to staff small hospital utilization review committees to guard against patient misuse of services.

Many a modern device will go into use to give the Medicare patient and his providers of service all the quick answers needed.

Nebraska Blue Cross, for example, will use a combination of computers and telecommunication equipment to confirm patient eligibility as soon as forms come from hospitals. This machine transmits 3,000 words a minute.

Microfilm Lists

All Social Security district offices, like the one here, soon will have microfilm lists of Nebraska Medicare enrolment names.

Manager A. F. Silber explains this is intended as a confirmation source if a Medicare patient loses his card.

Silber's staff seems to have their fingers on the pulse of the aged's interest in Medicare's starting date.

The answer, report Silber, is more and more inquiries daily as Friday comes closer.

Conflicts in Tax Laws Getting More Complex

The complexity of possible conflicts in Nebraska tax laws has been called to the public's attention by the Nebraska Tax Research Council.

The private tax-study organization Saturday listed in a brief publication some of the alternative situations the state could face as the result of November voting.

What makes the entire matter still "iffy" is the uncertain status of the income tax referendum—that's still being weighed by the state Supreme Court—and the Farm Bureau Federation's anti-poverty tax constitutional amendment.

By mid-July the secretary of state's office will be able to say whether the Farm Bureau's initiative amendment won sufficient validated petition signatures to gain a spot on the general election ballot.

"There is always the possibility that the voter may become confused over the long list and after voting on the first few, turn in his ballot without voting on the later questions," the Council commented.

Thus "It is possible that some of the more important questions might not receive the required 35% of the total votes cast at the election" and become part of the constitution, even if gaining an affirmative majority.

Before any constitutional amendment can be declared enacted, it must receive not only a majority of the total votes cast for and against it, but also a favorable vote of at least 35% of the total election's turnout.

A person who choose not to vote on constitutional amendments while balloting on individuals thus is considered as casting a partial no vote for proposed constitutional changes.

The Council said tax change conflicts, particularly as they revolve around entire elimination of the property tax (the Farm Bureau amendment) or limiting the state property tax for capital improvements only (LB341) may have to be ultimately settled by the State Supreme Court.

It has been the long-standing opinion of the state Department of Justice that when two conflicting constitutional amendments are passed by the voters at any given election, the one with the greatest degree of success is the one which carries the day.

Depending what's on the November ballot and how the citizens respond, the Council admitted "none of the inconsistencies and conflicts" examined Saturday may be present after all is said and done.

STATEHOUSE LETTER

Somebody who ought to know reports Nebraska Sen. Roman Hruska, a Republican, was offered a presidential appointment on the U.S. Eighth Circuit Court, filling the vacancy left by retired Judge Harvey M. Johnsen. The courtesy offer was put by U.S. Atty. Gen. Nicholas Katzenbach — and, of course, graciously rejected, my source says.

Hruska has well-respected credentials within the legal fraternity. His work on the Senate Judiciary Committee has not gone unrecognized nor untrumpeted. Such an appointment, by a Democratic President, would not have been without some fascinating political plus signs, either.

Soon it will be a year (September) since Judge Johnsen's retirement took effect. A replacement has yet to be nominated by Lyndon Johnson. He could wait until after November elections now, some people speculate.

Currently, insiders seem to think Nebraska Supreme Court Judge Hale McCown of Beatrice and Omaha attorney Don Lay are best bets for appointment. Both men are Democrats.

'Do Nothing Governor'

Genial Bill Hasebroock, West Point's contribution to the Unicameral, says he was a "do nothing governor" while holding the reins of state government recently. Gov. Morrison, Lt. Gov. Sorensen and Speaker of the Legislature Kenneth Bowen all were out of the state, advancing the Legislative Council chairman into the front office.

Hasebroock discovered a governor can't even fix a parking ticket, a power state senators exercise when the Legislature is in session.

Should Hasbroock be re-elected this fall, he must be regarded as a prime candidate for speaker, along with Elvin Adamson of Valentine and George Syas of Omaha.

Billing to Spread?

Since the new Department of Administrative Services is about to charge agencies within the Capitol a monthly rent, thoughts have turned to what services departments might bill each other and capture revenue that way.

The Department of Justice could adopt the bar association's fee schedule for the opinions it renders. Under that state of affairs the Legislature would be presented with the biggest tab.

There's some grousing that by billing all agencies for accounting services rendered, Administrative Services may submerge and redistribute its cost in every other agency's budgets. Thus the "other" departments take the public relations rap for requesting budget increases.

Short Takes

The Department of Education will be losing a top man when Dr. Dave Hutcheson joins the University teaching corps this fall. Hutcheson is director of departmental field services.

That huge Bible in the governor's office, bearing the impress "Executive Department of Nebraska," will be 100 years old next year. It's an 1867 Hardings' Royal Edition.

Sunday closing of the University of Nebraska's Ag College dairy store has caused gloom among ice cream lovers.

Observed behind a stack of law books in the State Law Library, doing research, was Supreme Court Judge Robert Smith. Some think he may be writing one of the major tax decisions the bench has yet to announce.

Churches Ask Tax Release

By HAROLD SIMMONS

The County Board of Equalization has now received 68 valid requests for tax exemption of church property and has acted by taking 21 of them off the tax rolls.

The hearings and decisions amount to retracing a route covered two years ago when the board re-examined church property in the county and ruled a large number of the properties, primarily parsonages, were eligible for taxation.

Courthouse Call

Some churches contested this viewpoint in the courts. And both the Lancaster County District Court in some instances and the Nebraska Supreme Court in others ruled generally in favor of the churches.

It finally resulted in the board notifying some 200 churches last month suggesting they refile for tax exemption of property ruled taxable by the board.

Caught Cussing

One slightly ruffled attorney walked into a courtroom recently still upset and muttering about a hearing he had just attended in another courtroom.

He explained to a judge and two others that he had become extremely irritated during the hearing and accidently uttered a "cuss" word.

"Now I suppose I'm barred from his court," the attorney said, "but I was so damn mad I couldn't help it."

"Now," the listening judge retorted, "you're barred from this courtroom."

Estate Heir

County Judge Ralph Slocum discovered recently while checking some old records that he became heir to his father's estate when he was six years old and guardianship proceedings were handled through the court he now presides over.

The records, dating back to 1909, show that the judge's mother, Mrs. Alice M. Slocum, was appointed guardian for the estate.

The judge, along with two sisters and a brother, were named heirs with the proceedings under the jurisdiction of the county court.

Lincolnite Claims Role In Founding of FDIC

Despain

Today all but one Nebraska bank are protected, as the Gresham bank was not, by the Federal Deposit Insurance Corp. The lone non-member has applied for membership.

But in 1930 a total of 1,352 towns had bank failures with a loss of $853 million. In five years there were 9,400 bank suspensions with a loss of $5.9 billion for more than 50 million Americans.

Part of the problem's solution was the FDIC, supporting a concept scorned by bankers then nearly as fully as they today support it, the FDIC itself notes.

A Lincoln man, industrial relations specialist Donald Despain, 84, 4627 St. Paul, has claimed a role in its founding, 33 years after the FDIC was inaugurated.

Four persons are key figures in Despain's story: President Franklin Roosevelt, Michigan Sen. Arthur Vandenburg, Michigan banker-auto maker Ransom Olds and himself.

Concerned and himself a victim of bank closings, Despain said, he wrote a 20-page booklet supporting federal bank deposit insurance. He mailed it to 20,000 bankers and businessmen.

Most, he said, opposed the idea. "Ninety percent of them (responding letters) should have been written on asbestos paper," he said.

Much of this, said Raoul Edwards, assistant to the FDIC board, was an outgrowth of bankers' earlier unfavorable experiences with deposit insurance plans, tried unsuccessfully on state levels ince 1829.

One complimentary banker' letter was from Olds, who, Despain said, set up a conference involving both men and Sen. Vandeburg, a leading Senate Republican and presidential candidate aspirant.

Vandenburg, who introduced a deposit insurance bill as a rider to a bill for a new federal reserve law, was in a crucial position.

The House had already accepted a bill, but the Senate had proved before to be a barrier to its enactment.

Roosevelt had threatened to veto the bill. This led to conferences involving Roosevelt, Vandenburg, Despain and Sen. Carter Glass, author of the federal reserve bill.

At the meeting "the two senators took opposite positions. Senator Glass was so anxious for his bill to become law that he pleaded with and begged the President to sign the bill," he said, "while Sen. Vandenburg dared FDR to veto it, saying — 'If you veto this bill, I will beat you for the Presidency at the next election'."

The FDIC termed Vandenburg one of the "primary movers" behind the FDIC program. Others cited included Glass and Rep. H. B. Steagall of Alabama.

"If Mr. Despain played a part in that story," the FDIC sid, "it is a part of which he can be proud."

Residents Get Two Cars—

Peterson: Lack of Bus Service Hurts Suburbs

Councilman Ervin Peterson, local builder, was one of the most vocal when the City Council talked about the city's bus service recently.

Peterson said the lack of bus service in developing housing areas was hurting these sections and forcing some residents to get two cars.

One example of Peterson's statement is the eastern part of Lincoln where the bus route goes only to 70th St. while the city development goes all the way to 84th in some sections.

Since the Lincoln City Lines is a private corporation the Council has no control over its operation, but citizens wishing to talk about the bus company can do so at a June 28 meeting of the State Railway Commission which is going to consider a bus fare increase.

City Budget

The new city budget is going to contain some good benefits for city employes.

Of course, the City Council must approve these benefits but the majority already have expressed interest in the changes recommended by City Personnel Director Walter Mitchell.

The estimated $500,000 payroll program will include pay range adjustments, merit increases, a hospitalization plan, additional holiday pay and other benefits.

Mitchell contends that the city is going to have to make such improvements for employes if the city wants to retain top executives and veteran employes.

Economic Dept.

Would you believe a department of economic development within city government?

Councilman Carroll Thompson is proposing such a department and he personally feels it's extremely important.

Around City Hall

There are some city officials who reportedly aren't as excited about the proposal as Thompson, who spent considerable research on the question before introducing an ordinance on it.

Council members have asked Thompson for a full report on this issue and the Chamber of Commerce now is giving it more than a passing glance.

Liquor Policy

Don't be surprised if the City Council soon makes some changes in its present beer and liquor policy resolution.

Council members have called for some related material from Public Safety Director Emmett Junge and the Planning Department before taking any further action.

Although some Council members still support the present policy resolution, recent reversals by the State Liquor Control Commission and the courts have brought the upcoming review.

There is the possibility that the Council will allow beer and liquor outlets in certain zoning classifications, like B Business, and not attempt to pick certain areas over others

No Hearings

There were no hearings in Lancaster Juvenile Court this week since Judge W. W. Nuerenberger was out of town.

Lincoln Girl Congratulated By Lady Bird

On a whim, an 18-year-old Lincoln High School graduate mailed a graduation announcement to Lady Bird Johnson.

Vicki Bosinio, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Bosinio of 311 Jeffery Drive, said she sent the announcement "just to see if I would get an answer."

In the Saturday mail was a card wishing Vicki "congratulations on your graduation. The President joins me in extending warm good wishes to you always."

The card was printed, but the signature, Vicki said, was that of a Mrs. Lyndon B. Johnson of Washington.

State Communications Network Is Announced

Representatives of several Nebraska telephone companies announced Saturday the formation of a new corporation to provide a statewide communications network for state and other governmental agencies.

Called Nebraska Consolidated Communications Corp., it will be headed by Howard F. Rasmussen of Hubbard, general manager of the Northeast Nebraska Telephone Co.

The other incorporators include William R. Beat, manager of Rodeo Telephone Membership Corp.; William W. Fogle, president of Pierce Telephone Co.; Richard A. Hunt, chief engineer of Blair Telephone Co.; Clive O. Pulver, manager of the Glenwood Telephone Membership Corp; Clifford E. Thompson, president of Consolidated Telephone Co., and Kenneth W. Werner, president of K and M Telephone Co.

Rasmussen noted that the state has been planning for a communications system to end duplication of facilities and increase the day-to-day efficiency of the various state agencies.

He said a study by a Kansas City, Mo., consultant indicated a consolidated system was feasible and less costly.

He said the merged system will have the capability of being interconnected with or used by other local, state or national agencies, permitting communication between those bodies over a single system.

Rasmussen said this should give Nebraska maximum communications potential in emergency situations.

He said the new company will give all Nebraska telephone firms a chance to share equally in the ownership of the corporation, and have an equal voice in the management of its affairs.

Rates charged by the firm, as well as its general operations, would come under the control of the State Railway Commission. The Federal Communications Commission would have to assign radio frequencies.

Rasmussen said all Nebraska telephone companies will receive a letter soon outlining the plan. He said a stockholders meeting will be called in mid-July.

The state communications advisory committee will also review the proposal.

Marysville Businessmen Pondering Effects Of Losing Pony Express Museum Attraction

By DEAN TERRILL

Marysville, Kan. — What's the dollar value to a community of a traffic-stopping tourist attraction?

Both historians and cold-cash businessmen are confronted with that precise question in the loss of Marysville's much-advertised Pony Express Museum. This month it moved down the trail—and quite a few miles off the trail—to Green Mountain Falls, Colo.

Necessarily left behind is a fort-like limestone barn, now used as a locker plant and reputedly the last "home station" on the 1,700-mile route. To buy seems a must—but the price is a real sticker.

"We're still trying to negotiate for the barn just as we had a couple years or so for the two properties together," said Byron Guise, newspaper publisher and Chamber of Commerce tourism committeeman. "We recognize that the station means as much to us as an industry, but then we can only raise a reasonable amount."

Owner Henrietta Stallbaumer once had an "asking price" above $70,000, but presumably this has changed with her moving of the museum. The remaining barn would be of considerable value if properly restored, but the 106-year-old building is obviously worth little as a business property.

"The place wouldn't bring over $5,000 if sold for other than historical use," opined James L. Swim, who would be willing to move his meat-cutting operation from the site. A son of the remarried Mrs. Stallbaumer, he had helped start the museum in 1960 and is striving to bring his mother and city interests together.

Long used by Swim's late father (James Sr.) as a produce station, the one time barn has practically the same exterior as when it housed ponies, mail and riders.

One of the local Chamber's top promoters, Swim had been unsuccessful in dissuading his mother from the Colorado move. But she had lived in the state and envisioned the new Highway 24 location as a better business spot.

Pony Express signs, Swim's historic locker plant remain.

Governor's Art Entries On Display

The top entries from the Governor's NEBRASKANA Art Show are going on the road.

Twenty-five paintings have been selected as the best of the competition and are now part of a traveling exhibit.

The paintings were chosen from the display in the rotunda of the State Capitol during the NEBRASKAland Days celebration. The Game Commission is handling the exhibit at the request of the governor.

Any community, organization, or individual may secure these paintings at no cost except for the shipping charges from the previous exhibit location. To reserve the traveling show contact the Game Commission, State Capitol, Lincoln, 68509.

The exhibit includes first-prize winner, "Early Settler" by Thomas Bartek, Omaha; "Iron Markers", Kathleen Oberg, Holdrege, second place; "October Landscape", Marie Osterloh, Omaha, third place; "The Quilters", Mrs. Marily Belschner, Amherst; "Pioneer Nebraska", Roy Schultz, Omaha; "The Great Plains", Luke Bartek, Lincoln all honorable mentions.

Harvest Reports Optimistic

By the Associated Press

Storms which have swept Nebraska in the last week damaged some crops, but early wheat harvest reports were on the optimistic side.

At Nebraska City, Don Sherfill, Farmers Home Administration manager, said the wheat looks very good in southeast Nebraska.

Grain heads look heavy, he said, and some hot days should put the crop in good condition for harvest.

Southern Nebraska

In southern Nebraska, the harvest got under way at the Harry Warner farm five miles southeast of Lebanon late Thursday.

The first cutting produced 30 to 35 bushels an acre, Warner said. It had a moisture content of 15% and tested 61 pounds per bushel.

Harold Adams, who lives three miles south of Fairbury, brought in the first loads of wheat to the Farmers Union elevator in Fairbury. It tested 61 pounds and 10.82% moisture.

Some delay in harvesting in the Fairbury area was a possibility as the result of green spots where maturity is behind the rest of the field

White Atlanta Fans Rave: Hank Aaron for Governor

Atlanta, Ga. (AP) — Patience is paying off for Hank Aaron, the latest threat to home run records in the big leagues.

Aaron's vow to make a strong showing in the Braves' first season in the South hasn't hurt the 32-year-old Negro slugger, either.

"I'm a better hitter this year because I'm waiting for my pitcher," Aaron said in explaining his explosive start in which he slammed 24 home runs and drove in 60 runs in his first 68 games.

"I used to hit too many bad balls," Aaron said. "Now I wait until they throw my pitch, and I can hit it where I want to."

Where he wants to is over the left field fence, the spot Aaron is trying to pull every hit this year "although in 1959 when I hit 39 home runs I think half of them were in right field.

"I'm striking out a lot more because some times the pitchers get me without ever throwing my pitch," said Aaron, who fanned 38 times during the 68-game stretch.

Despite his whiffs, he leads the National League in runs driven in and both majors in homers, and needs only one more home run to become the first National League player to hit 25 through June 30.

Aaron's home run pace — the fastest in National League history — was still shy of that of Roger Maris and Babe Ruth, the American League's home run record holders.

Ruth hit his 24th homer in his 60th game in 1927 when he blasted 60 for the Yankees, and Maris slammed his 24th in his 62nd game in 1961 when he wound up with 61 for the Yanks.

"I didn't even think about hitting 61 home runs until you writers came around and asked me," Aaron said. "My only goal every year is to do better than I did the previous year."

That takes some doing, because Aaron had the best batting average of any active big league player going into the 1966 season with .320, and never has hit less than 24 home runs since his rookie season in 1954.

Aaron is a cinch to be chosen for his 12th straight All-Star game next month, holds numerous National League batting records and is a sure-fingered right fielder although he doesn't put on the breathtaking shows of a Willie Mays on defense.

"This year I wanted to get off to a good start because we were in a new town for the first time," Aaron said. "All of the guys on the team did, but some of them pressed so much it hurt them."

Aaron's fast start has drawn the attention of baseball fans in this Georgia city, and last week some white fans put up a banner which said "Aaron for Governor."

"Playing in Georgia hasn't bothered me one bit," Aaron said. "The people have been real nice to me. I've gone out to dinner, and done things without any trouble.

"I did get depressed before my family joined me, because I was living in an apartment and after a bad night all I did was go home, look at the walls and think about the game.

"But I'm a lot happier now that my wife and kids have moved here with me." He and his wife, Barbara, and their four children moved last week into a spacious brick home on a large wooded lot in an integrated neighborhood in Atlanta's suburbs.

"We haven't had much time off since I've been in Atlanta, so I don't know too many people. But if they are anything like Mayor Ivan Allen they have to be great."

Aaron on Thursday joined the mayor in a civic function in the Braves' first day off at home since the season started.

"I usually don't do many things like that during the season, but the people have been good to the Braves here," Aaron said.

NU Star Completes Dash Sweep

Greene Wins Sprint Title

New York (AP) — Nebraska's Charlie Greene completed a sweep of national meets here Saturday by winning the 100-yard dash in :09.4 in the National AAU Outdoor Track and Field Championships.

Before Saturday Greene had won the NCAA indoor 60 and 100-yard dashes, and the lastest victory gave him a sweep of sprint events in which he entered this year.

Defending champion Willie Davenport broke a meet record in winning the 120-yard high hurdles and two other meet marks were tied Saturday as a star-studded field battled for national AAU outdoor titles and berths on America's international team.

Davenport, who won the hurdles last year in 13.6, took it this time in 13.3, edging Don Shy of the 49er Track Club of Los Angeles. The time was one-tenth of a second faster than the record set by Jack Davis of 1956 and tied by Jerry Tarr and Hayes Jones.

Charlie Greene

Bob Seagren of the Southern California Striders, who has a pending world record of 17-5½ for the pole vault, tied the meet mark of 17 feet in beating teammates Paul Wilson and John Pennel. The latter two tied at 16 8¼, with Wilson winning second on fewer misses.

This earned Wilson, a Southern California freshman, a place on the U.S. team which will meet Poland at Berkeley, Calif., July 16-17 and Russia at Los Angeles July 23-24.

The first two placers in each of 19 finals, except the walk, will earn berths on the squad. Eight finals were run off Saturday with 11 scheduled for the Sunday windup.

Lee Evans, 18-year-old freshman from San Jose, Calif., City College, tied the meet record for the 440-yard run in winning his semifinal in 45.8. Evans, favored Theron Lewis, winner of his semifinal in 46.3, and six other fleet quarter-milers will race it out in the final Sunday.

Qualifying heats also were run off in the mile and 880-yard events.

The mile times were disappointing to the crowd of about 8,000 at Downing Stadium as Jim Ryun, the 19-year-old sensation from Kansas, and his two major rivals, Oregonians Dyrol Burleson and Jim Grelle, jogged to finalist berths in easy fashion.

Ryun just opened up in the last 200 yards to win his heat by about five yards over Charles Christmas of Abilene Christian College in 4:06.4. Neil Duggan, a Briton running for the Pasadena A.A., was third and John Camien of the New York A.C. fourth.

Burleson won the other heat in 4:06.2, with Grelle second in 4:07.2. Schoolboy Tim Danielson of the San Diego Track Club was third and Richard Romo of San Antonio fourth.

The first four in each heat qualified for the eight-man final. New Yorkers are hoping for the big city's first outdoor sub-four minute mile when the chips are down Sunday.

The other winners Saturday included:

Three-time Olympic champion Al Oerter of the New York A.C., discus, 193-9 and former Olympic champion Ralph Boston, Southern California Striders, long jump, 26 3¼.

Jockey Hartack Reviews Ak Win on Royal Gunner

Bill Hartack
Jovial Winner

By JACK ANDERSEN

Omaha — Try picturing Bill (not Willie) Hartack in a jovial mood if you can. And believe me, this might be a little difficult for some people to do.

But Hartack, one of the nation's truly premier jockeys, was just that here Saturday afternoon moments after riding Mike Ford's Royal Gunner to a photo finish victory in the inaugural running of the $50,000-added Ak-Sar-Ben Cornhusker Handicap.

Hartack has had many uncomfortable moments with the press around the circuits, but Saturday proved once again that being a winner can make anyone happy.

His account of how he knew he won the extremely tight race brought a roar of laughter to the small audience here Saturday which included trainer Henry Forrest, who saddled Royal Gunner, and Bart Ford proud father of the owner.

"I was 75 percent sure I had the nod when I went under the wire," noted Hartack. "I told the pony boy that, but he said it was close. But when the crowd let go that roar of boos, hell, I knew I won it. It had to be me."

Hartack, an articulate individual in every way, recapped the race the way it appeared from the saddle . .

"I wanted to have about half the horses beat when we made the first turn. This was a large field and many of them were strangers to me. Down the back side I could see the leader (Just About) was getting away a little too far, so I creeped up just a little.

"The Gunner likes to loaf just a little and I didn't want that to happen. Going around the far turn we made our move and actually got the lead sooner than expected.

"After having a short lead for about an eighth of a mile the Gunner really begins to loaf and I had to really keep after him in the stretch."

That was Hartack's review and then he politely said, "I guess that about covers it." And it about did.

Loser in the photo was Sammyren from the Louis Wolfson Harbor View Farm. Just About, who set all the early pace, finished third.

In a surprise move, Nebraskan M. H. Van Berg scratched both of his entries in the big race, Sonny Fleet and Miss Sun Tan.

Van Berg explained both were just rounding into top shape and he was afraid of the slippery track made so by some earlier showers.

Aaron Fires 69 To Lead Western

Chicago (AP)—Tommy Aaron, almost always a contender but not a winner, shot a 69 Saturday for a one-under-par total of 212 and took the third round lead in the $100,000 Western Open Golf tournament.

One stroke back at 213 were Billy Casper, the new National Open king and defending titlist; Ken Venturi, the 1964 Open champion, and Kermit Zarley, the 1962 NCAA champion.

Arnold Palmer's showdown with Casper, who rallied to defeat the slumping Palmer for the National Open crown a week ago, faded. Arnie, demanding a majority of the crowd of 16,300, skidded to 75 for 217.

Both Palmer and Venturi were bitter about the slow play.

"We breeze through the National Open and then come here and slow down," said Arnie. "They put in a rule to speed up play and then they don't do anything about it."

The lowest third round was 37-30 by George Archer of Gilroy, Calif., the 1965 Lucky International champion. His birdies was a competitive record for Medinah's timbered No. 3 course.

The field for Sunday's windup was reduced to 60, with 226 being the cutoff mark.

Aaron is one of the best players among PGA regulars who has never won a tour title. But he's always dangerous and has $16,722 in winnings this year.

Aaron had birdie putts of 4½, 15 and 2 feet and holed out on a 25-foot chip for another. He overshot the ninth green and was trapped on the 15th for his only bogies.

Casper hit at least four traps, costing him bogies each time, but compensated with 5, 30 and 10-foot birdie-3 putts.

Shaw, Mets Win Fourth Straight, Whip Cubs, 9-3

By Associated Press

Bob Shaw has been with the New York Mets only 15 days and he has done something no other Met pitcher had been able to do in the team's five-year history.

Shaw, purchased from San Francisco June 10, gained his fourth victory in as many starts for New York Saturday as the Mets whipped the Chicago Cubs, 9-3.

The four-game winning streak for Shaw marks the first time a Met starter ever has won that many in a row. The 32-year-old right-hander gave up 11 hits but didn't have too much trouble in bringing his over-all record to 5-4.

He received support from Ed Kranepool and Ed Bressoud, who each drove in three runs—Kranepool with a two-run homer and a ground out and Bressod with a three-run homer. Their hitting was enough to extend the Mets' winning streak to four and the Cubs' losing streak to six.

Lee Ella and Ken Berry hit homers against the left field foul pole as the Chicago White Sox edged the New York Yankees, 2-1.

Bob Locker snuffed out a Yankee rally in the ninth by getting Hector Lopez to hit into a double play with the bases loaded and Lou Clinton to ground out.

Ken McMullen triggered a two-run rally in the fourth inning with a single, then lashed a run-scoring double in the ninth inning that gave Washington a 4-3 victory over Boston. Rico Petrocelli hit two homers for Boston.

Al Kaline's two-out homer in the eighth inning brought Detroit a 1-0 victory over Minnesota. The blow came off Gary Roggenburk, who relieved Jim Grant in the seventh, and halted a Tigers' threat.

Mike Hershberger's four runs batted in and Larry Stahl's three key hits led the Kansas City Athletics to a 7-1 victory over Cleveland.

Undefeated Mike Cuellar won his sixth game for Houston by scattering seven hits and the Astros made the most of four errors for a 3-2 victory over St. Louis.

Homers by Bill White and Rich Allen and a triple by Dick Groat powered Philadelphia to an 8-7 victory over Pittsburgh.

Tony Perez' pinch single in the 10th inning drove in Chico Ruiz with the winning run as the streaking Cincinnati Reds won their eighth straight game, edging San Francisco 3-2.

The Atlanta Braves swept a day-night doubleheader from Los Angles Saturday, winning the opener, 5-4, and taking the nightcap, 4-3, handing Dodger right-hander Don Drysdale his sixth straight loss and 10th of the season.

Sam Bowens' ninth inning homer lifted the Baltimore Orioles to a 1-0 victory over the California Angels.

Jazy Ties Own Distance Mark

Sochaux, France (AP) — French long distance star Michel Jazy matched his European record for 1,500-meters Saturday, covering the distance in 3:36.3.

Jazy fell less than a second short of Herb Elliot's world mark of 3:35.6, which the Australian star set six years ago at the Rome Olympic Games.

WHAT A TIME FOR EXERCISES — Dodger second baseman Nate Oliver looks into his glove to see if the ball is still there as the Braves' Denis Menke dumps Oliver on his back in an attempted steal. The ball was still in the glove and Menke was out.

I May Be Wrong

By Curt Mosher
Sunday Sports Columnist

One of my colleagues, adhering strictly to the wishes of LBJ, discarded any thoughts he might have had concerning international travels and spent his vacation in Republican City.

Me, I compromised and took in the Lido de Paris at the Stardust in Las Vegas.

And while that phase wasn't particularly educational the trip was. For instance, I learned there are really two fantasylands in this world: one was created by Walt at Disneyland and the other by somebody in Las Vegas. The guy in Las Vegas wins for pure fantasy.

About the only thing real in Las Vegas is the Desert Inn Country Club, a golf course so finely manicured a guy ought to play barefoot so as not to scratch it up.

Doesn't Necessarily Help

Finely manicured golf courses do not necessarily provide finely manicured golf, however. My partner will attest to that for years as he relates in detail how he was able to shank his ball into the swimming pools which adorn the back yards of houses along five fairways.

There were more interesting things to witness than shanks, however. And some created vast disillusionment.

One was watching Maury Wills get thrown out attempting to steal second. Another, watching Tony Oliva butcher a flyball to centerfield.

Still another was the effort involved in simply attending a game. Presumably, the Dodgers retained their name after the move from Brooklyn in honor of the fans who do a considerable amount of it at 65 miles per hour on the freeways.

No Comparison

There is a distinct impresson gained concerning the two baseball teams in Los Angeles. The Dodgers are THE team, the Angels are simply there. Even the Dodgers ball park in Chavez Ravine far overshadows the Angels' new facility in Anaheim.

The Dodgers, of course, benefit from the San Francisco rivalry and there is hope expressed by Angel partisans such a rivalry will soon be available for the Angels.

Right now, the basis for such hope is San Diego. San Diego recently passed by a 73 per cent vote a building issue for a new multi purpose stadium which will be the home of the Chargers and presumably major league baseball within a couple of years.

Like all newer stadiums, this one is under construction in an area as easily accessible as possible under the heavy traffic conditions of southern California.

Other Things, Too

All was not sports, of course. And there were other observations like the weather. The thought occurred that had Bob Devaney taken his football team to Phoenix to train in their summer weather the Cornhuskers would have gone into the Orange Bowl even lighter than Alabama.

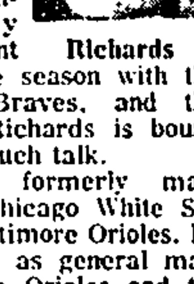
And there was the huge billboard outside of Pampa, Tex., which notes it is the home of Randy Matson. This explains how Matson can throw the weights so far. In West Texas if you want to hit anything, you have to throw it a long way.

And then, there was the service station man in tornado plagued northern Oklahoma, who for five minutes announced he wasn't afraid of storms.

"I've lived here for 30 years," he said. "Have 'em every night. They used to bother me. They don't any more. I ignore them. The other night those hailstones sounded like brick bats on the storm cellar door."

Braves Hire Richards

Atlanta (AP) — The Atlanta Braves hired Paul Richards to help with their farm system Saturday, but left the door open to move him into any job in the organization.



Richards

There has been speculation that Manager Bobby Bragan might not last the season with the slumping Braves, and the hiring of Richards is bound to step up such talk.

Richards formerly managed the Chicago White Sox and the Baltimore Orioles. He also served as general manager of the Orioles and the Houston Astros.

Buckpasser Captures Classic

Chicago (AP)—Ogden Phipps' Buckpasser uncorked a sizzling stretch drive for a record-smashing triumph Saturday in the $108,000 Arlington Classic at one mile in what was billed as the year's top showdown for 3-year-old thoroughbreds.

Buckpasser, ridden by Barullo Baeza, came from far behind around the final turn to win 1½ lengths over Creme Dela Creme in a scorching 1:32 3-5 at Arlington Park.

This broke the world mark of 1:33 1-5 for a mile, first set by Swaps at Hollywood Park in 1956 and equalled by Intentionally at Washington Park in 1959, Pia Star at Arlington Park last year and Hevear at Arlington Park on June 18.

He Jr. was a close third and Buckpasser's stablemate, Impressive, was fourth in the eight-horse field.

Kentucky Derby winner Kauai King, finished close behind Impressive for fifth place.

As expected Impressive, ridden by Ken Knapp, set the pace most of the way, leading by three lengths over He Jr. until the field straightened out for home.

Then Buckpasser began a charge that swept him past horses, including the once-beaten Creme Dela Creme.

The winning tandem's prices were $3.40, $2.20 and $2.20. Creme Dela Creme, suffering his second setback in seven starts this year, paid $3.20 and $2.80. He Jr.'s show price was $4.20.

Lincoln Race Meet

Last Appearance For Auctioneer

One of the biggest winners in Nebraska racing history will be making his last appearance at the fairgrounds thoroughbred meet here July 7-Aug. 6.

Twelve-year-old Auctioneer will head a limit stable at the fairgrounds for the estate of W. J. Danner. While a lot of horses have won more in a single season, few of them could match trips to the post with this gelding.

Auctioneer won just under $5,000 last year and has banked over $3,500 already this season, including a win, second and fourth at Ak-Sar-Ben. He has gained considerable fame with his stretch runs at distances upwards of one mile.

Trainer J. A. Mc Donald has announced plans to again bring his allowance star, Lucky J. A., to the fairgrounds.

This six-year-old has been a consistent performer over the years. He has two wins and a show in three 1966 starts and was out of the money only once while racing eight times in 1965.

Local horseman R.W. White will have six thoroughbreds campaigning.

Heading the list will be Doc's Folly, a four-year-old gelding which was raised by the Lincoln veterinarian. Doc's Folly won four races in a row in 1965, including three straight at the Lincoln track.

Thomas Takes 3 Swim Titles

Council Grove, Kans.—Mike Thomas of Lincoln, Neb., captured three first places in the Council Grove AAU Group Swimming Meet here.

Thomas won the 25-meter butterfly in :21.9, the 25-meter backstroke in :22.8 and the 100-meter individual medley in 1:52.2 in the 8-and-under division.

Eddie Johnson of Lincoln finished third, third and second respectively, in the events won by Thomas.

Nebraska '200' Set July 3

Nebraska's longest auto race, the Nebraska International 200, will unveil the new $50,000 half-mile track, specially built for speed events, at the Nebraska State Fairgrounds in Lincoln Sunday afternoon, July 3. Time trials are set for 1:30 p.m. and the first lap flagged off at 2:30 p.m. in the 100-mile classic.

The race will mark the return of new model stock races at the fairgrounds track under sanction of the International Motor Contest Association, America's oldest sanctioning body of speed.

As this will be the first races ever run over the new half-mile track, the fastest times established in the time trials and race itself will go down in the record books as official marks.

The last IMCA late model race run on the old 5-8 mile track, now rebuilt for horse racing, was won by Dick Hutcherson of Keokuk, Iowa in a 1963 Ford. Hutcherson who went on to win the IMCA stock car championship and later became a top NASCAR star, finished third in the 24-hour endurance race at Le Mans, France last weekend.

Hutcherson holds the one lap and the 50-lap record set in 1963 in a Ford. His time for the one lap is 34.67 and the 50-lap was turned in 27.00.97.

Practically every IMCA stock car champion has competed at Lincoln and the cream of the present crop, including six-time IMCA champion Ernie Derr is expected to be on hand for the inaugural 200-lapper on the new semi-banked half mile clay oval, according to Gene Van Winkle of Lincoln, who will supervise the speed classic for National Speedways.

Ernie Derr won the last 200-lapper held on the old track in 1959 driving a Pontiac. He will return with a new factory-sponsored Dodge.

The new track is the second half-miler built by the Nebraska State Fair board. The old half-mile track was lengthened to a 5-8 mile track in 1958 to accommodate longer horse races, at a cost of $70,364 under Ed Schultz.

The new half-mile track, built within the 5-8 mile horse track, is equipped with a steel guard rail, an infield lake and all the latest electrical equipment for pits and timing devices at a cost in excess of $50,000.

According to general manager Henry Brandt, the Nebraska State Fair Board has invested over $200,000 in the past twenty-five years building tracks and improving the grounds and grandstand to give speed patrons the finest racing tracks both for horse racing and auto racing anywhere in the nation.

Lincoln, which has gained a nationwide reputation in the speed world, will proudly unveil it's latest contribution to auto racing with the Nebraska 200 on July 3.

Engine Blows So Saldana Hops Into Another Race Car and Goes

Losing an engine would sideline most of the drivers at Midwest Speedway for at least a little while.

But not Joe Saldana. This popular young driver lost an engine out of his own car, No. 65 some time ago, but hasn't missed a weekend of racing since.

In fact, No. 65 is ready to race again, but Saldana won't be in his own car for possibly another week.

It all involves an agreement he made to drive Bob Trostle's No. 96 out of Des Moines for at least one more weekend at Midwest Speedway.

This is the third car Joe has driven since he blew his engine with a borrowed cam shaft. He has also driven No. 81 for Bill Moyer and No. 18 for Louie Quattrocchi.

Joe Saldana
Busy Driver

"I'll be in No. 96 again tonight unless something is wrong with the car," notes Joe. He was at Knoxville, Ia. for a Saturday night of racing. The only chance he would drive No. 65 is if the Trostle car was involved in a mishap or had engine trouble.

"My parts took nearly three weeks to get here, but No. 65 is about ready again. In fact, it could be ready tonight."

Asked to compare the cars, Saldana said they were virtually equal in every way. He won two feature races in No. 65 before the engine trouble. He has also been close several times at Knoxville.

Possibly the most popular driver currently at Midwest Speedway, this will likely be his last year of regular driving in the Lincoln area.

Saldana hopes to realize a life's ambition next season and put his own sprint car on the IMCA circuit.

Saldana built the car the past winter when he lived five months in California with famed auto builder Don Brown. "We started on three cars about alike. Greg Weld got his just last week.

"The other two are for Don and myself, but probably won't be ready for racing until next season. Don wants to get back here and get in some driving of his own so the cars will wait."

Racing of the super modifieds starts at 8 p.m. tonight at Midwest Speedway located at 27th and Superior Sts. just one mile north of 27th and Cornhusker Highway.

Goofy Bowling Brings 'Em Back

By TOM HENDERSON

"This is positively my next to the last time in this tournament." That's how the sign over the exit at Chicago's Archer Recreation bowling alley — site of the Peterson Classic — reads.

Henderson

Twenty-seven Lincoln bowlers and one Omahan, who competed in the tournament in early June under the sponsorship of Irv Kahl, agree wholeheartedly with the sign.

"I think they have a bunch of comedians running the thing," remembers Red Smith of Lincoln. "They slicken up the alleys in some spots, and leave them dry in others. Some of them (the pins) are heavy and some are light. Some pins are set off spot purposely. There's no uniformity in them (the alleys) at all."

The tournament, which runs from December through July, attracted over 17,400 bowlers this year, and although the $32,000 first prize money provides plenty of incentive, many were there merely to try to overcome the tricky alley conditions they couldn't overcome the year before.

"You try it once and do so badly that you'd like to go back and try it again," Smith notes.

"I think a lot of it is psychological. When one squad gets through they take everybody out of the bowling arena and some big iron doors and then doctor the alleys before they let the next squad into the arena. Everybody knows they're doctoring the alleys and they keep wondering what they're doing to them."

Another mental hazard which must be overcome is the huge pictures of former champions which hang from the ceiling in front of the bowler.

"You can't even see the pins if you stand straight up at the foul line," Smith relates. "It makes you feel like there's a barrier there."

Smith had the most trouble with the greased alleys.

"You'd roll a ball that should hook and it'd just keep sliding away in that grease," he explains.

"The conditions were so ridiculous that about all you can do is have fun and enjoy it."

Operation Outdoors

by Chuck Roberts

Last weekend's fishing contest at Pawnee Lake north of Emerald really only proved one thing—the Emerald merchants are an interested bunch of guys in their area's outdoors possibilities and they are attempting, in their way, to get more persons informed as to what's available in the way of outdoor recreation close to Lincoln. They did a good job of it even if the fish didn't bite and we admire their effort . . .

Something that appeals personally is a Father-Son Fishing Day. There doesn't need to be a prize because competition between self and fish is competition enough.

So's competition between father and son. Some of the lakes around are pretty heavily populated with bullheads. It could be a lot of fun. You mignt even find a new fishing partner.

Arrests Made

Last week, as well as a lot of other times, arrests were made for taking undersized Northerns. The facts that in certain parts of the state you can keep Northern Pike (west of Highway 81) regardless of size and also that in other states there is no size limit, seems to make a lot of fishermen scratch their heads over the law around here.

These facts may also do enough to a fisherman's thinking to make him take a quick look around for the law and stuff the fish in an old boot in the trunk.

And there is also another reason these illegal fish are taken and persons arrested. For years around here (forever) it's been pretty hard to come by a fish over 20 inches.

When a fellow catches a Northern that size and larger but under the legal size of 24 inches, it's still a big fish even though it's "not big enough." But many times, as evidenced by arrests, it's large enough to take home and show the folks.

Management's Reasons

There's a good reason why the Game Commission feels 24 inches ought to be the size to keep and take home. They think that if a Northern Pike is allows to stay in a lake for another year so so he can do a lot to keep down the population of bluegills and bullheads. The theory is that in the critical first years of a lake a fish population balance must be kept in order for it not to become overpopulated with undersized fish at a latter date.

Again, the Fisheries Division of the Game Commission* feels that by keeping these northerns around for another year or so, they can do a lot to help the desired balance of smaller fish.

They don't know this is true. But they think it is. That's why it's important to have fisherman cooperation at this point. If it does prove to be a true theory is could make the difference between great fishing and fishing. But if fishermen keep taking these undersized, "theory fish" out of the lake, it will be pretty hard to ever find out.

It might also be worth mentioning that a Northern reaches maturity around 24 inches and is capable of reproducing. Another year of growth might be responsible for a few more fish to catch a few years later.

Retriever Trial Today

If you're looking for an outdoors activity this weekend and fishing or boating don't get a nod, come out to the Nebraska Dog and Hunt Club's monthly field trial. Come anyway. It's located on North 48th Street north of Arrow Airport. The trial gets underway today at 8 a.m. and will last to around 4 p.m.

You'll see retrieving dogs, Labradors and Golden Retrievers mostly, doing the sort of things that any hunting dog should be able to do. Retriever trial tests aren't usually something someone juts dreams up for the doggies to do. They are actual hunting, field and water-situations, that happen every year to most hunters.

Last week's gentle breezes (40 m.p.h.) kept fishermen from fish or fish from fishermen. Whichever it was, the fisherman didn't catch many. Including me.

Smaller Minnows Do Trick

By RICK AKIN

A shortage of large minnows didn't keep five fishermen from coming home with 200 pounds of catfish from the Harlan County Reservoir recently.

"We fished with minnows," Lincoln's Harold Stiver said. "But when we got there the ones that were available were smaller than what we wanted. Not one was over two inches. We couldn't find any any larger."

But alas, the small minnows appealed to the catfish at the fishing site — on the Republican River just before it empties into the reservoir.

The quintet — Stiver, Ken Beaver of Sterling, Bob Heusman of Lincoln; Jack Kelch of Fairbury and Tony Antonson of Omaha — set out their lines about 5 p.m.

They kept pulling them in all night and got 22 fish with a total poundage of about 200 pounds. The largest was an even 20 pounds. The rest were mostly seven, eight and 10 pounds, Stiver said.

"The funny thing about it is," Stiver said. "Nobody else was catching anything. We saw guys who had been there three or four days and had caught only a couple."

The expedition was the first time the five men, all connected in some way with the milk industry, have fished together.

But after the large haul, they plan to go together again in August.

What's the tactics for the next trip? Large minnows or small?

"Well, I think we'll get some large minnows next time, Stiver said. "But after last time, it sure makes you think."

SOLUNAR TABLES
WHEN TO FISH OR HUNT

The schedule of solunar periods for the following week as printed below has been taken from John Alden Knight's Solunar Tables. Plan your day so that you will be fishing good territory, hunting good cover during these times if you wish to find the best sport that each has to offer. The tables are not a guarantee you will catch fish or see game during the period, however.

The major periods begin at the time shown and last for an hour and a half or two hours thereafter, and are in black face type. The minor periods are somewhat shorter in duration.

Mental Hospitals Using Golf As Therapy

Golf has become a therapeutic-recreational asset at the State Mental Hospital in Lincoln.

Saturday the hospital opened its Hillside Fairways, a five-hole sand greens layout, spread over 7½ acres of natural golf terrain. There are two par-4s and three par-3s on the course.

With a minimum of groundwork done beforehand, recreation director Mrs. Rose Hanzlicek promoted the idea last November, enlisted the planning advice Pioneers Golf Course pro John Peterson and today opened the course for use.

Mrs. Hanzlicek said that about 10 patients and the grounds crew constructed the course and that no extra funds were needed. She said that about 25 patients had expressed an interest in playing and hopes that the number will grow.

"There are about 25 people thinking about it," Mrs. Hanzlicek said. "And we anticipate that number to grow. Hopefully we will someday have 100 people playing golf."

The State Mental Hospital at Hastings is building a miniature golf course, financed by canteen profits reserved for patient activity. Patient enthusiasm on the city's miniature golf courses prompted the project.

Mrs. Hanzlicek gave the following therapeutic advantages of golf:

—It provides the opportunity for the sublimation of aggression.

—It is a gratifying experience for those learning a new skill.

—It is a sport to be practiced and perfected.

—It is an experience in adapting the impulsive person to following prescribed rules.

—It offers a good opportunity for interpersonal relationships.

Holmes Park pro John Young was on hand Saturday for the opening ceremony in Lincoln. He gave a clinic and shot a round.

Houston, Tex. (AP) — Fancy jabbing Ernie Terrell, insisting he is the only heavyweight champion in the world, defends his World Boxing Association title Tuesday night against slugging Doug Jones, the No. 2 challenger.

The WBA recognizes Terrell instead of Cassius Clay as heavyweight champion and Terrell says that makes him the sole possessor of the title.

"I am the World Boxing Association champion, the only bona fide boxing association in the world so I am the only champion," Terrell said.

"If I am to be referred to as the WBA champion, then Cassius Clay must be referred to as some other kind of champion. It's not fair to boxing, me or Doug Jones.

"You have to play according to the rules and Clay broke those rules. I've signed three contracts to fight Clay and haven't been in the ring with him yet. He always manages to talk himself out of the big fights and gets the little ones. He saves the big ones for me."

Many persons close to the fight game feel Terrell has one of the best left hands in boxing but Jones says he is not impressed.

"From the fights I have seen him in all he did was jab and grab," Jones said.

"He also seems to be confused about who he is fighting. He talks all the time about Cassius Clay. If that's who he thinks he is fighting I'll have to straighten him out Tuesday."

Terrell, 27, a 6-foot-6 Chicago native, is expected to come into the ring weighing around 213, some 20 pounds heavier than his New York challenger. Jones, 29, stands 6-1.

Autos, Housing Continue to Slide

New York (AP)—Two of the weaker spots in the economy—automobile sales and housing starts—continued to slide last week.

Though automobiles are selling at their second highest level, they aren't keeping pace with last year.

Housing starts fell in May to their lowest level in 3½ years.

Otherwise, the economy kept on an even keel, spurred by demands of the Vietnam War.

General Motors reported selling 107,232 new passenger cars in the middle 10 days of June, off 14.1% from 124,845 in June 1965.

Performances by the other automakers:

Ford, 58,451 sold in mid-June against 62,738 a year earlier, decline of 7%; Chrysler, 38,976 against 34,428, an advance of 14%, and American Motors, 8,143 against 7,276, a gain of 12%.

Passenger car production last week totaled an estimated 189,100 units, compared with 186,291 the previous week and 201,779 a year ago.

Housing starts in May fell 13% to an annual rate of 1,306,000 units from 1,499,000 in April. A year earlier the pace was 1,516,000.

Credit Squeeze

Some economists term housing starts a leading indicator, foreshadowing changes of direction in business activity. But a government official said: "This is simply a manifestation of the credit squeeze that housing is in."

Freight traffic on the nation's railroads last week was the highest in 22 years, showing an increase of 8.6% over a year earlier.

The advance of the cost of living—which has been in its steepest climb in 15 years—was kept to a minimal one-tenth of one per cent in May by a drop in food prices.

Grocery prices fell six-tenths of one per cent—the first drop in eight months. The decline was offset by rises in the costs of clothing, housing, medical care and personal services.

The result was that consumers paid $11.26 to buy goods and services worth $10 in the 1957-59 base period.

Average earnings of factory workers climbed 60% a week in May to $99.22 for those with three dependents and to $91.35 for single workers.

Cost-of-living pay raises will go to more than 200,000 workers with labor contracts pegged to the government index, including 3 cents an hour to 95,000 aerospace workers and 5 to 75,000 meatpacking employes.

Heifers and Fed Steers Are Steady

Omaha (UPI)—A reduction in the number of fat cattle at Omaha last week failed to generate any noticeable degree of price recovery.

Weight continued to be a strong factor with the best demand centering on steers under 1,200 lbs., except for a limited number of top bracket offerings. Fed steers and heifers closed mostly steady. The week's top on steers was 26.10 and the week's top on heifers was 25.35.

For the week, barrows and gilts sold 25 lower compared to the previous week's close.

At the close, butchers weighing 190-310 lbs. sold from 22.00-25.75, an outside top of 26.25 paid sparingly. Sows were steady to 25 higher, instances 50 up on light weights. The week's high on butchers was 26.65, with the top on sows 21.50.

Spring slaughter lamb prices took quite a lacing during the week and finished 1.50-2.00 lower. The best on springers was 24.50.

There were a number of steer sales right under that top at 25.60-26.00, with the inside ticket paid for a mostly prime load at 1,394 lbs.

Most choice steers sold from 24.75-25.50 and this included weights from 1225-1346 lbs. Choice heifers were mostly 24.00-25.00, mixed good and choice from 23.25-24.00.

The average price of slaughter steers during the week, as computed by the U.S. Dept. of Agriculture, was 24.70, compared to 24.91 the previous week and 26.38 a year ago.

Advances Made by Grains

Chicago (UPI) — Wheat, soybeans, corn, rye and oats were all substantially higher last week on the Chicago Board of Trade.

Intense trade and price activity made the week one of the most active on the board of trade in recent years. The 270 million bushel trade on Tuesday was a board record.

All deliveries of soybeans reached new season highs, with the greatest price advances on the old crop.

Wheat trade was brisk and prices moved higher along with export trade.

In corn trade new crop months showed unusual strength Tuesday, when all deliveries climbed to new season high prices.

Rye and oats were featureless.

Blue Chips Narrow As Securities Irregular

New York (UPI)—The stock market wrote an irregular story again last week, punctuated by wide price fluctuations in the high-flying glamor issues and narrow movement in the blue chips and cyclical shares. Trading eased.

There was little in the way of incentive for the "traditional summer rally" the analysts are always talking about and most outside news was interpreted as bearish for the market.

Chief depressant proved to be familiar uncertainties over a possible tax boost as an anti-inflation tactic, stemming in part from rumors concerning a scheduled meeting of President Johnson and his top economic advisers.

This meeting was called routine in Washington and, in fact, was postponed.

The House Appropriations Committee's approval of further government spending for Johnson's fiscal 1967 budget added to the confusion.

The Vietnam situation was not mentioned too loudly but many brokers believe it remains a damper on any real progress in the marketplace.

Technically, analysts were heartened by volume contraction during declines and expansion during upswings.

The averages once again outshone the rest of the market except for the utility indicator which dropped to a new yearly low in each session.

Hydro Plan To Begin

Buenos Aires (AP) — The government has ordered work on one of the largest public projects ever started in Argentina, the Chocon-Cerros Colorados project.

At an estimated cost of $359 million, the hydroelectric complex should solve Argentina's recurring lack of electric power.

A dam will harness the waters of two rivers, the Limay and the Neuquen, at the foot of the Andes Cordillera, in northern Patagonia.

Argentina expects 65.6% of the cost to be financed through foreign channels, mainly international organizations such as the World Bank and the Inter-American Development Bank.

Besides providing some 1.2 million kilowatts of electric power, the project calls for irrigation of 250,000 acres in upper Rio Negro Valley.

Terry Carpenter Says He Will Not Re-introduce Liberty Amendment

If the so-called Liberty Amendment to the U.S. Constitution is re-introduced into the 1967 Legislature, you can be sure Scottsbluff Sen. Terry Carpenter won't be doing any of the leading. He's had it.

Carpenter introduced the amendment in the 1965 Legislature through his Resolution No. 9.

It was crushed, 39-7, after several emotional floor sessions and intensive lobbying by persons favoring the proposition.

The Liberty Amendment constitutionally would bar the federal government from imposing a personal income tax and also strip the government at its proprietary enterprise functions.

Unopposed for re-election to a four-year term, Carpenter now says "I introduced the thing, not because I believed in it, but because I thought it was an issue which should have been heard.

"I will eagerly await in the next session those birddogs who are still for it," Carpenter remarked.

The Scottsbluff senator said his anticipation includes an appearance of Henry E. Kuhlmann of Grand Island. Kuhlmann made the Liberty Amendment a major portion of his unsuccessful campaign for governor in this year's Republican primary.

Carpenter explained he frequently sponsors legislation simply to provoke a public examination of the issue as well as a means of "self-education.

"It not only helps the state, but it broadens my own knowledge. I learn things in the process and in the debate. That's why you'll find me supporting the bill in the morning and opposing it in the afternoon."

Somewhat wistfully, Carpenter acknowledged his frequent change of position "probably is one reason why I was never elected to higher public office."

NU Coed Has 2 Roles—Track Star, Dorm Assistant

By JAN SACK

What'd you say about dumb athletes? This just doesn't hold up when talking about Carol Moseke.

This 21-year-old blonde coed throws the discus, shot put and javelin and scores in the academic world, too. She has a mere 3.8 average out of a possible perfect 4.0 at the University of Nebraska.

Ah, taking ALL physical education courses! Not on your life. She'll be a senior in secondary education this fall and has a double major in mathematics and physical education.

'Sold on Teaching'

Carol is vitally interested in young people and this is why she's "sold on teaching. I just really think you're in the swing of things when you're with young people. You don't lose contact with what's going on."

And in the swing of things she was last year as student assistant in Pound Hall. She had 38 enthusiastic charges with at least 138 problems.

"This was really a great experience for me," Carol said.

Next year she's tackling even more youngsters as student assistant at the new Mari Sandoz Hall. She will have 50-54 girls on her floor. And she'll also help set up student government for the dormitory.

Aside from being student assistant, a full-time student plus an active track woman, Carol is a member of Newman Club on the NU campus.

When asked about hobbies, she laughed and said, "I don't have time. I enjoy eating and might like cooking if I had time."

Practices at Fairgrounds

Most of her spare minutes are spent at the State Fairgrounds practicing. This she does one to two hours daily

Why practice at the Fairgrounds? The answer is simple. Says Carol, "We don't feel we can work out at the University and the local high school facilities are used for boys track."

The "we" she referred to includes several other girls interested in track, mostly high schoolers. Carol is a member of the Beatrice Roadrunners coached by Randall Lambert.

However, the coaching is being done by correspondence this summer as Coach Lambert is attending summer school in Colorado.

"We really coach ourselves," Carol admitted, "but he sets up the meets and sends in entries."

Carol has known Mr. Lambert since high school where he taught English at Cedar Rapids (Nebraska not Iowa). He coached boys basketball in the winter and one spring thought the girls might enjoy track.

First Year

She was a junior at the time and said, "Our first year wasn't much, especially in Nebraska. We went to the Junior Olympics in Fremont, the Midwest AAU and the Cozad meet."

She started making a name for herself that year, though, as she placed second in girls shot put at the National AAU in Los Angeles.

As a senior, "things got rolling, but most of the meets were in Colorado and Kansas," Carol said. It was off to the nationals in Dayton, O., where she placed 4th in the shot and 7th in discus—but this time she competed in the women's division.

Last summer her track finesse gave Carol a chance for some world traveling as she went on the AAU tour to Russia, Poland and West Germany as an alternate. She competed only in West Germany and Poland.

"In Poland, the whole meet was outstanding because of the enthusiastic crowd I guess everyone was a little scared. I had hoped to throw better than I ever had, but at least I did as well. If I'm not nervous I just won't do well," she said.

'Glad To Be Home'

Even though the trip to Europe was exciting, "All of us were glad to be back home."

As for the future, she's willing to let that take care of itself. Carol wants to teach in high school and, of course, at the back of her mind are

Summer Arrives and Milady Combats Heat—

Summer officially arrived this week.

And with it some of Lincoln's hot weather.

Though apparel buyers are at markets ordering all sorts of cover-ups and warm clothing for fall and winter — Lincolnites are enjoying cool spots and cool clothes.

Of course, cool clothes means fewer clothes. There's nothing like a swim suit when the thermometer reaches the 90s—and nothing like swimming to combat the hot and sticky feeling.

A quick check at Lincoln's swimming pools found that many Lincoln women were beating the heat in this fashion.

And though bikinis may be in vogue in the south of France—women here are more conservative garbed in one and two piece swim suits.

Mrs. Gene Rowe is ready for a dip.

Mrs. Gary Moyer keeps the sun from her head.

French Go Formal, but in America Women Have the Say

By ALINE MOSBY, UPI

New York—New York fashion shows are as friendly and folksy as a basket social compared to the Paris variety.

After years of covering the Paris fashion parade, I took in some New York showings of next winter's clothes to make a comparison.

A French style parade is formal and often as dramatic and exciting as a minor theatrical presentation.

The showings on Seventh Avenue in New York are informal and friendly and, well, very American.

My first stop was the showroom of designer Molly Parnis, who furnishes clothes to Mrs. Lyndon Johnson and other celebrities. A nice-looking woman in a dark green linen dress was handing out programs and directing store buyers to their seats.

"Just make yourself at home," she cheerily advised some buyers. Only when one guest trilled, "Molly darling . . ." did it become evident that chatty usherette was Miss Parnis herself.

Staggering

The very thought of Hubert de Givenchy or Antonio Castillo doling out programs in their perfumed Paris houses is staggering.

Most Paris designers, such as Yves St Laurent and Guy Laroche, are busy backstage during the performance, helping dress the mannequins, attaching an earring, okaying a hair-do. It is, indeed, a performance.

Laroche, St. Laurent, Marc Bohan at Dior and Pierre Cardin emenoe only at the end of the showings to be cooed over by press and buyers.

Some designers, such as Pierre Balmain and Cristobal Balenciaga, never appear at all. Chanel sits at the top of a winding staircase to watch her collections, like a child at mama's party.

Miss Parnis not only herded guests to their seats but called out numbers of outfits and their wholesale prices. The numbers chore in Paris is reserved for salesladies. Prices, horrors, never are mentioned until buyers sit down later in the manager's office.

During her show Miss Parnis entertained the customers with such comments as "Oh, I think this dress is so pretty", or, "I'm not mentioning the price of this dress because it's so vulgar."

'As Far As We Go'

Designer Rudi Gernreich also called out numbers and gave a running commentary at his Seventh Avenue show. "I wanted you all to see this model," he would say cozily, or, while the mannequin whisked off her dress to display the matching bra and slip, "this is as far as we go."

Although designer Jacques Tiffeau of the New York firm of Tiffeau and Busch is French-born, he gave his show the homey American touch by entitling the program, "New York, My City."

The only show I saw that bowed to the Paris style was, naturally, at Christian Dior's New York ready-to-wear salon. It is decorated with gay moire walls and white trim, a small copy of the large Paris house. The sales girls called the numbers and the designer stayed out of sight.

Many Paris designers give exotic names as well as numbers to their outfits. This custom is unknown on Seventh Avenue.

The Paris mannequin is stylized and dramatic. Each designer coaches his girls differently, but most walk as if they were tilted ironing boards. At the salons of Louis Feraud and Emmanuel Ungaro the girls pose with one leg bent sharply before walking down the runway.

More Normal

On Seventh Avenue the models walk in a more normal way.

One could make the same comparisons about the clothes.

The New York designers offer finished ready-to-wear to store buyers. The clothes look easy to wear and simple.

Paris fashions cost three to 10 times as much and look it—costly fabrics, complicated sewing, impeccable fit. They are custom-made originals, to be sold for reproduction by outside manufacturers. They represent creative work. Paris still leads the world when it comes to fashion design as an art form.

The proof is that the New York shows for next fall's clothes are peppered with ideas from last January's Paris collections.

The "trumpet" sleeve, wide at the wrist, that designer Marc Bohan of Dior unveiled in Paris showed up on Miss Parnis' evening dresses.

The Gernreich collection appeared to be influenced by Paris designer Pierre Cardin—armholes that bare the shoulders, colored stockings to match short skirts.

"The Capucci dress", muttered one New York buyer, referring to a Paris salon, when a full-skirted green chiffon number flounced by at the Dior-New York collection.

Different

Even the atmosphere is different at the New York showings. Most Paris salons are in the elegant sections of Paris. New York ready-to-wear designers have more modest showrooms in skyscrapers on noisy, dirty Seventh Avenue, jammed with boys pushing carts full of garments.

European buyers who gather in Paris include many men. But buyers from U.S. stores who flock to the New York wholesale salons are mostly women — usually tall, slim, fashionably dressed in flat shoes with big buckles, lacy stockings, linen shifts, etc.

It appears that the ladies decide what women will find in their shops in this country.

Saturday Night in Lincoln

Memories Brighten as Class Members Recall 'Good Old Days'

Faded memories grew brighter in Lincoln Saturday night as class reunions were scattered in various parts of the city.

Among those returning for parties were members of the Lincoln Northeast High School Class of 1951 for a dinner-dance at the Lincoln Hotel. They plan a picnic at Pioneers Park today.

Graduates of the Lincoln General Hospital School of Nursing gathered at the Cornhusker Hotel for a reunion attended by graduates of all classes. Dr. Robert E. Palmer of Westminster Presbyterian Church was guest speaker

Class of '46

The Lincoln High Class of 1946 held its reunion at the Black Coach Supper Club. Don Wendelin was in charge of the buffet dinner and dance.

The Men's Club of the Cathedral of the Risen Christ sponsored a dinner-dance at East Hills Supper Club for members of the parish. Val Zitek was in charge of arrangements.

All-Staters visiting the University of Nebraska campus for a three-week session of fine arts classes enjoyed a picnic at Antelope Park.

The United Synagogue Youth Group had an outdoor dance and swimming party, honoring past presidents of the group The Saturday event was at East Hills, with Gene Schaefer as chairman

Dr Alan Pickering was in charge of plans for the Interprofessional Institute dinner at Holiday Inn.

At Pinewood

Featured at Pinewood Bowl in Pioneers Park was "An Evening With Rodgers and Hammerstein" Leo Kopp directed the Lincoln Symphony Orchestra and Chorale in the presentation. It will be repeated tonight.

July Meat Supply Up

July means seashore and hammocks, gardening and vacation time. Plan your meat purchases for these leisure-filled days.

Beef for the charcoal grill is at the top of many shopping lists. Supplies will be more than a year ago and slightly more than we've seen in the past few months. Much of the supply will be the high quality beef just right for broiling.

Although pork is at a seasonal low, pork production will be slightly above last year's levels. Buy a lean, trim pork loin roast to cook in the cool of the morning. Cool and refrigerate the meat and serve it in sandwiches piled high with lettuce for a refreshing evening meal.

Hot dogs are very much a part of July menus, so much part of July means. Hot dogs will be in the news as the month's activities include hot dog queens, hot dog eating contests and new recipes. July is a big month in the production of franks, bologna, summer sausage and other cold cuts. The American Meat Institute estimates that production may be moderately above a year ago.

The popularity of beef continues to keep veal supplies down. Supplies may be 5% below a year ago. Lamb supplies also will continue at low levels.

the 1968 Olympics in Mexico City.

On July 1-2 she'll compete in the Women's National AAU at Frederick, Md., aiming for a berth on the U.S. team which has dual meets arranged in Los Angeles with the Poles on July 16-17 and the Russians on July 23-24.

She sums up her interest in track with "I was at the right place at the right time." Carol is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joe Moseke of Cedar Rapids

Foyer Cleaning Easier With Tile

You may be one of those fortunate home owners who has a large closet in the foyer or near the main entrance to your home. It's the ideal place to leave rain-soaked or snow-covered boots and rubbers, which otherwise would be dragged across your expensive carpet.

However, dirty overshoes leave their marks. Snow melts and rain drips onto the floor. It's a good idea to cover the closet floor with ceramic tile, the Tile Council of America suggests. It's sanitary, waterproof and you can whisk up that dirt easily.

Exotic Recipe

Note to cooks who like to try foreign recipes: grape leaves, packed in brine, should be rinsed and drained before using. The grape leaves take to interesting rice stuffings.

Watches Wind Up In Color

New York (UPI) — High color charm watches that can be worn as accessories just about anywhere, including the wrist, are a fashion trend in timepieces.

"This new trend toward color in fashion watches fits in with recent findings of psychologists who report that most women dream in color, while most men dream only in black-and-white," says George Keyo, women's fashion expert for the Caravelle Division of Bulova.

"Traditionally, women have preferred yellow gold color watches with yellow gold color dial markings and hands. Now this traditional feminine preference is enhanced by the bright reds, yellows, blues, greens, and other high colors found on the newest charm watches."

He noted that the color appeal of the new watches enhances their versatility as fashion accessories that can be worn from the lapel, around the neck, from a belt, on an epaulette, or draped, hung or pinned on a hat, hairdo, handbag, fur-piece or scarf.

DEAR DIARY

Just in case your young camper is "too busy" or "hasn't anything to say" one of the greeting card companies has come up with a solution.

Called a camp writing kit, the folder is decorated with an animal postman on the front, and an open mail pouch inside. The pouch contains seven cards with such messages as:

"This camp is really ....."

"You would be ..... of me if you were here."

"I am learning a lot of ..... things here at camp."

"Boy, I sure could use some .....!"

Wonder what some of the fill-ins would be if the child were truthful . . .

Plenty of Water!

And one Lincolnite was mopping up the basement, yet laughing about the floor of water.

She had been gone for the weekend and had asked her 22-year-old niece (who is spending the summer doing graduate work at the University) to check the de-humidifier.

When Milady returned on Monday, a note from niece informed her:

"The de-humidifier is okay. The pan has PLENTY of water in it."

Same Place, Same Time

Forty-nine years ago was the last time they met-together. Then they were students at the now disbanded Bellevue College and in the same class.

Through the years Mmes. Charlotte Day of Ottawa, Ill., and Edward Donaho of Berea, O.; and the Misses Clara Noyes and Amy Hanson have contacted each other—and have seen one another—but never have the four been in the same place at the same time.

The out-of-towners and Mr. Donaho were in Lincoln this week—so a reunion occurred.

The gown was styled with a portrait neckline and Kabuki sleeves of lace above an Empress Josephine waistline. The floor-length A-line skirt featured a scalloped lace edge and, above it, lace rising to knee height circled the skirt. World of Women

Mrs. Hardin relaxes at home.

NU-Flavored Life Exciting

By KAYE OLLENBURG

Raising a family of five children is in itself a challenge, but add to that the role of being the University of Nebraska Chancellor's wife and you have what Mrs. Clifford Hardin calls "a wonderful, interesting and exciting life."

Mrs. Hardin's exciting life of college association began when she was a student at Purdue University. She was a member of Pi Beta Phi Sorority and, as a senior, president of Mortar Board.

College Life Challenges

"Several years ago we decided to pursue education as our career. For us it has been a privilege to be at the University and watch its tremendous growth the past seven years," remarked Mrs. Hardin. As the Chancellor's wife being very interested and helpful where possible—yet not interfering—is a challenge she often faces

Becoming absorbed in every phase of student and faculty activities is a part of college life she thoroughly enjoys. It also affords her the opportunity to be hostess for many receptions and teas given for students, faculty, visitors to the campus and others associated with the University.

A very charming and gracious person with a warm and sincere comment for each person she meets, Mrs. Hardin says, "It is both a privilege and pleasure as well as responsibility to entertain these groups."

Her interest doesn't stop here though as she actively takes part in the Faculty Wives Club, Dames, alumni groups and the YWCA Advisory Board.

Community Work

Community organizations have also provided her with an opportunity to serve and use her many talents. Among the groups she works with are the Lincoln General Hospital Auxiliary, Lincoln Symphony Guild, First-Plymouth Congregational Church and at one time she was a member of the Girl Scout Board. On the state level she served as Heart Fund chairman for the American Heart Assn.

Mrs. Hardin also belongs to several study luncheon groups as she finds them "stimulating mentally as well as socially" and offers her the chance to meet many interesting people.

"I'm a very fortunate and very lucky person to have such a wonderful husband and family." Her family of children include Mrs. Larry Wood (Susan) of Denver; Clifford of Dallas; Cindy, a Kansas University student studying in France this summer; Nancy, a recent high school graduate doing summer school work at NU and Jim, who will be a third grader next year.

Accompanying Chancellor Hardin on his many trips has always been enjoyable for her. The most memorable one she says, was one to Africa six years ago, where she saw animals in their natural habitat and "I did go on one of those safaris I so often read about."

"My hope is that my life will be worthwhile to humanity as each day is very exciting and stimulating when I can be of help to my family and to education."

MALE MODES

Merchandiser Forecasts Splurge in Spending by Over-65 Age Group

The president of one of the big department stores recently proclaimed, in a speech in New York, "With Medicare, we are going to see a splurge in spending that will make the teen-agers look like amateurs—which, of course, they are!"

And, he added, "the over-65 group will increase 19% in the 1965-75 decade. So let's welcome the big spenders who may well be the fashion setters of the future!

Trends—Whether you're a Mod or Mod-not, you'll like the socks called by that name—in a heavy corduroy weave of nylon in all shades . . . There's now a blazer suit, in some of the stores, in summer weights and in summer colors — even in white . . . Surprisingly good sellers for the Southern resort season, were silk slacks in multi-color random striping — striking combination with deep-tone blazers.

Care of Clothes—To rid shoes of scuff marks, rub on a matching wax crayon, and then buff with soft cloth . . . Lipstick marks will come off wool clothing if rubbed gently with a clean cloth dampened in cold water . . . You can clean up the metallic buttons on your blazer with a vinegar dampened cloth, and they'll shine . . . And toothpaste has been found to be an excellent cleaner for any of your cufflinks, tie tacks, and other jewelry.

In the Stores—It looks like a big year for the broad-brimmed "planter" hat for country and beach wear. These huge, colorfully-banded hats have big appeal to the younger men . . . Mod sport shirt patterns are already being adapted for more mature wearers, and some of the handsomest in the stores are the restrained, but colorful, polka dots.

Dress Tips—It is almost impossible to get some stains off shoes. If they still show after a shine, have bootblack try a darker polish or a stain . . . When you take clothes out of a garment bag, hang them on the shower rod, steam the bathroom and this will remove any moth-repellent odors . . . If you carry a money clip and no wallet, have your business card set in plastic, and tuck it in with the bills for identification in case of loss.

The Other Half—An idiosyncrasy (perhaps not a bad idea, at that) is seen in suburban England where a driving rain is common. Many people put on their raincoats backward on the theory that, when heading into the rain, your front gets wettest.

New Secret Weapon—A big U.S. chemical firm has developed "instant camouflage," a uniform fabric impregnated with the formula, which will change color to blend with the environment. It makes troops impossible to spot from the air.

Sartorial Advice — "To be dressed properly, a man must always wear a flower," insists dapper Skitch Henderson, who has them sent daily to his office.

Travel Tip—When flying, carry a suit or two in a garment cover. The stewardess will hang it up, and it will be readily-wearable on arrival.

Fashion Hints

Daisies do tell, in summertime fashions. Daisy patterns show in sportswear and sleepwear, in dress prints, in jewelry, even in wallpaper patterns. One cosmetics manufacturer has given a "crazy daisy" title to its new lipstick, powder and nail enamel. The cosmetics themselves are summertime pinks for lipsticks and nails, and the range of beige shades for the powders. It's the packaging that plays up the daisy theme.

• • •

It's going to be a plum beautiful fall for girls. Look for plum and grape tones to prevail in cottons and sportswear wools . . . from deep purple to almost fuchsia. Important mixers include orange, green, blue, gold and brown in prints and plaids.

• • •

Men's summer formal wear used to consist of the white dinner jacket or the black dinner jacket if a man didn't own a white one. Now reports Gentlemen's Quarterly, the men are wearing blue, red and gold, and dinner jackets made also of madras, batik, seersucker, or silk. Typical in the white silk group — one with white scroll embroidery on the shawl collar and cuffs.

Women Can Outsmart Those Rising Prices

By CHARLES NICODEMUS
Chicago Daily News Special

Washington—Ladies!!!

Want to know how to shop so you can outsmart those rising food prices—and help back inflation in the bargain?

Here are tips from a gal who knows—a mother of 4 whose job it is to worry about you and soaring food prices.

She's Asst. Sec. of Labor Esther Peterson, special advisor to the president on consumer affairs—a housewife and workwife who practices what she and Lyndon Johnson preach:

Namely, that the nation's housewives—and house-husbands and unmarrieds, too—really can help roll back inflation and save themselves a pretty penny or a couple of dollars, each trip to the supermarket.

"The sale of consumer goods runs to $400 billion a year," Mrs. Peterson points out. "So if we all get together, we can really make use of our economic muscle.'

Here are some of the suggestions she's giving to women across the nationa

1. When to Shop. Go after those weekend specials. Weekend prices range from 7 to 10 per cent lower than weekdays.

2. Shop the Ads. Chose your store ahead of time—by thrifty choice, not habit. Be prepared when you walk in.

3. When chickens show up, grab 'em. You can save up to 25 cents a pound.

4. If you have a car to carry things in, buy in quanity, when you find a good bargain.

5. Compare different brands over several weeks. You may well find the lowest priced brand is just as good os—or identical to—the higher priced ones.

6. Shop alone, if possible. Leave the kids at home. Kids grab things off the shelves that aren't on your list.

7. Buy the simpler cut of fruit or vegetable for routine occasions. Save those French-cut string beans for company.

8. Try new foods. Don't be conservative. Casserole cook books, for instance, are plentiful and contain some real treats.

9. Substitute - Substitute - Substitute.

Chuck for rib roast; hamburger for steak; oleo for butter, honey for jams and jellies; dry milk for fresh:

10. Make the right choice when buying:

For instance, some dry cereals cost as much as 4 cents an ounce in individual packages, but just 2 an ounce in an 80-ounce package.

11. Check the cost of "convenience" foods. They're usually higher. Frozen orange juice is cheap. But you pay much more for readi-whip cream, spray-can cheese, mixed vegetables in sauce in a bag.

12. Watch out for "special" items. Sugared cereal, or cereal with fruit, for instance, cost as much per pound as steak.

13. Learn grades. Grade B eggs are just as good as grade A. Use them for cooking, the other (A) for poaching, etc.

14. On fruits and vegetables:

—Watch for specials.

—Buy it in season, not out of season, or at the beginning of the season.

—Buy canned fruit in lighter, less sugared syrup.

—Whole fruits and vegetables naturally cost more than slices or bits and pieces.

—Substitute cabbage for lettuce.

15. On dairy products:

Substitute skimmed, evaporated or dry milk for whole milk.

Mrs. John Roeber
(Miss Sandra Carnicle)

Miss Sandra Jean Carnicle and John K. Roeber exchanged vows at Trinity Lutheran Church Saturday at 7:30 p.m.

Parents of the couple are Messrs. and Mmes. Larry Carnicle Sr. of Ashland and Kenneth Roeber of Murdock.

The bride wore a demi-Empire gown of silk organza styled with a rounded neckline and long bridal point sleeves. Lace adorned the bodice and the dome skirt. A double panel train with lace appliques added back interest to the gown.

Her veil was caught by a crown of pearls and lace hearts. She carried a cascade of white orchids with ivy and stephanotis.

Mrs. David Warzala of Franksville, Wis., was matron of honor and maid of honor was Miss Merry Roeber of Murdock. Mrs. Michael Zoz of Alvo was bridesmatron and Miss Caroline Carnicle of Ashland was bridesmaid.

Serving as best man was Mark Boerger of Murdock. Groomsmen were Mark Carnicle and Lester Roeber, both of Ashland, and Ralph Puls of Manley. Ushers were Larry Carnicle Jr., of Murdock, and LeRoy Roeber and Steven Morris, both of Ashland.

The couple will live in St. Louis, Mo.

Ceramic Tile Used as Trivet

If you are making any installations requiring the use of ceramic tile in your home, be sure to ask your contractor to leave a dozen or so extra tiles when the job is completed. These durable tile squares can be used to make trivets or hot dish holders.

A solid-color tile can make a dandy kitchen grocery reminder. Just jot down what you need with a china marking pencil. A whisk with a dry cloth and it's spotlessly clean.

Lines Said By Loewes

Omaha—Mt. Calvary Lutheran Church was the setting for the 4 p.m. Saturday wedding of Miss Carol Ann Roberts and Jerald Joseph Loewe of Pilger.

Parents of the couple are Messrs. and Mmes. Edgar Loewe of Pilger and Kenneth J. Roberts.

The bride's gown of silk organza over taffeta was designed by her mother and fashioned on Empire lines. Appliques of re-embroidered lace accented the bodice and Kabuki sleeves and were repeated on the slim skirt. A chapel train fell from the high-rising waistline and was accented with lace. An organza rose encircled by lace petals trimmed with seed pearls held her veil.

Miss Linda Sue Roberts was maid of honor. The Misses Kay Rotermund of Sedalia, Mo., Donna Duensing of Bremen, Kan., and Linda Loewe were bridesmaids.

Edward Loewe of Bell Gardens, Calif., was best man. Wayne Behm and Kennard Kersten, both of St. Paul, Minn., and Larry Bazata of Lincoln were ushers.

Special Valves Mix Warm, Cold

When your bathroom temperature is considerably higher than that of the water in your water closet tank, "sweating" of the tank often results. There are several ways to cure this condition, according to the Plumbing - Heating - Cooling Information Bureau.

One involves the use of a special valve which permits warm water to mix with the cold before it enters the tank. Another is a special liner that forms insulation between the incoming cold water and the warmer china tank. You can also buy water closets with insulation already built into them.

Skin Toner

Here's a refreshing way to cleanse and tone the skin in one operation. After applying cleansing cream, splash good quality witch hazel over the face and massage well. Remove the excess with tissue. Leaves the skin glowing clean and pleasantly stimulated.

Check Diet for Split Nails

If your nails are less than beautiful because of chips and breaks, a simple nail-care routine will help you to have hands that will be admired.

Splitting or flaking nails indicate you should check your diet. Healthy nails demand a high protein diet including meat, fish, milk, eggs, cheese and green vegatables.

Add a teaspoon of gelatine daily to a cup of tea or coffee. The gelatine is tasteless and has an excellent reputation for strengthening weak nails, provided you continue the treatment for at least two months.

Keep your cuticles in fine condition by applying cream once or twice a day, massaging each nail for a minute or so. This exercises the nail and loosens dead skin.

File nails from the sides to the center with an emery board. Never cut them with a pair of scissors or use a metal file on them.

Scrub the nails clear of any traces of cream or oil and apply a good base; then paint on nail enamel in two thin coats rather than a single thick one.

Use three strokes of the bruch to cover each nail—once down the center from base to tip, then once down each side.

Run the pad of your thumb lightly along the edge of the nail to remove a hairline of polish at the tip. This will serve to prevent chipping and make the application last much longer.

To obtain a really hard-wearing finish, use a coat of nail base, two coats of polish and a top coat of sealer and allow each application to dry thoroughly before brushing on the next.

If your nails are weak, nail hardeners guard against splits and breaks when worn under enamel.

Tile Roofs Used In Old China

Marco Polo, 13th century Venetian explorer, said to have been the first white man to visit China, wrote in his book of travels that the roofs of palaces, as well as the homes of city officials and country peasants, were covered with trough-like tiles of baked clay.

Even in his day, some of those Far East structur dated from dim antiqui The composition of thos clay roofing tiles, accordi to the Tile Council of Ame ca, was similar to that today's quarry tile, used tensively as a durable flo covering for kitchens, util rooms, patios and oth heavy-duty household traf areas.

Pre-Sudsing

New York (UPI) — There is good reason for pre-sudsing certain areas of garments such as collars, cuffs, apron fronts and pocket edges. The treatment softens and loosens the ground-in soil, which is often a stubborn combination of dirt and oils. After the pre-sudsing, launder the whole garment as usual.

Mediterranean Look Grows

Traverse City, Mich. (UPI) —The "Spanish look" to home furnishings goes on and on, although when it first arrived on the scene several years ago some experts dubbed it a fad.

But "the Mediterranean theme, which is merely an expansion of the Spanish look," has only gained in popularity instead of fading.

For the swim set, there's a new float of rugged polyethylene equipped with an unbreakable face mask and underwater viewer wihch enables the user to explore below without a snorkle tube. The float, five feet long, is suitable, the manufacturer says, for lake, river, ocean or pool.

The newest in window shades uses Milium, long a clothing insulator, to help keep rooms cooler in summer, warmer in winter. The shades, which also act as room darkeners when necessary, are off-white in color and vinyl coated for easy cleaning with a damp cloth, of some kind.

If your travels call for a lot of incidentals in a minimum of package, there's a new piece of luggage to do the trick. When closed, it looks like conventional luggage, but opens to provide space for four pairs of shoes, a retainer loop for a large can of hair spray, two snap-clasp pouches for cosmetics, and a large zippered compartment that can hold other tolletries, brushes, comb, curlers and even lingerie.

Ladies Prefer Flashing To Stashing Diamonds

By SUSAN K. POLLOCK
Chicago Daily News Special

Chicago — One huge diamond sparkles from the well-manicured finger of a rich man's wife while another big gem lies shrouded for years in the cold steel of a safety deposit box.

Which makes more sense: diamonds adorning a woman, or diamonds stashed away for speculation?

It all depends on one's point of view.

The fellow who buys diamonds as a no-sentiment no-show investment is in trouble with most women and with many jewelers and gemologists.

"Pride of ownership innate beauty, rarity — these are the reasons for acquiring a diamond," says George A. Arbogast a gemologist and owner of a jewelry firm bearing his name. The very thought of someone stashing a batch of loose diamonds in a vault horrifies him.

Two Kinds

Arbogast ignores the person who buys diamonds purely for speculation when he says there are two kinds of men who acquire diamonds:

"There's the man who appreciates and loves them for their own beauty and wishes to adorn a loved one. And there's the man who buys his wife a diamond to demonstrate his acquistion of wealth and success."

Nate Rubenstein of Sam Rubenstein & Sons considers diamonds a poor investment for more practical reasons. "A person shouldn't invest in diamonds unless he's in the business," he says. The layman has no immediate market for his diamonds and must rely on retailers or wholesalers.

H. J. Goynshor diamond buyer for S. A. Peck & Co. is all for the glittering gem as a decorative garnish but he sees no reason why it can't also serve as a long-term speculative investment.

"Although it's a precarious business if you can find a source who will trade at wholesale, or just above it can be an extremely good investment" Goynshor says.

Investment Value

But almost all jewelers and gemologists can get together when it comes to diamonds as an investment in the future as a measure against inflation and as a smart buy today.

The value of the diamond has soared nearly 40% in the last 10 years and is expected to repeat the performance in the next 10.

Higher prices are reflected in all areas of the economy but diamonds get added thrust from worldwide supply shrinkage, astronomical higher labor costs and increasing world demand.

"Fine diamonds are good property and represent an excellent hedge against inflation" says Gerald Horwitz vice president of H. Horwitz a Chicago jewelry company.

"But make no mistake about it. The person who buys diamonds solely as a speculative venture with an idea of making a big windfall of profits overnight is just fooling himself.

"Rather than being a short-term speculative investment diamonds have a true and lasting value. They are good property because they are highly portable and can be quickly converted to cash any place in the world" Horwitz says.

Diamond Speculation

Goynshor says that short-term speculation in small diamonds—complete with the fast profit—does go on in some European countries.

"Small diamonds are manufactured mainly in Antwerp and Israel so it's not difficult for a syndicate to come along and buy nearly all the small diamonds these people are producing. The syndicate will hold onto the diamonds for three or four weeks and then dispose of them in six countries at once" he explains.

Market control of this kind could never happen in the United States Goynshor emphasizes, because "small gems are not manufactured here and the medium and large gems are manufactured all over the world. If someone were to try to corner the U.S. market chances are good that he'd be undersold in Europe or Japan.

And this should be reassuring to most American women who undoubtedly would prefer flashing diamonds to stashing diamonds.

Miss Kathryn Jicha

Jicha-Mahloch Nuptials Aug. 13

Wilber — Announcement is made of the engagement of Miss Kathryn Jo Jicha, to Jerome Linn Mahloch of Beatrice, son of Mr. and Mrs. William H. Mahloch of Beatrice.

Both Miss Jicha and Mr. Mahloch are graduates of the University of Nebraska.

An Aug. 13 wedding is planned.

Seed Storage

Store grass seed and other garden materials in covered metal refuse containers instead of leaving them in boxes or bags which are easily damaged. The close-fitting covers and durable finish of metal cans protect the contents from attack by moisture, insects or rodents.

Cooling Touch

When heat has baby restless and irritable try this cooling touch. Soak a cotton square in chilled good quality witch hazel and hold it to the fatty fold at the nape of the baby's neck. It removes perspiration and imparts a coolness baby appreciates.

Storing Fuel

Gasoline which is stored in the garage for use in the power lawn mower should be kept in a metal fuel can equipped with a tight-fitting cap. These cans should be kept in cool places away from other flammable material, and out of the reach of children.

Fire-safety experts caution against using non-metal gasoline containers. In extreme heat, gasoline will eat its way through a non-metal container and create a very serious fire hazard.

Hydronic Heat

Many homes are heated by gas boilers, which employ hot water or steam for heating "hydronically." As the water is heated, it rises and flows from the top of the boiler through pipes to the radiators. The water heats the radiators, cools, then flows back to the boiler through another set of pipes. The radiators, convectors or baseboard radiators used in this system should be installed along outside walls or beneath windows for the most efficient heating.

Mrs. Glover Leitch
(Miss Judith Broome)
of Tulsa, Okla.

Vows Said By Leitches

Tulsa, Okla. —Miss Judith Ann Broome and Glover Alexander Leitch of Lincoln were married in a 4 p.m. Saturday ceremony at Trinity Episcopal Church.

Parents of the bride are Mr. and Mrs. William Wallace Broome, and Mr. Leitch is the son of Rev. and Mrs. Glover A. Leitch of Lincoln. The Rev. Mr. Leitch performed the ceremony.

Ivory Swiss organza over peau de soie fashioned the bride's floor-length gown which featured a wide V-neck banded with lace. The lace continued down the front of the A-line skirt and bordered her mantilla.

She carried a prayer book with miniature white roses and stephanotis.

Miss Jane Broome was maid of honor. Bridesmaids were the Misses Alison Leitch of Lincoln, Thora Keith of Garland, Tex., and Kathryn Skinner.

David Linton Rhody of Haddonfield, N. J., served as best man. Kevin Leitch of Lincoln, William Hohenboken of Ft. Collins, Colo., Karl Killer of Cambridge, Mass., and Donald Broome seated the guests.

After a wedding trip to Texas the couple will live at 718 South Columbia in Tulsa.

Summer Beauty

It is easy to have a smooth lovely complexion, despite the skin-coarsening effect of summer. The pores open much wider in the heat so it's essential that they have free movement to open and close without being clogged. Protect from cosmetic pigments, dust, and powder by smoothing on your oil of Olay. This will also protect the complexion against harsh sun rays and will give the skin a milky bloom even on the hottest days. Use your lemon Jelvyn daily to refine and tone.

Newsletter Didn't Really Mean It

When the Nebraska Synod Lutheran newsletter said—"It may be that the demise of God has been salutory for the Christian church"—it didn't really mean it.

The publication, an editorial note explained, intended to say the dialogue about the death-of-God theology was possibly beneficial.

Explanation: A Phone Call Away

Modern-day church renewal apparently has found a successor for the gladiator.

Reads one Lincoln calendar notice for a Sunday in July: "Softball vs. Faith, 3:30 p.m."

Only a telephone call away was an explanation. The church was meeting Faith Lutheran Church on the softball diamond.

Dr. Laubach—

Literacy Evangelist To Speak

Literacy evangelist Dr. Frank Laubach will speak twice in Lincoln this week.

The 35-year veteran of literacy teaching will speak at 7:30 p.m. Thursday at St. Paul Methodist Church, 12th and M, and at 7:30 p.m. Friday at First Baptist Church, 14th and K.

Dr. Laubach will also speak at Lincoln service clubs and at the Nebraska Penitentiary. Other talks will be in Omaha, Norfolk, Fremont and Hastings.

Dr. Laubach, who has worked in 103 countries with 312 languages during his career, developed what the Laubach literacy organization describes as the "Each One Teach One" teaching method.

His method also involves using picture-word charts.

Laubach Literacy committees are being organized in each state, including Nebraska, where the Rev. Nye Bond is state chairman.

Interracial Project 'Aids Brotherhood'

Ten Baltimore youths, white and from a middle-class neighborhood, have joined 10 Negroes in an interracial project co-chaired by a former Lincoln woman.

The project was organized "to give the younger generation a stronger feeling of brotherhood than the older generation," Mrs. James Mattoon said.

The youths are members of two Baltimore Presbyterian churches. Under the project, which began June 29, and ends July 1, they are scheduled to work together in day care and Head Start anti-poverty programs

Many of the white youths will be guests at a Negro Presbyterian church, the same place their parents and grandparents attended before the whites migrated from the inner city.

"This is really a pioneer project," Mrs. Mattoon was quoted as saying. "We hope it opens the door to other projects that are actually more exciting."

Mrs. Mattoon is the wife of Dr. James Mattoon, former University of Nebraska chemistry professor, now a member of the department of physiological chemistry at Johns Hopkins Medical School.

Mr. and Mrs. Mattoon were members of First Presbyterian Church here.

Centuries-Long Conflict Eased

By GEORGE CORNELL, AP

A tempestuous past forms the backdrop to the modern courtship between Rome and Canterbury.

Born brothers, they became foes, in strife and bloodshed over temporal dominion.

The rivalry which drove them apart goes far back into antiquity, long before King Henry VIII's marital troubles in the 16th Century, popularly cited as the cause of the breach.

It was a much longer, more tangled story than that, almost as ancient as England.

Tensions Eased

When Pope Paul VI, head of the Roman Catholic church with its 550 million members, and Archbishop Michael Ramsey, Primate of World Angelicanism with its 45 million members, recently embraced and pledged their fraternity, they were assuaging tensions nearly as old as Christianity itself.

Basically, it pitted emergent British nationalism against the bygone imperial links of Rome.

Henry VIII was but one skirmish in a chain of British clashes with papal jurisdiction.

The King himself had been a stern enforcer of Catholic orthodoxy—so much so that the Pope had dubbed him "defender of the faith."

Even after his break with the papacy Henry continued to execute Protestant "Heretics" as well as Catholic opponents.

Elizabeth's Reign

It was not until after two succeeding reigns, including that of Queen Mary I who in the 1550's firmly restored the ties to the papacy, that the lasting cleavage occured under her successor, Queen Elizabeth.

Among the graphic scenes in the long panorama of conflict:

—With the backing of Pope Alexander II, William, the Norman Conqueror, invades England in 1066, and replaces English bishops with foreigners.

—Facing public outrage and papal censure, King Henry II, whose knights had murdered Archbishop Thomas a Becket in 1170 for resisting increased state power in respct to clergymen, walks barefoot to Becket's tomb at Canterbury to submit to ecclesiastical penance.

—Incensed English barons gather an army and compel King John to concede the parliamentary and legal rights of the Magna Carta, despite its denunciation by the Pope.

Wycliffe Bible

John Wycliffe, an adviser to King Edward III, in 1374 supports parliament in rebuffing property and tribute claims of Pope Urban V, and asserts supremacy of scripture over misleadership in the church. Under papal condemnation, he also sponsors a translation of the Bible into English.

—England's Cardinal John Fisher and Sir Thomas More, are beheaded on Henry VIII's orders in 1539 for refusing to subscribe to his asserted supremacy over the British church.

'Bloody Mary'

Queen Mary I replaces about 2,000 churchmen with supporters of her policies, and sends approximately 300 Protestants to the stake.

—The former archbishop of Canterbury, Thomas Cranmer, who compiled the English "Book of Common Prayer," is burned to death in 1556 in Queen Mary's reign, as are bishops Hugh Latimer, John Hooper and Nicholas Ridley.

—In the long reign of Queen Elizabeth, 1558 to 1603, Protestant influence revives, with the Queen steering a mid-course in church matters between it and Catholic traditions, but with the execution of many Catholics loyal to the pope.

—After the repressive Elizabethan penal laws made attendance at Roman Catholic mass an act of treason and barred papal supporters from civil office, Pope Pius V in 1570 declared the queen deposed, and frees all Roman Catholics from allegiance to her.

—The Commonwealth dictatorship of Oliver Cromwell, takes over in 1655, favoring the Protestant forces, seizing vast tracts of Roman Catholic lands in Ireland.

—Charles II, regaining the throne in 1660, restores the English episcopacy and the Book of Common Prayer. All officeholders are required to receive sacraments of the English church.

Ouster of James II

—Fears of a restoration of Roman Catholicism result in the revolutionary ouster of James II, last of the Stuart line, and his expulsion from the country. William III of Orange and Mary II assume the throne. Repressive laws against Protestant dissenters also eased, but are tightened against Roman Catholics.

—Under King George III, in 1791, the first steps were taken toward official toleration in England.

—Fuller action came in 1829, under George IV—the "Roman Catholic Emancipation Act."

A few remaining restrictions against Roman Catholics were removed in 1926.

The controversy which began in the 6th Century when Welsh clergy rebuffed Augustine's claim to supremacy over all British Christians, may be at an end.

To Start Cuttings

Large clay pots make excellent containers for rooting plant cuttings. Fill the pot with plain clean sand or vermiculite to within one inch of its top. Place cuttings in the pot's rooting mixture to a depth of 1 to 1½ inches to hold them upright. Water thoroughly from the top and place a plastic bag over the pot to conserve moisture. Cuttings should be well-rooted within six weeks.

This map, issued by the Federal Housing Administration, shows the gradual northward movement of termites across the U.S.

People More Alert to Termite Menace

By GARY HILL

A northward movement of termite populations has resulted in increased termite activity in Nebraska.

"There has been a definite increase in termite cases," said Dub Hayes of Orkin Exterminating Co. in Lincoln. George Preece, of Mid-State Pest Control, Inc., said the state has had termites "since there have been records, but in the last ten years, the number of jobs has tripled."

But the increased number of exterminating jobs is not caused solely by the larger number of termites. "Education is better now. People are more aware that they are here," said Hayes.

Robert Roselle, extension entomologist at the University of Nebraska, agreed that people are now more aware of the termite threat. "There are more ants being brought in, anyway," he said pointing out they often are confused with termites.

Preece said increased use of finished basements during winter months when they previously went unheated, has served to attract the pests.

Earlier Discovery

In addition, people are spending more time in basements—where early termite activity usually begins—and are more likely to notice them.

"Also, more houses are being built," Roselle said, which provides "more area to attack. The older a house gets, the longer termites have to find it."

Roselle estimated the amount of damage in the state reaches "into thousands of dollars yearly" and emphasized that this can only be measured in the amount of repair work done. Some damage goes unnoticed and, consequently, is not assessed.

Termite extermination can be contracted for an average cost of $200. Both Hayes and Preece said that the determining price factor is the construction of the building—the ease with which the treatment can be administered.

Treatment usually means chemical insulation of the building foundation rather than a liquidation of the insects. Hayes said the treatment is more a process of preventing the termites from doing harm.

For Control

Trenches are dug around the foundation and the soil is soaked with a chemical poisonous to termites. With concrete block foundations, the mortar line is drilled and additional chemical is used to coat the insides.

Further treatment is administered to building joints and in cracks in walls or floors and at seams where wall and ceiling come together.

The National Pest Control Assn. recently stated that the results of such a first treatment are from 90-98% successful and require no second treatment.

Many contractors are controlling the termite problem by using solid concrete foundation walls and pressure treated wood in their homes.

Chances of infestation can be further reduced and often completely eliminated by pre-treating a building as it goes up. Several states have laws which require pre-treatment.

The only requirements for inspection and extermination in Nebraska, however, are imposed by the Federal Housing Administration, the Veterans Administration, and private loan companies.

Transient Firms

Hopefully, one result of increased public awareness of the termite threat will be a decreased susceptibility to transient, or "fly-by-night" firms. Lincoln has been hit—most recently last year—by dishonest con-men who knock on doors offering free inspection.

Unsuspecting home owners who believe the "inspectors" and permit an exterminating treatment for non-existant termites, find themselves with a high, bill from a firm that disappears as soon as it collects.

Such outfits "unquestionably have made some impact on the honest operators," said Roselle, indicating that the public soon became leery of even reputable firms.

Kicking Up Heels No Signal to Shuck Shoes

Your child's feet are his foundation, literally.

Think of it. And imagine a builder minimizing his standards simply because it's summer. Yet isn't this exactly what happens in the summer when children are allowed to run around in almost any shoes or no shoes at all?

The fact is that summer is the most hazardous time for children's active feet. Doctors agree, more foot injuries — cuts, bites, infection —occur in the summer because of barefootedness than any other time, says the National Shoe Institute.

True, summer is the time for relaxing, for kicking up the heels, and wiggling and stretching the toes is splendid for growing feet. But somehow a fallacy has grown that kicking up the heels is the signal to kick off the shoes.

Protect Feet

In swimming and at the beach on firm, damp sand is the time to bare the feet. On hot sand or sizzling asphalt pavement, even on grass that might have been sprayed with insect repellants, keep sandals on to protect the soles of the child's feet.

The National Shoe Institute cautions: for health and safety's sake this summer, guard your children's feet.

This can be done with correctly fitted shoes that provide a wardrobe for all of a child's numerous summer activities.

The shoe we used to call the "sensible" shoe is truly sensible today. It's lighter weight construction and softer leathers allow for a wider variety of combinations and textures. In styling, too, the classic strap, oxford and ghillie have more child appeal, more dash.

And don't be surprised when some of these styles bridge the gap to a new trend called the Sunday-Monday shoe. It's tailored, yet dressy, done in styles that can move with ease from play to a special lunch with grandmother.

The party or dress-up shoe might be Mary Janes or double straps that go with pastel cottons and party sheers, and may match in delicate colored patents or accent in vivid tones.

Double Life

Sandals lead a double life: the open-open sandal for the beach; the dressy sandal with zing styling in open shanks, open and closed toes, cross straps, T-straps, and the party pumps in sherbet colors, often topped with a daisy or gay poof.

And, happily, sandals are for little boys too. The Roman styling has filtered down from big brother. And it's good news, creating more variety for the Little Leaguer.

The fuller, rounder toe shapes make everybody happy.

Indeed, summer is not the time to minimize standards.

Investing in your children's shoe needs is a year-round proposition. And a lifetime investment in his future, his very foundation.

Baptist Church's Ordination Is First in Century

Fairbury — First Baptist Church's first ordination service in nearly a century of existence is scheduled for this evening.

Ronald Cowles, a spring graduate of Central Baptist Seminary at Kansas City, will be ordained before his father, the Rev. Fred Cowles of Leavenworth, Kan., will return to his former pastorate to speak.

A graduate of Fairbury High School and Ottawa (Kan.) University, the new minister has accepted a yoked pastorate at Renwick and Corwith, Ia. His wife is the former Rowena Miller of Fairbury.

Fat Content Measure Is Automatic

Chicago (UPI) — Now there's a machine which determines almost immediately how much fat Jack Spratt's frau would consume.

The "nutomatic system... undergoing field tests" was described briefly by Robert C. Whitehead, research engineer for Honeywell, Inc. He spoke at a conference sponsored by the American Meat Science Assn. in cooperation with the American Meat Institute Foundation.

Whitehead would say only that the system measures fat content "by specific gravity" in less than a minute with no preparation.

It seems that present methods of determining fat content require preparation for analysis, then take three minutes to 24 hours, Whitehead said.

"The meat is usually on its way to the retailer before the results of the analysis are known to the production man," he said.

HOUSE OF THE WEEK

Looks Big, Lives Big, But Building Costs Won't Get Out Of Hand

This three-bedroom ranch has an exterior air of solidity.

By Associated Press

Buying or building a house usually forces a choice between what you would like to have and what you can afford.

Once you have recognized that it isn't wise to get in over your head, you begin to look for a compromise. You decide to settle for a little less house or to hold the line on size and do without some of the extras.

In this House of the Week, architect Lester Cohen has recognized this perennial dilemma and has endeavored, with considerable success, to place the emphasis on utilization of every foot of living space rather than on compromise.

The result is a home that looks big and lives big, but never gets out of hand as far as building costs are concerned.

Area Definition

The significant planning feature is area definition. The bedroom wing is as private as if it were upstairs. The floor plans show that none of the three bedrooms has a common wall with any of the rooms in the formal, informal and working areas of the house.

The master bedroom is especially attractive, with two exposures, lots of wall space for choosing a desirable furniture arrangement and a dressing room - bathroom complex that includes a stall shower, vanitory, four closets and a built-in corner dressing table.

Next to it, the family bathroom has a vanitory-lavatory. The linen closet is just beside the door in the bedroom hall. Both front bedrooms have twin closets.

Excellent Scale

Across the center hall from the bedroom wing are the living room and dining room. Neither room is huge, but together they have the advantage of excellent scale and proportion, flowing together in 29 ft. of combined entertaining length — a simple but effective method of making limited space pay off.

At the back of the house, informality takes over in the service-play section. The island counter kitchen is compact and workable. It has a dinette on one side and, through sliding glass doors, there is quick access to the barbecue unit on the outdoor terrace.

The far end of the terrace provides a service walk to the laundry-mud room. The flow of service traffic can be visualized from the garage or basement through the laundry to the backyard — or into the house in the same way. In neither case would there be any disturbance to the kitchen or any other part of the house.

Finally, there's the bonus room — the family room, realizing the full potential of the service-play area. The fireplace is located here in line with a trend to move it out of the more formal living room. Sliding glass doors open to a private section of the curved terrace.

Pantry, Storage

A pantry, a service closet in the laundry, outdoor and indoor storage at the rear of the garage, and a work bench at the front of the garage are some of the features requested by potential home owners at housing conferences.

At the front, a long, welcoming porch and varied windows add to the basic good looks of the house. Extending the regular roof over the garage, with no break, adds an appearance of length.

Not much compromising in Design G-42. But a solid home for the family that doesn't have unlimited capital.

ON THE HOUSE

By HELEN HAGGIE

It's not too late to have blooms around your house.

Maybe the rabbits did eat the petunias—and the pinks didn't come up.

But there are still potted plants to brighten the exterior of the house.

There are many ways potted plants may be used in decorating. Usual ones are putting plants in wooden planters around the patio—and in window boxes.

But have you ever thought that the entrance could be enhanced by a potted geranium, cheerfully greeting your guests as they approach?

Or if you have a porch have you ever tried clay-potted red, pink or white ivy geraniums hung from the ceiling? They not only make a bright screen, but are almost exotic in appearance.

Miniature orange trees, arranged in a group, can completely transform a sunny area into your own special paradise.

The best way is to plunge them right into the soil in their clay pots. This way, the roots will keep cool, but cannot spread. Give the plants a half turn every week or so to insure even growth all around.

And in the fall—the plants may be brought back indoors.

Warm, Cool Investment

If your windows aren't weatherstripped, you may be putting up with expensive and annoying house problems unnecessarily.

Effective weatherstripping performs many functions. Most important, it can save you money while keeping your house warmer in winter and cooler in summer.

Tests conducted by the University of Minnesota's Institute of Technology showed that air infiltration from non-weatherstripped windows accounted for about 37% of total heat loss in an otherwise well-insulated five-room house. When weatherstripping was used, heat loss from air infiltration was reduced to 17% and fuel cost savings amounted to 24%.

Outdoor Chores

Washing the car, scrubbing storm windows and other outdoor soap-and-water tasks are easier to do if you have a hot water spigot close at hand. Your plumber can install one by running a pipe from your water heater to a location outside the house. Usually these faucets are equipped with a shut-off valve on the line so you can turn off the water when the temperature drops below freezing.

Garden Gossip

Summer Rainfall Unreliable

By EMERY W. NELSON
County Extension Agent

In Nebraska one just can't rely on summer rainfall to water the flower beds. The periods between rains are often too long and the amount of precipitation in each rain is too erratic.

Flowers do best when the water in the soil is kept at a uniform level. Each time you water, moisten the entire bed thoroughly, but do not water so heavily that the soil becomes soggy.

During the warm summer weather, most gardens need water every five to seven days. During a five-day period the soil usually dries moderately but still has enough water to prevent wilting of the plants.

A soaker hose is excellent for watering flowers. Water from the soaker wets the soil deeply without wetting the foliage. Water from sprinklers wets the flowers and makes them more susceptible to disease and may damage the soil structure.

The least effective method of watering is by hand sprinkling. Watering with a nozzle will not apply enough water and will damage the soil and increase the possibility of disease.

For Laundry

Modern laundry appliances can be installed in any room of your home. The essentials for installing are: space for the appliance, plumbing, wiring and venting for the dryer exhaust and for gas models, gas outlet. In addition homemakers who are left-handed should conveniently for them.

Your Nurseryman Speaks

Barefoot Mower Operator in Shorts Is Only Asking for Accident Trouble

An increasing number of people are injured or killed each year by power mowers. Following are a few suggestions that might help the mower operator avoid accidents:

Pick up garden hoses before you start to mow. Check the area to be cut for stones, wire, bottle and other obstacles. Two weeks ago a six-inch piece of wire was driven completely through the leg of a professionally trained mower operator.

Before starting the mower, examine it closely for cracks, loose bolts and nuts. Pay particular attention to the mower blade.

Never use gasoline that has set in a can over winter. This is a sure way to get a major repair bill. Check lubricating points on the motor each time before you mow. If you have a large lawn, re-examine the oil level after each hour of operation.

Wear shoes and clothing that will give you some protection. The barefoot mower operator in shorts is asking for trouble. Many minor accidents can be avoided by proper clothing.

See that the area to be mowed is clear of children, pets and bystanders. You would never point a gun at something you didn't intend to kill. Don't point the discarge chute of a power mower at anything you are not prepared to injure.

Several years ago, an elderly man was sitting on his porch watching his neighbor mow his lawn. A small rock was propelled 125 feet by the mower with enough force to kill the man.

Never mow up and down a steep slope. If you slip going down, you will fall forward into the mower. If you fall going up, the mower will slide back over you. Mow across the slope. Then, if you fall, the mower will be ahead of you.

Don't mow any lawn when it is wet. This puts a great strain on every part of the mower and encourages every type of accident. The hazards of operating electric mowers on wet or dew moistened lawns should be obvious.

If you must check the blade, be sure that the spark plug is disconnected. Remember the hand crank that was used years ago to start cars? The blade is actually a hand crank unless the spark plug is disconnected.

If someone interrupts you while mowing, stop the engine. With the amount of vibration that power mowers produce, they have been known to engage their own clutches and take off on their own across the countryside.

Never leave a gas or oil can on the lawn. This always results in burned spots.

Get your day dreaming done before you mow. Experts say that this is a major cause of mower accidents. The rhythm of the motor produces a peculiar king of euphoria.

Please mow during hours when most other humans are awake. The person who starts his mower at the crack of dawn on a Sunday morning has found the perfect way to lose friends and alienate neighbors.

Burning Trash In Open Fire Is Dangerous

If combustible trash is to be burned, fire-safety officials recommend that it be done in a perforated metal rubbish burner.

These units feature close-fitting covers which prevent flaming pieces of debris from escaping and endangering adjoining property.

Rubbish should not be burned in an open fire under any circumstances. A sudden gust of wind can scatter sparks from an open fire and might easily start a roof or grass fire. Open fires also are difficult to extinguish once they really get going.

Cleaning Cans

To keep your metal refuse cans clean and sanitary, rinse them out thoroughly with hot, sudsy water. Then sprinkle some packaged soap or detergent into the clean cans. This will help to repel flies and other insects.

Light-headed Hairpieces Bring High-Fashion Tops

By RUTH WESSMAN
Chicago Daily News Special

Hairpieces swing into summer in a light-headed way as they bring high-fashion topknots within reach of even the slimmest pocketbook.

They're made of Dynel and the news is that for the first time this fiber has been curled so it will do just about anything. It now looks and feels like human hair.

A flip or twist, sassoon bangs or a cascade of curls for evening — all fit right into the busiest summer schedule —and we believe they'll become a fashionable year-round companion.

They were crated by Mr. Attilio, an Italian who has his own New York salon. After studying in his native Turin, then in Rome and Paris, he opened his first salon in Berne, Switzerland. He then directed Ebe Institute of Beaute in Genoa for two years and in 1954 went into the beauty business in Caracas, Venezuela. In 1962 he won top recognition at the international Beauty Show in New York, then joined forces with Andre Anouge in his Fifth Avenue Salon.

Just this year he introduced his "attilio," which met with immediate success.

The hairpieces work like this: a base of Velcro is pinned to the head and a hairpiece, with its Velcro backing, is attached. It is then easy to style right on the head. The construction of the base builds up the hair. Creating a similar effect with human hair would make hairpieces too heavy — but with the attilio, you're almost light-headed.

They are easy to care for. No cleaning—just comb and brush.

Prices begin at $15 for small bangs and rise to $60 for the evening cascade. There are 23 colors and combinations and frosted effects can be ordered for an additional $10.

Big Blueburgers

Hearty food is a must after a day of swimming or tennis. The combination of beef and blue cheese will hit the spot. Delicious hamburgers topped with crumbled American blue cheese and broiled pineapple slices serve as the main point of the meal.

These Big Blueburgers, backed with iced tea and ice cream for dessert, will remove the fatigue of a busy day.

A Watteau cluster of taffeta flowers with pearls and lace leaves held her veil. She carried white roses encircled with lilies of the valley.

Mrs. Benjamin G. Cottrell of Norfolk, Va., was matron of honor. The Misses Leslie Capron of Battle Creek, Mich., and Susan Matson were bridesmaids.

Blazing drum dries alfalfa at one of 83 dehydrating plants in Nebraska

Nebraska Is the World Leader In Dehydrated Alfalfa Production

By GLENN KREUSCHER
Farm Editor

A blasting 2,500 degree heat fired in 162 drums at 83 plants in Nebraska reminds tourists and visitors passing through the state that they are viewing the world's No. 1 source of dehydrated alfalfa production.

The revolving drums that consume near endless loads of chopped alfalfa 24 hours a day from May to October are a familiar sight in 58 Nebraska communities.

The acrid smell, columns of high rising smoke, long lines of heaping loads of chopped alfalfa and newly designed harvest equipment all prompt many questions from newcomers who never heard about Nebraska's No. 1 industry until they noted the holocaust of the dehydrating drum close to the highway.

There are reports of dozy motorists, jarred awake with a view of the blazing drums, who promised to be more cautious in their driving.

Howard Elms of Lincoln, secretary of the Nebraska Dehydrators Assn., says it takes only seconds for the green alfalfa to be dehydrated with the intense heat. He estimates that each drum takes care of some 1,200 acres of alfalfa.

When the green alfalfa hits the drum it is sucked through by fan and starts its way toward being a part of an industry that finds Nebraska supplying 40 to 50% of the nation's total production.

During the 1964-65 season Nebraska farmers and processors produced 638,909 tons out of a U.S. total production of 1,502,133 tons, according to Elms.

"Some of the units that tourists will see harvesting the alfalfa for dehydrating cost up to $80,000 per machine," said Elms.

Elms says the closest state in competition with Nebraska for dehydrating alfalfa would be Kansas, supplier of about 10% of the nation's total production.

In addition to 83 dehydrating plants, Nebraska has three blending plants.

Dehydrated alfalfa is used primarily for livestock and poultry feed.

DOUGLAS: A Giant in Israel

Now on the showbill at the Varsity is "Fireball 500," with teen favorites, Frankie Avalon, Annette Funicello and Fabian. Racing scenes from the NASCAR Grand National tracks add special thrills. Adult, mature youth audience.

Opening Tuesday at the Varsity is 'Cast a Giant Shadow," with a cast of well-knowns.

The heroic adventure saga is the story of Col. David "Mickey" Marcus, played by Kirk Douglas, who capped an amazing career in American public affairs by becoming military adviser in Israel's war for statehood.

Marcus' high level of military experience during WWII and his civilian activities made him ideally suited for the assignment, and he responds to the challenge of this seemingly hopeless cause. Adult, mature youth audience.

Stagecoach java for Crosby and Ann-Margret.

'Stagecoach' Thriller

Currently at the Stuart is the remake of the western classic "Stagecoach." The star-studded cast includes Bing Crosby, Ann-Margaret, Van Heflin, Alex Cord, Stefanie Powers, Bob Cummings, Red Buttons, Michael Connors and Slim Pickens.

The Cheyenne-bound stage brings together nine people of varied backgrounds, attitudes and ambitions. There has been formidable Indian trouble, and only the urgency of the trip for each of the travelers persuades the stage driver to hit the road.

The reactions of the members of the group to each other, as well as the hazards of the trip, pack the fast-moving story with action and high humor. Audience recommendation—adult, mature youth.

Children's Zoo Post Office Dedication Is Today

One of the most unusual Post Offices in the nation will be officially dedicated today at 3 p.m. at the Children's Zoo.

Batrus

Fred Batrus, deputy assistant postmaster general for transportation and international services, will dedicate the Children's Zoo Post Office which opened last year.

The Children's Zoo station was built and furnished with contributions of money and labor from Lincoln Postal employes. Gilbert Griess and Victor Vifquain were co-chairmen of the committee which raised the money and supervised construction. Julius C. Strasburg and William H. Leonhardt, postal clerks, did the actual building.

Kelly Reasoner, 7, son of Mr. and Mrs. L. W. Reasoner of 1527 Dakota, and his sister Janet, 9, mail letters at Zoo Post Office. Postmistress is Mrs. Glenn Suiker.

Officially designated as Station Number 6, the Children's Zoo Office is unusual because of its small scale, ⅝ size like other Zooville buildings; because of its authentic old-west architecture; and because it has its own cancellation mark.

Dedication cachets will be available at the dedication ceremony.

Others at the ceremony will be Charles W. Shoemake, regional director of the Post Office Department from Wichita; Gov. Frank B. Morrison; Mayor Dean Petersen; Don Parker, president of the Lincoln Chamber of Commerce; Henry Womack, of Washington, president of the National League of Postmasters; Walter Davis of Denver, regional representative of the National Association of Letter Carriers; and Postmaster Leigh Coffin of Beatrice, national vice president of the National Association of Postmasters.

Congressman Clair Callan has secured a flag which has flown over the nation's Capitol. This will be presented to Postmaster Kenneth P. Lewis at the conclusion of ceremonies. A color guard of National Guardsmen employed in the Post Office will raise the flag.

The ceremony is open to the public but regular zoo admission prices will be in effect.

Coin collectors range from millionaires to school kids, who here examine coins raided from dad's and mom's pockets for their coin albums.

Coins: 10 Million Make World's Oldest Hobby a Big Business

By JERRY BUCK, AP

When the world's first coin was hammered into being 27 centuries ago, it is not hard to imagine a coin collector waiting at the mint door to snatch it up.

That may be a flight of fancy, but coin collectors like to think of theirs as the world's oldest hobby. And they are a dedicated lot whose pursuit of the coin has been felt from king's council to Congress.

Possibly as many as 10 million people collect coins in the United States.

Speculation Wanes

The ranks of coin collectors grow every day, but the mania of speculation and hoarding that gripped the nation in recent years has waned, experts say. The fast buck artist is leaving for other fields.

"One of our projects is to shake out the speculators and turn coin collecting back into a hobby," says Matt Rothert, president of the American Numismatic Association (ANA), a collectors' group of 27,000. "I'm happy to see that the mint is now turning out so many coins that it's taken the profit out of hoarding."

Coin collecting is still big business. There are more than 2,500 coin shops in the country, and about 350 of them are linked by teletypewriter circuits.

A coin collector can be anyone—a president, a cab driver, a kid in faded blue jeans and dirty sneakers, or a millionaire.

"Numismatics is germane to so many fields," says Henry Grunthal, curator of European coins at the American Numismatic Society. "The beekeeper, for instance, could collect coins with bees on them."

Why Collect Coins?

Coin collections have been unearthed in some of the oldest archaeological finds. Which raises the question: Why do people collect coins?

"It's a broad hobby with something for everybody," says Rothert, a furniture manufacturer in Camden, Ark., who has headed the ANA since last August.

"Generally speaking, most people collect coins hoping to make a profit on them," says Dan Messer, a New York dealer.

A Bay State First

The first coin struck in America was in the Massachusetts Colony in 1652, and for the next 140 years a hodgepodge of state issues flowed from the mints. The infant U.S. government didn't mint a single coin until the second presidential term of George Washington. Even then it took four years to bring out a full range of coins, from a half-cent to the silver dollar.

Coin collecting had an even harder time getting a foothold in the United States. The first collectors began to surface about 1840, and as late as 1950 there were only an estimated 50,000 collectors.

Aside from monetary worth, coins are one of the most valuable resources at the disposal of historians, economists, and archaeologists.

"You can trace the history of an old civilization with its coin," said Harvey Stack, a member of a family that for more than a hundred years has combined the business end of dealing in rare coins with scholarship.

"You can follow the conquests of Alexander the Great with just his money. Every time he sacked a city he had a coin struck. Sometimes coins are the only source of what a famous person looked like. And some great historical events have been placed in time only through coins."

THE BLUSHING TYPEWRITER

. . . Or '12 O'Clock High' Returns and in Color, Yet

By GINNY FISHER

Have you ever seen a bright-red typewriter? How about a light pink one? Would you believe a blushing pencil?

Several issues ago an overconfident young writer positively announced Robert Lansing, who in her opinion had been wrongly replaced in "12 O'Clock High", was vindicated. That show was cancelled and he was proudly returning—on the same network ABC—in a brand new series, "The Long Hunt of April Savage."

Well, that young writer, who just happens to have my name, stands now humbly, with the embarrassed typewriter. Funniest thing but "12 O'Clock High" not only was not cancelled but is returning in living color, yet. Also, for the crowning blow to injured pride, ABC decided not to telecast "April Savage" after all.

Then, ABC (which I've a sneaking suspicion stands for Always Be Changing) announced plans to colorcast a brand new suspense-adventure series next fall with good old Lansing in the lead role. "The Man Who Never Was," concerning a U.S. agent who masquerades as his dead double, a rich manufacturer, also stars Dana Wynter. Premiering in September, the show will be seen at 8 p.m. Wednesdays — maybe (no more overconfidence).

From TV finances: CBS, which several years ago turned down a chance to telecast "The Music Man" as an original TV special because the $100,000 price was too high, has now paid $1,000,000 for just two viewings of the movie version.

Good Things

Good thing for Gordon MacRae he made all those musical movies which are now being rerun on TV, otherwise he might feel left out. CBS's "Petticoat Junction," which features the antics of three sisters, quietly replaced two of the original three actresses last fall and this fall will replace one of the replacements with Meredith MacRae (daughter of Gordon). Also on CBS, "Jackie Gleason Show" is reviving the "Honeymooners" and since Audrey Meadows is unavailable for her part as Alice Kramden, has signed Sheila MacRae (wife of Gordon).

Interesting item in American Research Bureau report on number of color TV sets in certain areas: they first listed the Hastings-Kearney area as having 26,800 color TV homes, they then came up with the Lincoln-Hastings-Kearney listing of 26,800 color TV homes. If my elementary math serves, this leaves a grand total of absolutely zero color TVs in Lincoln. Now, how about that!

Untamable Neville Brand stars in "Laredo," an NBC western-comedy, as a rip-roaring Texas Ranger who bests all comers, but next season even Brand may meet his match when a debonaire European dandy joins the

The Hunter

Rangers. The Hunter (Robert Wolders) is described by producer Richard Irving as "the guttsiest, gaudiest addition to action and adventure since D'Artagnan hung up his sword." Don't know about the guttsiest, but the gaudiest is pretty well confirmed. His trademark is a brilliant cravat; he has a widely varied wardrobe with such outfits as a red and white tapestry vest plus matching hat and covered boots; and he prefers such other materials as brocades, velvets, silks and metalics in light blues, pinks, hot oranges, purples and reds.

What a Pity

Perhaps the most original is his "intimate boudoir" costume: "royal purple velour shirt with lace-trimmed, plunging neckline and tight-fitting purple and red-striped pants with an extremely low rise and narrow legs." Hollywood No Longer Movie Capital

By Associated Press

Hollywood still gives the Oscars but it is no longer the movie capital in terms of production.

The 1965 U.N. Statistical Yearbook shows the United States ran fifth in the number of long films produced in 1963. It produced 155 to Italy's 241, Hong Kong's 259, India's 305 and Japan's 657.

That was a switch on the situation of 1948, when the United States led by producing 391 long films against India's 265 and Japan's 123. (Hong Kong produced none to speak of that year, and Italy only 51).

In numbers of movie houses, the yearbook brings out, the United States takes a back seat to the Soviet Union; it had 17,500 in 1963 to the Russions' 113,000.

Both nationalities are shaded by the mainland Chinese in mass movie attendance. The latest available figures show that, counting repeaters, 2.178 billion people in the United States and 3.9 billion in the Soviet Union went to the movies in 1963, compared with 4 billion in Red China in 1960.

In radio and television the United States statistically leads the world.

By 1963-1964 statistics, the yearbook says, there were 192 million radio sets in the United States to 68.9 million in the Soviet Union. (Red China was far down the list with 8 million).

In 1964 there were 67.1 million TV sets in the United States to 16.71 million in Japan, 13.15 million in Britain and 12.9 million in the Soviet Union. (Red China again was far down the list with a mere 100).

In daily newspaper circulation per thousand inhabitants in 1964, the United States ran 12th—behind Britain, Sweden, Japan, Iceland, Luxembourg, New Zealand, Norway, Switzerland, Australia, Denmark and West Germany, in that order. The U.S. figure was 314 copies, the British 523.

Having bigger newspapers, the United States used 46% of the world's newsprint in 1964 and its per capita consumption was the world's highest—83.6 pounds to Australia's 68.2.

The yearbook credits the Soviet Union with publishing the most books—72,204 titles in 1964, against 28,451 in the United States, 26,123 in Britain, 25,204 in West Germany, 24,049 in Japan, 15,440 in Spain and 13,479 in France.

Marlo Thomas struggles with the problem faced by all children of famous parents—being accepted on her own.

Second-Generation Talent Taking Over

Hollywood (UPI) — A host of second-generation show business talent will burst into the television scene in a big way in the coming season.

The most publicized of these youngsters thus far is Marlo Thomas, daughter of comedian Danny Thomas, who will have her own series on ABC-TV, "That Girl," a situation comedy about an aspiring actress.

Sons and daughters of other famous stars also will be on tap.

Noel Harrison, son of Rex Harrison, will be a regular in NBC-TV's new series "The Girl From U.N.C.L.E."

David Carridine, son of the longtime character actor John Carradine, is the star of another new series, ABC-TV's "Shane," based on the motion picture of the same name.

Nancy Sinatra, who has turned out hit records of her own recently, will team up with her father, Frank Sinatra, for his next musical television special.

Dean Martin's daughter Gail, who likewise has embarked on a singing career, is, according to trade reports, preparing to make her video debut on her father's NBC-TV variety series.

The idea of second generation performers is highly appealing to network executives, chiefly because the television medium is built around family appeal — and it is quite natural for family viewers to show special interest in talented offspring.

Jerry Lewis' son Gary, for instance, has had success with his musical group in video appearances as well as in recordings.

Another of Danny Thomas' children, a son, also has formed his own musical group, and recently made his television debut with it on CBS' Ed Sullivan hour. It is called "The Thomas Group," and the comedian showed up on the Sullivan program to help launch the boys.

Words, Words, Words!

Did You Ever See a Co-nun-drum?

By HOLLY SPENCE

Words, words, words! Sometimes you might think that words get pretty old and dull, but some word combinations can bring a real chuckle to non-vocabulary hounds.

If you're in a thinking mood, produce some conundrums. A conundrum is a play on words. It resembles a pun in that it uses words that have a double meaning.

If your wordiness leans toward the domestic side of things . . . did you ever see a "kitchen sink" or a "cake walk" or a "table rock"? Did you ever see a "broom stick" or a "clam bake?"

Or maybe you're a lover of animals. Did you ever see a "tuna fish" or a "fox trot" or a "horse fly" or a "horse hide" or a "chicken neck?"

Go down on the farm and see if you can see a "barn swallow" or a "cow slip" or a "horse laugh."

Have you ever seen a "pip squeak" or a "pipe dream" or a "stage coach?"

Walking Boards

How about a "guy wire" or a "wall flower" or a "square dance" or a "board walk?"

Banana lovers . . . did you ever see a "banana split" or a "banana peel?" Or did you ever see "milk shake?"

It would be real fun to see a "pole vault" or a "straw vote" or a "pin point."

Or perhaps you've seen "wood work," "honey comb," "frost bite" or a "tooth pick."

Or maybe even a "cat nip" or a "car hop" or a "home work" or a "turkey trot' or a "drum stick' or an "eye wash."

Have you ever seen a "pillow slip" or a "curtain call" or a "sock hop?"

Or a "meadow lark" or a "roller skate?" Have you ever seen "snow fence?"

You're pretty privileged if you've seen a "hog wash" or an "heir loom" or a "cross walk" or a "grid iron." Maybe you've seen a "witch hunt" or a "pilot light.'

Words also paint pictures . . . if there were no words of color to add to our speech . . . what a dull place this would be.

Take all the words and phrases with colorful adjectives and what would you be left with? A walk around the block in the summer . . . and you couldn't even say that anything was "green as grass."

Colorless

No "yellow-bellied sapsuckers" or "red-breasted robins." And how would you say "my love is like a red, red rose?"

What would you call your chompers if there were no pearlie whites?" And what would you call "oranges," . . . pulpy fruits?

Even icy wintertime would lose its sparkle. No "White Christmas" and nothing would be "white as snow."

And no "purple people eaters" would have invaded the music world. Songs? No "Lavendar Blue," "Red Sails in the Sunset," "Greensleeves," "Silver Bells," "Yellow Bird," "Rhapsody In Blue," "Blue Suede Shoes" "A White Sportcoat and a Pink Carnation," or "Red Rubber Ball."

There would be no "rubies" or "emeralds" to show off. Nothing would be "blue as the sky" or "black as night." One happy thought . . . no "blue Mondays."

You could never be "green with envy" and could never pick bouquets of "violets."

What would the Navy do without "blue?" And brides . . . they could wear something borrowed, but how about something "blue?"

FUN, TRAVEL AND CREDITS

Colleges Sponsor Vacation Tours

Summer can mean a chance to pick up a few hours of college credit—as well as fun and travel — for those Nebraska students and teachers participating in one of the many college-sponsored tours.

From a right-in-your-own-backyard NEBRASKA-land tour to such far away places as Alaska, Hawaii and the capitals of Europe, Nebraskans will be combining travel and learning during their summer "vacation" months.

Starting out early, Blair's Dana College organized a pre-Centennial NEBRASKA-land tour June 3-11, which offered two or three — depending upon study—credit hours in history.

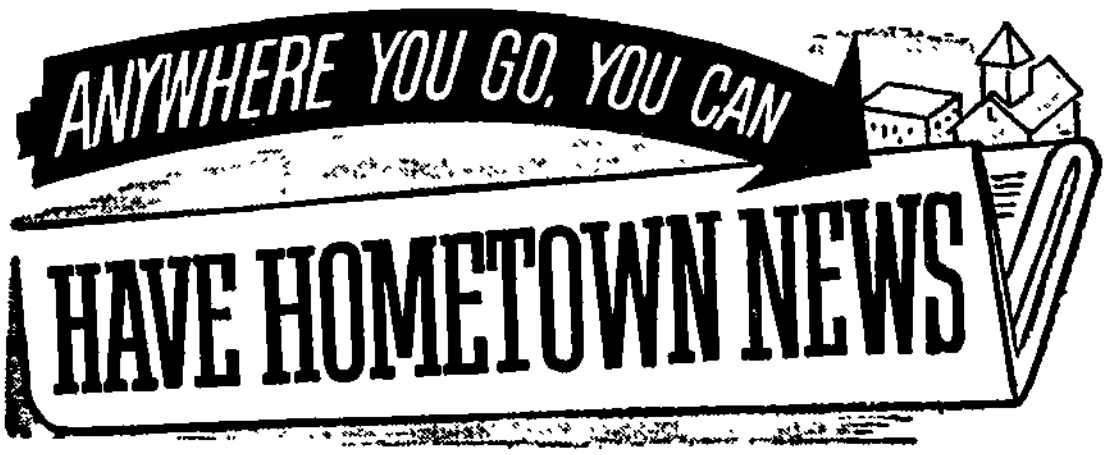
Creighton University students and their families began a two-week tour of Europe June 9. The no-credit trip covered Belgium, Germany, Switzerland, Italy, France and England, bringing them back to Omaha June 30.

Kearney State College is sponsoring a tour of the southern United States and Nassau from July 30-August 20. Open to outsiders as well as Kearney Staters, the trip will be worth three credits in geography.

Participants in Chadron College's July 20-August 11 tour will see Hawaii—via Wyoming, Utah, Idaho, Oregon, California, Arizona and New Mexico — and earn four semester credits in geography as well.

Other tours open to Nebraskans but not sponsored locally include a July 15-August 16 trip through the northwestern United States and Canada to Alaska, sponsored by Northern State College at Aberdeen, S.D.; and a Case Institute of Technology at Cleveland-sponsored tour of 15 countries of Europe. Running from June 25-August 19, the Case tour offers three or six undergraduate credits.

For parents and teachers, the University of Oregon is offering two summer sessions in Ecuador. Running from June 3-August 4 and from June 31-August 31, the courses offer participants four post-graduate college credits.



Just because you are on vacation is no reason to miss any of the news that is happening in Lincoln. Keep up to date on what's happening at the City Hall, State Government, Politics, Sports, Weddings and even the weather.

It's easy—just call us before you leave; tell us when you are going, where you will be and when you will return. We will send the Sunday Journal and Star to your vacation address promptly, each week.

NOTES AND SKETCHES FROM PAUL BROWN'S

Home of Girl Scouts

When in Savannah, Georgia earlier this year, we were privileged to visit the famous Juliette Gordon Low Birthplace at the corner of Oglethorpe and Bull Streets. This beautiful Southern house, built in the 1820's, is a fine example of English Regency architecture. The home, carriage house and garden have been restored to the period of Juliette Gordon Low's girlhood days.

It was here, in 1912, that Juliette Low started the Girl Scout movement in America —after first observing the Boy Scout and Girl Guide work in Scotland.

The property we are visiting is now a national program center owned and operated by the Girl Scouts of the U.S.A. The old carriage house, where the first group of Girl Scouts gathered for its meetings,

Lose a Trick to Win

By HOWARD SCHENKEN AND RICHARD L. FREY

If you can afford to lose a trick in the process of establishing a long card, loser-on-loser play can produce winning results in situations that look impossible at first glance.

A one no trump response to the Big Club shows 9 to 11 high-card points and, like any other positive response, is forcing all the way to game. Thus, there was no need for South to force on the next round, so the "unnecessary" double jump bid of four spades showed a semi-solid suit with just one missing high honor. (An "unnecessary" single jump in this situation shows a completely solid suit.) Armed with this knowledge, North headed for the proper spot — six spades.

On the lead of the club king, the slam seemed at first to hinge on the even-money finesse for the diamond queen, but declarer spotted a different line of play that boosted his chances to 75 per cent.

He won dummy's club ace, cashed the heart ace and entered dummy with the second round of trumps. He then led dummy's heart jack, throwing the club loser from his hand when East did not cover.

Having ruffed West's club return, declarer crossed to the diamond king and led the heart ten from the table, taking the ruffing finesse against East's queen. South thus built a heart trick in a way that took care of both a club and a diamond loser, and made the diamond finesse unnecessary.

OUR LITTLE TOWN

Children Need Free Time to Be Young

By GERTRUDE SKINNER
Ruskin

If you good readers have the impression that all is quiet on the southern front (Nebraska) just forget it.

You know about the lazy, hazy, crazy days of summer? Well, we know very little about the first two but we could write a book on the latter.

If our children are underprivileged it is only because they are over-organized. They could still hear the echoes of the public school bell ringing out the school year when the various Bible school bells started to peal.

Fainter but no less demanding on our youngsters was the call to the library summer clubs, the baseball program, the Red Cross swimming classes, piano and art lessons.

That faintest of sounds? Farm chores.

Is it any wonder that the age old cry of our children has changed from "What can I do today?" to "What do I have to do today?"

I think it behooves we adults to keep our cotton picking hands off the vacation time of our children and let them have time to be just children—to play, to explore the world about them to rest from the rigors of winter study and concentration.

All too soon the years will add adulthood to their schedules: Let's give them some free time to be young.

Double Pay

Standby Dolly Happy

By WILLIAM GLOVER

New York (AP)—Broadway's happiest non-performing headliner is Bibi Osterwald.

As the standby Dolly in "Hello, Dolly!," she's gotten on-stage to do the part just once since the musical wonder opened in January 1964.

But the blithe and breezy Miss Osterwald expresses gratification over the durability of the show's successive stars, Carol Channing and Ginger Rogers. With reason.

Making a virtue of enforced idleness, the actress-singer decided to learn about Wall Street investing and has since done somewhat better than all right.

"I get a good salary, but I thought it would sound better if I could say my income was double that," she reports. "Which is the way things turned out."

The Osterwald conversation gurgles with financial lingo and bristles with tax lore.

Nebraska Skies Exciting

The summer Sky Show at the Mueller Planetarium at Nebraska University's Morrill Hall is entitled "Nebraska Nights." This show begins on June 27 and will run through August 29.

The clear night sky of the Great Plains, known for its great beauty, will supply the setting for exciting visual experiences and for discussions. Meteor showers and the spectacular Aurora Borealis are just a few of the effects that will make the show dramatic viewing. Special emphasis will be placed on the recent Surveyor's success in exploring the moon. The ever popular planetarium thunderstorm is an experience that no one should miss.

The planetarium coordinator, Alan Griesemer, has recently announced that following the sky shows during the summer months, those people wishing to do some "live" star gazing will meet in the mall north of the museum. These outside activities will be conducted by planetarium personnel and will depend upon weather conditions. To take advantage of good viewing temperatures, an additional evening show will be offered at 8 p.m. Thursday, supplementing the Wednesday evening show.

The resulting new summer schedule will include public shows at 8 p.m. on Wednesday and Thursday; daily weekday shows at 2:45 p.m. and shows at 2:30 and 3:45 p.m. on Saturdays, Sundays and holidays.

Planets

Mercury — For about a week following greatest elongation on June 30 it may be seen as an evening star low in the west just after sunset.

Venus — A morning star to be seen low in the east for about two hours before sunrise.

Mars — Too close to the sun for easy observation.

Jupiter — Conjunction is on the 5th, but toward the end of the month it can be seen as a morning star rising about an hour before the sun.

Saturn — Is in Pisces, it rises before midnight and is visible the rest of the night. On the 12th it is stationary in right ascension and begins to retrograde, i.e. move westward among the stars.

Lincolnite Wins Sing Contest

Louis Lawson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Loyal Lawson, 4525 East Eden Drive, was recently a winner of the New York Singing Teacher's Young Artists contest.

Lawson

Since his graduation from the University of Nebraska in 1962, he has been doing advanced study in New York City at the Mannes College, Chatham Square Division.

In the Mannes College Opera Workshop he appeared in the roles of Gil in Wolf-Ferrari's "The Secret of Susanna" and Simeon in Debussy's "L'Enfant Prodigue" and Papageno in Mozart's "The Magic Flute.'

This fall he will join the Goldovsky Opera Theater on its national tour. Also, he has been accepted in the Metropolitan Opera Studio and will perform with them.

Lincoln Symphony History Indexed

Programs and minutes of the Lincoln Symphony Orchestra have been indexed and placed in the Nebraska Historical Society library.

Mr. and Mrs. Mark Pierce compiled program files which were the basis of the history, entitled "A Dream Comes True." The Pierces have been associated with the orchestra since its inception in 1926. The Pierces are native Nebraskans and are proud of the state as their home, Mrs. Pierce said.

"This is an important contribution toward preserving the cultural and social life of Lincoln," said Marvin F. Kivett, society director. "I feel sure this will be referred to frequently by people interested in Nebraska's cultural life."

During the orchestra's 40-year history, a total of 372 performances have been given, including 158 adult Symphony concerts, 138 Symphony concerts for children, 64 artists in recital, and 12 special attractions.

One hundred seventy-nine soloists have appeared with the Symphony, 44 of whom were audition winners.

Assisting the Pierces in completing the file of concerts were Dr. Oscar Ziegenbein, Bernard Nevin, Laurence Tyler, Bertram Ellsworth, Mrs. Alvin Norden, Mrs. D. F. Purvis, Miss Marguerite Klinker, Mrs. Bruce Hazen, Mrs. Roy M. Green and Mrs. Oliver Brown.

JULY 3

Band Will Strike Up

Beginning July 3, the Lincoln Municipal Band will present six consecutive concerts on Sunday evenings at Antelope Park. Concerts will start at 7:30.

Each concert will feature a 30-piece professional band. Instrumental and vocal soloists will be heard, presenting various types of music.

The Lincoln Municipal Band has been organized for over 50 years. In 1960 the band celebrated its 50th anniversary. Director of the band is John Shildneck, who has held this position for over 25 years.

Three of the scheduled concerts will be financed by the city of Lincoln, according to Shildneck. The other three will be financed by the Recording and Transcription Fund of the American Federation of Musicians. The concerts will be presented for the public without charge.

Lincoln Municipal Band will make debut next Sunday.

Robert Frost

Lovers Don't Take Notes

Interviews With Robert Frost. Edited by Edward Connery Lathem; Holt, Rinehart and Winston.

"You never take notes in a love affair," Robert Frost once told author-critic Cecil Day Lewis in differentiating between the methods of scholars and poets. Where the scholar seeks his material with deliberateness, the poet uses "things he didn't know he was getting when he was getting them."

In this fine volume Edward Connery Lathem, associate librarian of Dartmouth College, gives us more than 50 of the poet's encounters with interviewers from 1915 until his death in 1963. Frost's love affair with the sound of words is evident throughout.

One learns much about the man from these public utterances for Frost opened up in most quotable terms to both journalists and broadcasters on a wide range of topics. Each piece, of course, is colored by the impressions of the interviewer; each becomes a separate brush stroke in the portrait of Frost this book affords.

The consistency with which certain traits are mentioned by the various interviewers is noteworthy. There are no bizarre clashes evident in the man's manner or thought. This is not to imply vapidity; quite the contrary. Frost was a man of firm convictions and pungent ideas. Such concord by his interviewers rather points up the personal honesty which Frost treasured in both life and art. He was himself with all men.

Ever the unorthodox teacher, he hated academic ways and lamented "the talent we starve with academic teaching." Colleges, he felt, should be "factories for turning out self-starters" and his method with students was to "rumple their brains, fondly." Literature courses were for readers, he said. "Writers should take history, science, philosophy."

He decried catagorizing students and felt it wrong to separate the sheep from the goats too early. "Let them run together for a good long while . . . You've got to leave something to accident and not try to regiment young people so much."

Robert Frost . . . enamored with the sound of words.

His greatest enjoyment was conversation and he held religion, science and gossip as the greatest things in life. "The biggest of all is gossip—our friendly interest in each other."

He spoke of God, believed in man and designed to be called religious. "The one thing I consider a curse," he said, "is to be an agnostic. Don't say, 'We don't know.' We know a hell of a lot."

The way to live is to do what you want to do, he observed. "My life has been all holidays, whether it has been work or play."

The book's value transcends the Frost revealed in it. There is the matter of the interviews themselves, some by college students, some by old pros of the literary supplements. Of these, a few are jewels in their own right. Others so miss the point as to draw an occasional caustic rebuke from the poet.

Some of the most worthwhile are broadcast interviews by capable questioners. Here the reader is delighted by the spontaneous interplay of ideas from intelligent, sensitive minds, particularly a BBC chat between Lewis and Frost.

In all, here is a book that is a pleasure to recommend unreservedly.

Second Percy Novel Rich, Offbeat Retake

The Last Gentleman. By Walker Percy. Farrar, Straus & Giroux.

The publication five years ago of Percy's first novel, "The Moviegoer," won for him, a dark-horse contender, the National Book Award. That high standard is in effect a high hurdle, and Percy is no longer a dark horse. If he falters at the high jump, as I think he does, still this is an off beat novel of a curious appeal: it reminds you of the first, but it is an expansion of it, or a richer retake.

Percy

Binx Bolling in the other novel was a man around 30 making a "dark pilgrimage on this earth." Williston Bibb Barrett in the new novel, about the same age, is also on a pilgrimage.

Each man comes of a family or environment — the setting is mainly Southern—represented as going to seed; each man is undependable in a crisis, and each man is on a search for something he can't rightly define or fleeing from something he doesn't wholly understand.

Binx went to the movies. Barrett plays with an expensive telescope. The telescope is an ironic stage property for someone whose constant complaint is that he has seen all. He is lethargic, he is bored.

It is a pleasure to credit Percy with being a writer, that unique and irreplaceable creature who, among other peculiar characteristics, can see, hear, touch, and smell things to which the ordinary run of mortal is dumbly insensitive. What seems to us inconsequential is developed by the skillful Percy into the essential stuff of being.

I wonder whether after all the more interesting character, as between Percy and Percy's books, is not Percy himself? In Binx Bolling and again in Barrett — unless it is more truly in Percy—there is a misfit in our harried, feverish, absurd times, in which the only public and certifiable quality is certainty and cocksureness.

Doubt is a sort of sin, and a man not sure of himself is not a man at all. At moments Percy runs on a little too long, but from the time when he carries us back to the Southland, which along with its people he knows so well, there is not a superfluous page.

Jottings

"The Passover Plot" by Hugh J. Schonfield (Geis) may be the most controversial book of the season. The book develops the theme that Jesus deliberately faked his death and resurrection and did not die on the cross.

Other titles in the religious line include "Mary Baker Eddy, the Years of Discovery" by Robert Peel (Holt, Rinehart & Winston) and McGraw-Hill's "Billy Graham" by John Pollack and "Mission to Rome" by Pope John XXIII.

Books for the Young

Adults and children alike can learn to grow a tiny garden in a bottle cap or grow grass on a sponge—an appealing thought now that we face defeat in our somewhat larger back yard—in "The Indoor and Outdoor Grow-It Book" by Sam Sinclair Baker (Random House).

A paperback, "Science in Your Own Backyard" by Elizabeth Cooper (Voyager), opens with the terrific suggestion to run outside and lie down. The intriguing first chapter is entitled "Exploring the Yard on Your Stomach."

This stimulating book for 10- to 14-year-olds tells how to set up a back-yard laboratory with ordinary household equipment and a $3 hand-lens magnifying glass. Mothers would be wise to have this on hand when the novelty of vacation wears thin.

Youngsters can be on the alert for a common butterfly described in "The Travels of Monarch X," by Ross E. Hunter (Rand McNally). This is the provocative story of a 2,000-mile flight by a monarch which was tagged and released by a scientist at the University of Toronto and caught four months later by a boy in Mexico.

The book invites its readers to write for a supply of numbered tags so that they can join in the research on migration and flight patterns.

Another eye-opener is "How To Be a Nature Detective," by Millicent Selsam (Harper & Row), a book which should add considerable interest to walks in the woods, along the beach or in a park. This simple reader for 6 to 10-year-olds shows how tracks and other clues can help you identify animals.

20th Century, Here We Are!

The New People. By Edith Iglauer; Doubleday.

"Damn the igloos and the sled dogs and full speed ahead" into modern times by the mystifying, often frozen Eskimo.

On their motorized Skidoos and Autoboggans, with their canneries, radios, fresh oranges and their almost unbelievable co-op movement Eskimos of today are a far cry from the blubber-gnawing "savage" you may have read about 20-30 years ago.
